So They Put Them Down.
That "Genuine" Scotch.
Good Health, Mr. Baker.
Chapman, Arch Criminal.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

The little stocks drooped Thursday, and the stock exchange reminded you of the doormouse's watch at the mad hatter's tea party. Nothing seemed to please it.

One of the Wabash stocks that have bankrupted many a man solemnly declared a 5 per cent dividend. And prices broke worse than ever.

"All right," says the big fellows, "if we can't put them up, we'll put them down." So they put them down. They know how to make money both ways. You don't. That's why you shouldn't gamble.

Are you buying some of the "genuine Scotch" now peddled and storing it inside your mucus membrane?

Seventeen manufacturers of "Scotch" whisky have been arrested in Germany. They have copied Scotch bottles and labels perfectly. Heaven knows what the whisky is like.

The German government arrested them for imitating British trademarks, and interfering with British bootleg profits among the Yankees.

George F. Baker, one of the four richest men in the world, Henry Ford, Rockefeller and Mellon being the other three, celebrates his eighty-fifth birthday today.

To live 85 years is nothing. Millions do it. Turtles live 500 years, and whales even longer.

Mr. Baker interests you, because, at 85, he is actually doing the work of 10 men.

He is the ruling power, absolute czar in dozens of the nation's biggest railroad and industrial enterprises. One little item in his daily routine, for instance, is control of the great railroad system built up by the old working Vanderbilts. To be able to do that work at 85 means something.

Speeches in the house of commons and the house of lords will go out, on the air, for all of Great Britain to hear by radio. The appropriate remark would be: "This solves the bedtime story and will put all England to sleep." The fact is that the best speeches in the English language are made in the house of commons, where they fight things out on the floor, instead of "trading" them out in committee rooms.

The murder trial now absorbing the American intellect is that of Chapman, romantically described as the "arch criminal and brigand."

What would interest civilization in this case, I fthere were any civilization to be interested, is the history back of this criminal. He began in crime an undersized, underfed, mentally and physically starved little Irish boy. When they caught him in his first theft, they sent him to the university of crime, which is the prison.

In one penitentiary and then another, he took post-graduate courses. His present notoriety is the result.

With a decent courage and resourcefulness that now frighten the police, and cause them to keep this criminal heavily chained, might have made a useful and successful man of him. The same steel can be made into a plow or a dagger.

The French are cheerful, and the English exultant, over the excellent prospect of reaching an agreement on security among nations. Austen Chamberlain's speech seems to have started something in the right direction.

But the French are worried about their constantly falling birth rate. Last year new French babies outnumbered French deaths by only 72,216. The year before the increase was 95,000.

As far as safety goes, however, France needn't worry. The millions that used to be needed for "cannon fodder" are needed no longer. Great caterpillar-like armies of crawling infantry will be replaced by a few thousand fighters in the air. Fifty such men as the great Guynemere could demoralize an army of a million and kill one-third of it.

A lady of Spokane demands a divorce because her husband at breakfast milked a goat directly into his cup of cofee. He keeps the goat in the house. The lady declares that such "table manners" could not be endured by any person of refinement.

"Other times, other manners." Eve would have thought it very clever had Adam done exactly the same thing.

The wealth of this country is now figured at $330,000,000,000, which means three hundred and thirty times one thousand million dollars. That amounts to only $2,900 for each inhaibitant, which is, of course, ridiculously little. The population would bring more than that if all the people could be sold as slaves at their fair value as money earners.

Any one of the 48 states, full developed, would be worth more than $330,000,000,000. Alaska is worth more than that in mineral wealth alone.

ONE KILLED, FOUR HURT AS FIRE DAMAGES LOOP HOSPITAL IN CHICAGO

Issue Last Call For German Marks Of Old Vintage

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The last call went out for German marks—old vintage—today.

A cablegram to the department of commerce said the German government had announced the marks may be presented for redemption on or before June 5.

Marks should be presented in bundles of 10 billion each and are redeemable at one trillion marks to the Renter mark.

Illinois Officials Order Rigid Investigation of Fatal Blaze in Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Institution.

PATIENT FOUND TRAPPED IN ROOM

Lives of Many Convalescents and Nurses Endangered as Flames Spread Rapidly Thru Four-story Building.

CHICAGO, Mar. 28.—State fire officials today ordered a rigid investigation of the fatal fire which early today damaged the Chicago Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat hospital in the loop, cost the life of one patient, caused severe injuries to three women and another man and endangered lives of 10 patients and as many nurses.

P. J. Regan, 64, a steam fitter was the victim of the flames. He had been a patient at the hospital since March 10 and undergone an operation on his eyes yesterday. His head was swathed in bandages, which completely blinded him. He was trapped in his room by the fire which spread so rapidly through the old four-story structure that the occupants were forced to flee in their night clothing.

Regan was found by firemen in his room, beating with his bare hands against the burning walls and groping blindly for the door. He was hurried outside but had enhaled so much smoke and gas he died within a short time.

Nurses Rescue Patients.

The fire broke out in the basement shortly after midnight and swept rapidly up the elevator shaft, spreading over the four floors of the building.

Miss Margaret Kilgoe, a nurse, and Mrs. Agnes West, superintendent, aided firemen carry several patients down fire escapes to safety, Mrs. West desisting in her rescue work only when firemen forced her to quit and carried her out of the burning building.

The third and fourth floors of the hospital were destroyed and the first two floors damaged.

WAR VETERAN SLAYS WOMAN AS BABY PLAYS

Eternal Triangle is Blamed for Axe Murder.

ADMITS CRIME

Unwelcome Suitor Kills Sister-in-law in New York.

NEW YORK, March, 28.—A tragedy, grim in its romance and brutal in its execution, was confessed today by Eugene Cassinelli, 27, according to the police when he admitted killing his young sister-in-law, Mrs. Amelia Cassinelli with an axe while her two-year-old baby played happily on the floor of her apartment last night.

The eternal triangle, police declared, was responsible for the act.

The woman's husband was Daniel Cassinelli, who worked by day. The unwelcome suitor was Eugene, his brother, who worked at night in a bakery, police said.

Eugene and Daniel were soldiers in the 26th division of the A. E. F. in Italy during the war, the laughing black eyes of a pretty native girl attracted them both. She was Amelia. It was a matter of considerable doubt to Amelia which brother she loved the more. But she married Daniel.

Visits Victim's Flat.

The war over, all three returned to the United States.

Eugene could not forget that he once was Amelia's suitor. She told her husband of his attentions and the brother ordered him from his home.

Daniel threatened to beat him, Eugene said. He said Daniel feared Amelia might go away with him, he told police, so he went to her little flat last night while Daniel was away. He pleaded. He implored. He threatened. Neighbors heard screams. They found Mrs. Cassinelli dead, her baby nearby, crying. Eugene had fled. Police caught him.

Rev. B. R. Johnson Will be Speaker at Ministers' Meeting

Rev. Bert. R. Johnson, pastor of the First Church of Christ, will give a description of the damage done by the tornado which swept sections of Indiana and Illinois last week, at a meeting of the Ministerial Association in the Y. M. C. A. at 10 o'clock Monday morning. Rev. Mr. Johnson has just returned from Indiana where he attended the funeral of his sister-in-law who was killed in the storm.

BIBLE BILL BACKERS, 'TRICKED,' THEY CHARGE, PLAN TO RESUME FIGHT

Dangerous Fires Smoulder in Ashes of Hopes of Buchanan Measure Supporters as They are Defeated in Senate.

REFORM FORCES FOR NEXT MEET

Pet Proposals are Crushed as Penalty for Hold-up of Religious Legislation in Rules Committee.

COLUMBUS, Mar. 28.—Dangerous fires were smouldering among the ashes of the hopes of backers of the "reform" bloc Buchanan Bible Bill when tired legislators dragged themselves wearily off to bed at 3:35 o'clock this morning—with the two houses in technical "five minute" recess which will last until April 16.

Klan backers of the Bible bill were beaten, perhaps temporarily, but they went down fighting in a two hour informal wrangle on the senate floor and in senate corridors after the senate had recessed. "Tricked", they said, at the last minute in their persistent attempt to force their pet measure through the senate. They will resume the fight to force passage of the Bible bill when the legislature returns April 16. This agreement was reported in one of the strangest informal meetings of the senate chamber has ever seen after backers of the Bible bill, insistent that they be given another chance to pass their bill, had been prevailed upon to reform their lines during the three weeks' recess and make their last fight when the senate comes back to work.

"Bad Faith" Is Charged.

Groups of senators milled back and forth across the floor for nearly two hours after the senate had recessed and some of the members had left, only to be later recalled. Groups formed and reformed as members, their brains numbed by the 17-hour strain of the last day's session, attempted to chart a clear course through which the Bible bill could be steered to victory. The palaver ended with agreement to defer action until April 16.

When the fight opens again the "reform" group, mustering 20 votes, a clear majority of the senate and sufficient to pass the bill, will be forced to capture four additional votes to

PET BUILDING PLANS CRUSHED

State Institutions Hit as Appropriations are Slashed.

COLUMBUS, Mar. 28.—Pet building projects of a number of state institutions were scuttled and $2,200,000 was clipped from the appropriations for new highway constructions when the two houses of the legislature reached final agreement early today on the general appropriation bill.

Definite appropriations carried in the measure, as finally passed by both houses, after members of the joint conference committee labored for five hours on the measure, aggregated $65,350,000. To this must be added appropriation of the state's share of the proceeds of the auto tag fees and the gasoline tax—about $9,000,000—bringing the total appropriations for the biennium, including some $3,500,000 in the three supplemental appropriation bills and the Sundry claims bill, to $78,000,000.

Conferees clipped $3,500,000 from the total of the bill as it was reported by the senate finance committee and passed by the senate.

They also eliminated the clause which Governor Donahey had threatened to veto—which would take from the governor final decision on allocation

Condemned Slayer Hears Radio Song As he Awaits Fate

PITTSBURGH, March 28.—The soothing melody of "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" broke the regular jazz program of Station WCAE here last night in answer to the request of "Pistol Pete" Henry Jackson, condemned murderer.

Jackson listened on the county jail radio set as the song was broadcast then went to bed. He was taken today to Rockview penitentiary where he will be electrocuted Monday.

COUNCIL HITS BUILDERS FOR CLOSING WALKS

Propose Ordinance Calling for Overhead Protection.

PAVING URGED

Plan Renewal of Campaign for Repair of Sidewalks.

Closing of sidewalks in the business district while new structures are in the course of construction will be prohibited, if an ordinance, authorized by council, is adopted by the municipal legislative body at its next meeting.

The proposal will require contractors, erecting business buildings, to construct roofed sidewalks as a protection to pedestrians instead of closing the walks entirely and requiring pedestrians to use the streets.

Solon Thomas Farrall called council's attention last night to the sidewalk at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets, which he asserted had been closed since last summer. Neighboring business men, he declared were objecting to the sidewalk being kept closed and, furthermore he asserted, the lives of pedestrians were endangered as they are forced to walk in the street. A fence, erected in front of ruins of one of the fire-swept Fifth street buildings extends a foot beyond the curb stone, he said.

Plan to Enforce Order.

"Contractors in cities are not permitted to close the sidewalks without making some other arrangement for people to walk and wes hould not be compelled to stand for such a practice here," he declared.

By a unanimous vote council ordered Solicitor Brokaw to prepare an ordinance, requiring the construction of temporary sidewalks in the business district, and have it ready for consideration at the next meeting.

Declaring that many property hold-

BISHOP SPEAKS AT M. E. MEET IN CITY AFTER COUNTY TOUR

Rt. Rev. Theodore Henderson Guest at Wellsville Dinner.

MEETS PASTORS

Contribution of $175 for Tornado Sufferers is Made.

Rt. Rev. Theodore Henderson, bishop of the Cincinnati area of the Methodist Episcopal church, who spoke in the First Methodist Episcopal church, Fifth and Jackson streets, at 7:30 o'clock last evening, was greeted by a crowd that taxed the capacity of the auditorium.

Henderson's visit marked his final meeting of the day in Columbiana county. He attended conferences of ministers and church leaders at Lisbon yesterday morning and afternoon and went to Wellsville for dinner at 6 o'clock.

He was accompanied by Dr. J. B. Caldwell, a member of the Genesee conference New York, but who has been engaged in missionary work in China for several years. Dr. Caldwell is one of the 25 Methodist missionaries in foreign countries who were recently withdrawn because of the lack of funds to support them. He spoke on the subject "Evangelistic Work in the China Fields," telling of the need for missionary work in the Far East countries.

Spends Night Here.

Dr. Frank G. Fowler, pastor of the church, presided. He presented Dr. H. S. Powell, district superintendent, of the Steubenville district, who introduced Dr. Caldwell and afterwards Bishop Henderson.

Bishop Henderson discussed the world service program and then took up the subject of personal work in the local church in the way of evangelism. A free will collection for the tornado sufferers, netted $175. The money will be turned over to the local Red Cross chapter. The congregational singing was led by Prof. H. F. Laughlin.

Bishop Henderson, who was a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Taylor, of the Park Boulevard over night, left this morning for Cleveland. He will speak at Akron, Sunday morning, and at Canton Sunday even-

Dr. J. D. Whitacomb, of Cleveland, will conduct services in the St. Stephen's Episcopal church Sunday morning and evening, in the absence of Rev. Lionel C. Difford, rector, who is recovering from a physical breakdown at Mt. Clemens, Mich.

Prof. Albert E. Clark, organist and choirmaster at the church, will give a 25-minute organ recital, beginning at 7:05 o'clock, preceding the evening preaching service. This will be the fifth number of the series of Lenten organ recitals to be presented by Prof. Clark. The program follows:

"Melody in F"..... Rubinstein
"God So Loved the World" (Crucifiction) ..... Stainer
"O Star of Eve" (Tannhauser)..... Wagner
"Pilgrims Chorus" (Tannhauser)..... Wagner

200 Guests Attend Laughlin China Co. Indoor Picnic

About 200 guests attended the indoor picnic given at the Y. M. C. A. last evening by employes of the East End plants of the Homer Laughlin China company, members of their families and friends.

The athletic events began at 7:45 o'clock and were concluded at 9 o'clock. The decorators twice defeated the foremen in the volleyball contests.

A musical program was presented between 9 and 9:40 o'clock. This was followed by refreshments served in the banquet hall on the second floor of the building.

The picnic was arranged by the shop service committee, co-operating with the industrial department of the Y. M. C. A.

REV. A. L. DUNCAN SHOP SPEAKER

Rev. A. L. Duncan, pastor of the Avondale Street Free Methodist church, will be the speaker at the noon-day shop meeting to be held in the American Vitrified Products company's plant, East End Monday. Harold Allison will act as leader.

POTTERS WILL ATTEND PICNIC AT IDORA PARK

Annual Outing at Youngstown Resort on June 6.

PLAN PROGRAM

Labor Chieftain and Gov. Donahey Invited to Speak.

Idora Park, Youngstown, has been selected as the place for the annual outing which the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters will hold on Saturday, June 6, it was announced today.

Pottery workers from East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester, Newell, Sebring, Steubenville, Salineville, New Castle, Canonsburg, Kittanning, East Palestine, Wheeling, Salem, Niles, Alliance and other nearby places will attend the outing. The Youngstown resort was selected because it was the most centrally located.

The management of the park has agree to check picnic baskets without charge and to co-operate with the committee in making the affair a red letter day. All potteries will suspend operations for the day.

Excursion trains or electric cars will be operated to Youngstown from all pottery centers. The park has accommodations for 5,000 automobiles for those who elect to make the trip by motor.

The program committee will invite William Green of Coshocton, president of the American Federation of Labor; Governor A. V. Donahey and other notables to attend the reunion and to make addresses. A committee, consisting of William Ashbaugh, William Watkin and Joseph Dickey, will look after the sports end of the affair, which will be the first brotherhood picnic in 10 years.

Representatives of approximately 40 local have been invited to attend a meeting at the N. B. of O. P. headquarters, Sixth street, tonight to discuss further plans for the outing.

DONAHEY VETOES FARNSWORTH BILL

COLUMBUS, March 28.—Gov. Donahey today vetoed the Fransworth bill seeking to provide competition for construction of bridge superstructures by counties.

Council Hits

ers failed to heed council's orders to lay sidewalks last summer, Councilman Kerr urged that steps be taken early this spring to force the construction of walks along main thoroughfares. He asserted that many sidewalks were laid last year, but there are still many places where the improvement is needed. As soon as the weather permits, the city will start to lay the sidewalks in front of property where the owners refused to carry out the council order.

A delegation of Shadyside avenue and Campground road residents appeared before council to urge the improvement of the 2,100 feet of roadway from Jethro to connect with the new paved road in the township. The road is in such deplorable condition that physicians refuse to answer a sick call after dark, it was declared. Council voted to view the road at an early date.

Requests for Improvements.

August Palmisano appeared before council with a request for permission to cross Peach alley with a switch to connect with the new warehouse of the Liverpool Produce company in Second street. The request was referred to the street committee for investigation.

A committee of Harker avenue residents, seeking a sewer to parallel Pennsylvania avenue, attended the meeting. Upon recommendation of the street committee, council will visit the scene of the proposed improvement.

The request for an extension of the water mains in Gardendale was referred to the service director for action after a committee spoke to council. The request from a Laura avenue property owner to close an alley leading from Laura avenue to Bradshaw avenue was refused.

Hugh Thorn, a member of the Carnegie library board, asked council to speed legislation necessary to roof the library building. An $800 appropriation for this purpose was made by council early in the year.

James Martin of East End opposed the resurfacing of Mulberry street south of the railroad crossing. He was informed that the legislation had already been started and that council shall proceed with the improvement.

20-Foot Street Proposal.

A petition from residents of Spring Grove avenue asking that the grade be established and the street opened was referred to the street committee.

An offer from Mrs. George Murphy to sell the city sufficient ground to provide a 20-foot street from Claiborne avenue to West Ninth street, was referred to the street committee, which will coinfer with the Y. & O. railroad officials. It is claimed that property owners of Claiborne avenue are unable to reach their homes with a vehicle.

A resolution declaring it necessary to improve St. Clair avenue from Young's alley to the north line of the Croxall property by surfacing was passed on first reading. Councilmen Chambers, Farrall, Kerr and Larcombe blocked an attempt to suspend the rules and pass the resolution on second reading.

Councilman Raymond Chambers reported an offer had been made to lease a small piece of city property near Race street, East End, by a party who wished to erect a filling station and provide a waiting station for street car patrons. Council deferred action on the request until it is formally presented to council.

Seek City Lot Lease Bids

Solicitor Brokaw was instructed to prepare a petition, to be signed by members of council and other city officials, which will direct the county auditor to place the delinquent street improvement assessments on the taxation duplicate for collection next December. In East Liverpool, there is said to be more than $100,000 in delinquent assessments, many of which have been standing for 20 years or more.

An ordinance to provide bonds for the improvement of Fifth street, Oak street, Carson alley and Fawcett street in anticipation of the collection of special assessments was passed on three readings. Another ordinance authorizing the service director to lease the city lot in West Sixth street to the higest bidder for a period not to exceed two yeras and at a rental fee not less than $2,000, was also passed on three readings. Councilman Thomas Farrall opposed the ordinance on second and third readings, expressing the opinion that there was no need of "rushing" the legislation. The present lease on the lot expires April 15 and the new ordinance provides for its lease for another period of two years under the same terms that it has been rented during the last two years.

Supervisor for Dumping Ground.

At the request of Sanitary Officer D. J. McKeever the solons voted to co-operate with the school board and the board of health in the employment of a supervisor to care for the dump ground at Patterson field. Council, it is said, has an offer from a man who is asking no salary to look after the work. Council also took steps to halt the dumping operations along the Park way road in the vicinity of Race street.

The street committee recommended that the Pennsylvania railroad company be forced to repair the crossing at the foot of Market street. The committee also recommended that William Devon be granted a long term lease on the ground at the corner of Sugar street and Thompson avenue. Devon has promised to fence this property, erect a wall and provide a sidewalk if council will grant the lease. The ground at this point is said to be steep and the city would be liable to damages in case of an accident.

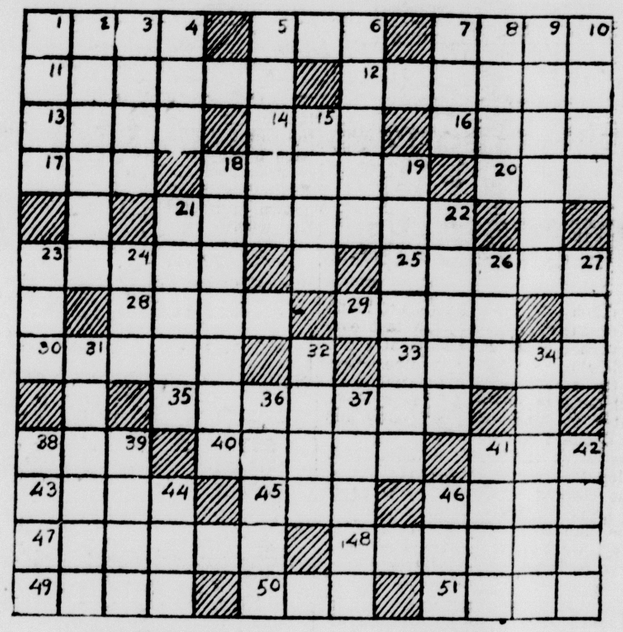

Improvement of Modoc alley, Etna alley, Springdale street and Smithfield street by construction of sanitary sewers was recommended. It was also urged that Denver street be scraped and ashed.

Australia's new aircraft factory is expected to turn out 150 airplanes the first year.

How to Solve Puzzle.

The best way to solve this cross-word puzzle is to run over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms in search of evident or "easy" words. If horizontal, the word you are looking for must extend crosswise from the number to the first shaded stop on the right; if vertical, it must extend downward from the number to the first shaded stop below. When finished, the words should read equally well crosswise and downward.

Bible Bill Backers

force their bill out of senate rules committee for a vote on the floor, the needed motion for suspension of the rules requiring a two-thirds vote of the senate for adoption.

The whole course of the last day's session of the legislature, which opened at 9 o'clock Friday morning, and ended at 2:15 o'clock this morning, was rocked repeatedly by the Bible bill. Pet measures of leaders of the legislature went down to defeat while Klan backers wrecked their vengeance for the hold-up of the Bible bill in senate rules committee. Other measures were hopelessly lost in the legislative shuffle. Friendship were strained, charges of "steam roller," "trickery," "broken agreements," "bad faith" were flung about. Legislative action for 17 hours revolved around the bill.

Klan Filibuster.

The Klan filibuster broke out into the open when the senate rules committee, by a vote of 4 to 4, ignored the Bible bill on the last calendar. Senate backers of the bill at once moved to force the measure out of committee, but their motion to suspend the rules to permit a motion to force the bill upon the floor, with a vote of 20 to 11, lacked four votes of the two-thirds required. The filibuster was continued intermittently during the night.

At 2:15 o'clock this morning, the "reform" group themselves helped to knife the bill, when they supported a motion by Republican Leader Gardener for a "five-minute" recess. A few minutes later they found the recess was to continue for three minutes. Backers of the bill saw "red." The two-hour wrangle on the floor began. At times it looked as if they would force the senate to come back to work. In the end they agreed to wait until April 16 when the senate will return to consider the remainder of the third reading calendar and it will be possible to make the parliamentary moves needed for a showdown on the Bible bill.

While the fight lasted, threats were made and carried out to kill pet senate bills. It broke out into the open on the house floor when Speaker Silver held against Bible devotees who wanted to recess to watch the fight in the senate. Disorder reigned.

Threats of Reprisal.

Republican Leader Taft moved to clear the air, ordering a call of the house. Taft took the floor. Where there had been hubbub, one could have heard a pin drop.

"Word has come to me," Taft began, "that certain members of this house have taken it upon themselves to decree that all senate bills shall be voted down unless the senate agrees to considerable of the Bible bill. This assembly came here with a definite program and agreed upon a definite schedule of action. I want to know now whether the house desires to abandon this program and adjourn or complete our program."

Taft moved the regular order be continued. The house supported him, 64 to 46. The "reform" group had lost again.

Tension, however, seemed to grow. Feeling reached a climax later in the night when Representative George H. Roberts, Youngstown, rushed into the senate chamber, seized a long pole and pushed the minute hand of the big clock ahead five minutes, to indicate the five-minute recess had ended. Supporters of the bill shouted threats of reprisal from back of the senate rail, aimed apparently at no one in particular.

But the legislators were too worn out to continue the siege too long. They straggled off to bed, leaving the senate in its "five-minute recess" which is to continue for three weeks. The fight over the Bible bill smouldered, to break out again when the senate reconvenes April 16.

Bishop Speaks

ing. Dr. Caldwell returned to his home near Buffalo, N. Y., today.

Speaks in Lisbon.

The pre-Easter evangelistic campaign in the First M. E. church will continue Sunday and throughout next week. At the Sunday morning service, Dr. Fowler will speak on the subject "A New Heart" and Sunday evening on "Keeping Step."

"There are some half-baked Americans and some half-baked Methodists who only think of one language, and never give a thought to the saving of the souls of those who do not speak their own language," declared Bishop Henderson, during an address at a county conference of the official boards in the Lisbon church yesterday afternoon.

"There are 20,000 souls in the Steubenville district that will have to be looked after by the people of this church in this district," he said. "I'm one of those fellows who can't contribute to the relief of those of other nations while we have people right in our own midst who need succor. We have got to get out and help those in the Steubenville or the Cleveland district, and those in the mountains of Kentucky, where they eat and sleep as many as eleven in one room."

Need More Missionaries.

He related many incidents where Methodists were doing excellent work along this line, but the need of more teachers and missionaries in both the home and foreign field is greater now than ever, he said.

"Get this picture!" he exclaimed. "There are 175,000 people in one group in India knocking at the door of the Methodist Episcopal church to learn more about Christ, and we've been compelled to close the door. We have not the people to send there to teach and to help those whose souls are craving for the Gospel of Christ."

WALES' PARTY OFF TO AFRICA

Crowds Cheer as Prince Begins His 25,000 Mile Trip.

LONDON, March 28. — Edward, Prince of Wales, set off today on this 25,000-mile trip to two continents, Africa and South America, as the "ambassador of the British Empire."

A night of dancing and supping furnished his last gayety at home. A throng of Londoners crowded the streets to see him off for Portsmouth, where a regally fitted battleship waited for his cruise, and a staff of retainers and servants went with him to make the trip smooth.

Twenty-one cooks, stewards and waiters will prepare and serve H. R. H.'s meals. Two valets and eight servants will attend the personal wants of the prince and his party, which includes six officers of his staff. Confidential clerks will conduct his personal and official business and a special marine band will provide music aboard H. M. S. Repulse.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Mar. 28.—The stock market was extremely dull and price trends were downward today. Trading dwindled to an unusually small volume in the first hour. Opening prices were mixed, with Baldwin, General Electric and some of the oil stocks higher, while Northern Pacific, General Motors and United States Steel were down from a fraction to a full point. The market was practically lifeless in the first period and stocks wandered about aimlessly with prices gradually sagging to lower levels.

Industrial stocks leaders were pushed up a point or two at the opening but plenty of stock was available at theh igher levels and declines immediately set in. The brilliant movement in Pan-American, which closed Friday's session was nowhere in evidence. Some buying in specialty stocks and industrials accounted for moderate spurts in prices in a few of these stocks. Bullis sentiment was in evidence in the buying of the motor stocks and independent steel stocks with Gulf States and Crucible the most prominent in the latter group.

U. S. Steel lost ½ point at the opening and the bulk of sales in the first hour were made at prices below 117, compared to Friday's close at 117¾.

The forward movement in the shipping stocks carried Atlantic Gulf and Marine preferred to slightly higher levels and the mercantile stocks, including Macey and Beechnut packing made good responses to reports of good current retail trade. Railroad stocks were inactive and generally lower though Chicago nad Northwestern regained a little more of this week's losses.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Mrs. Sara Jane Plant, in loving memory of our dear mother who was taken away three years ago today, March 28, 1922.

What happy days we once enjoyed
When we were all together.
But, Oh, it all is now.
Since you have gone forever.
You fought life's battles bravely,
And patiently stood every test,
And you always be known and remembered,
Because you were one of the best.

ACCEPT BOOKS FOR REST ROOM

Miss Elsie Berg was hostess to members of the Wellsville Twentieth Century club yesterday afternoon at her home in Tenth and Center streets.

Members responded to roll call with quotations from Josephine Dascom Bacon.

During the business session the club voted thanks to the Pennsylvania Railroad company for bookcases and books given by the company to the community rest rooms in the city hall, sponsored by the club. Flowers were sent to Mrs. E. L. McGarey, member of the club, who is ill.

Mrs. R. H. Alby sang two songs, accompanied by Mrs. Oliver Cummings.

Discussion on writers were as follows: James Branch Cabell, by Mrs. Naomi Forner; Rupert Hughes, Miss Carrie Southwick; Dorothy Canfield Fisher, Mrs. J. M. Darbaker.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Friday, April 10, at the home of Mrs. D. S. Morrison, Riverside avenue.

HIGHS CONCLUDE COURT SCHEDULE

Wellsville and Mingo Junction high school basketball teams are still on even terms, so far as court victories are concerned, as a result of last night's engagements on the Mingo floor.

The Wellsville girl's team, playing a fast brand of basketball, captured a hard fought contest from the Mingo girls by the score of 18 to 10.

Coach Zimmerman's boys, however, found themselves on the short end of a 26 to 24 count in the main clash, the home five winning the decision in the closing minutes.

Last night's contests rang the curtain down on the Orange and Black cage schedule for 1925.

Georgia Weekley led the Wellsville scorers in the girls' game, caging six field goals and four fouls for 16 of the sextet's points. Varnia and Hogenmiller performed well at centers while the great defensive playing of Foley and Moore kept the Mingo field scoring to three goals.

H. Dickey led the scoring for the boys with three two-pointers and as many fouls. Guard Scholl dropped in two double deckers.

The Wellsville passers led practically all the way, only to have victory snatched from their grasp in the closing minutes. A one-point margin, favoring the Orange and Black, separated the teams at the half. The score at that point was 15-14. Banks put up a good game at guard for the locals while Haesho, Scanlon and Ables starred for the winners.

BISHOP SPEAKS TO BIG AUDIENCE

Climaxing one of the most successful meetings of its kind held in the church in recent years, Bishop Theodore Henderson, in charge of the Ohio-Kentucky area of the Methodist Episcopal church, last night delivered an address to several hundred persons in the local church.

Bishop Henderson, after attending meetings in Lisbon in the afternoon, was a guest of the local church at a 5 o'clock dinner in the church basement.

Accompanying Bishop Henderson was Missionary Caldwell, who recently returned from a charge in China.

Approximately 200 persons attended the dinner which was served by members of the Epworth league. An attractive color scheme of pink and green was carried out in the decorations.

Missionary Caldwell discussed conditions in China in a short talk prior to Bishop Henderson's address.

Bishop Henderson spoke from the theme, "Live a Christian Life." He urged his hearers to appear honest before the Lord and to live a spiritual life.

After his address here Bishop Henderson went to East Liverpool for a meeting in the Methodist church.

Miss Falconer Hostess.

Miss Margaret Falconer was hostess to members of the Fortnightly club Thursday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. F. Campbell, Highland avenue. Fancywork was the chief diversion. Luncheon was served by the hostess. The next meeting of the club will be held in two weeks.

MISSIONARY TO LECTURE HERE

Miss Ruth Work, a missionary of the United Presbyterian church, in Egypt, will deliver an address on Tuesday evening, March 31, at 7:30 o'clock, in the First United Presbyterian church here.

Miss Work is coming to the local church as a guest of the Women's Missionary society.

COLUMBINE CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. John Dash was hostess to members of the Columbine club last evening at her home in Nevada street.

Following the regular business session the club observed a social hour. Luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. William Dalby and Mrs. Leonard Altier.

Guests of the club included Mrs Wesley Maner and Mrs. Altier.

The contest prize was awarded to Mrs. Lena Workman.

The club will hold its next meeting in two weeks at the home of Mrs. George Schmidt in Wood street.

Wife Asks Divorce.

Ethel Marie Lomax, through her counsel, W. A. O'Grady of Wellsville, has filed a petition for divorce against her husband, James H. Lomax. The couple were married August 12, 1918. The plaintiff charges the defendant with gross neglect of duty.

Lomax resides on Fourteenth street, Wellsville.

May Take Dog Census.

COSHOCTON, March.—Sheriff Harold Marquand is considering the advisibility of a dog census of the county to compel owners to purchase tags. Last year, 3,790 tags were purchased and this does not include all dogs, for, admittedly, many were without tags, and he believes, with the natural increase, there are well over 4,000 in the county, while only 2,933 tags have been purchased this year.

A Model Home

The Emporia (Kan.) Gazette is sponsoring the construction of a model home. The house is adapted to the needs and comforts of an average family and is to be built for about $6,000. The Gazette has made contracts at regular market prices. The quotations from builders and supply men will be duplicated to anyone else in the community wishing to build a similar dwelling. When the house is finished it will be outfitted in the same way, with the things an average family would require and with everything as tasteful, attractive and durable as moderate funds can buy. The heads of the local schools have been asked to make out a list of books suitable for this model home's library.

It seems to be a completely planned project and one which should be of great benefit to the community in every way. Local firms will compete for the various kinds of work entailed in building and furnishing the Gazette's house just as they would for the patronage of a private home-builder. There will be no special favors, reductions or other special considerations, for the model home is to be an advertising affair only in one sense. It will advertise to the community the fact that a competent and attractive home can be had for a moderate sum of money. It will also advertise the fact that everybody in the community, business concern as well as individual citizen, benefits in some degree every time such a home is built and used.

Spring Traffic Rush

Heavy traffic is no longer seasonal. Even snow-bound northern communities had their traffic problems all through the winer. Now that spring is here, however, there is an inevitable increase in motoring that bids fair to congest highways and by-ways all over the country.

For this reason there come renewed and strengthened warnings from traffic officials, safety councils and automobile association representatives. First of all they urge every driver to take to heart safe and sane driving as his own personal duty to himself and to the public. They ask pedestrians to realize that the most careful driver cannot always avoid injuring persons who step out unexpectedly into vehicular traffic where they do not belong. They ask dealers in automobiles to make it their duty to see that no beginner drives a motor car on the highway until he is thoroughly instructed and competent to drive properly.

Having pleaded for the safety of people, they urge also protection of the roads. Two ways to injure the pavements in which every automobilist has an investment, direct or indirect, are overloading trucks and driving too fast.

Let those who are concerned—and that includes nearly everybody who stirs abroad—heed these warnings.

Cheaper Wheat

Wheat has dropped about half a dollar in March, and accordingly a probe is ordered. It doesn't seem likely that official investigators will discover anything not already known.

The slump in the price of wheat, and to a less degree in other grains, has been world-wide, as was to have been expected in a commodity whose price is dependent on the demand of a world market. The big speculators have been unloading everywhere.

The United States department of agriculture recently reported that there was more wheat in the world than had been supposed. Private inquiries had brought the same information before the government vouched for it. Foreign trading centers have doubtless known it, too.

It is to be hoped that grain will not go still lower than it is new, for the sake of our great farming population, which is just getting back on its feet financially after lean years. At present prices, the raising of wheat, corn and oats may still be profitable this year, and insure sufficient planting to avoid a scarcity after next harvest. But prices held at their recent level of inflation would have been a burden to an urban and industrial population outnumbering the farmers.

Money Going Up

The Bank of England has raised its rate from 4 to 5 per cent. The federal reserve bank of New York has raised its rediscount rate one-half per cent.

This, a financial writer remarks, "means that the unlent supply of lendable capital is smallare than it was," and tht "a contraction of credit impends."

The immediate effect may be slight, though there is sure to be some check in speculation and prices. But the bankers responsible for such changes are far-sighted, and usually right. It may be probably will not continue indefinitely as plentiful and cheap as well at this stage of the game to realize that money and credit they have been lately. Those who are interested in loans may be expected to heed the warning.

New Note in Industry

The new president of the Federation of Labor says that industrial ware are caused by "a flagrant disregard or denial of the common rights of either employers or employes."

The thing to do, he declares, is for each side to try to see the other side as well as its own, and to realize the common ground between them, instead of emphasizing their differences.

Some of our leading capitalists lately have said the same thing.

It is indicative of a new day in industrial relations when labor leaders and captains of industry agree that the way to industrial peace and prosperity is not through aggressive warfare, intended in each case to crush the other side, but though better understanding of their common humanity and common interest. There is a growing feeling in industry today that future success lies in self-respecting co-operation.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

PARIS, March 28.—Gay, in a manner of speaking, Paree is one place where men and women may indulge the most fantastic ideas of dress without public ridicule. There is indeed no limit to this sartorial indulgence.

A comic strip type of Englishman is often seen about town. He is tall and gangly. There is a monocle in his eye and a bowler clapped far down over his ears. His dove white spats have gold buttons. His puff tie is turkey red. If he appeared in a New York play, George Jean Nathan would cry.

Then there is a fellow who wears a tiny pink cap. Tufts of gray hair sprout out at the side. His trousers are brown with pink stripes down the sides. His coat is a bilious yellow with two huge pearl buttons in the back. He is a dancing teacher in Montmartre.

In a wine shop on Rue de Rivoli is the proprietor who has extra long mustachios which he braids. An old cabbie who has a stand in front of the Cafe de la Paix wears a drop earring in one ear and one high topped boot on one foot and on the other a sandal.

The colored bobbed wigs of green, red and white are seen in all smart cafes at night, but they are worn mostly by the demi-mond. The idea that the Parisian woman is the best dressed in the world is another undying myth. American women beat them at their own game.

The most smartly clad of the species in Paris is the midinette. She has a dash and her cheeks are not blotched with cosmetics. She is a duplicate of our corn fed girls in America. The French woman begins to show her age early. And then to be coy and kittenish she flosses up like a circus horse with spangles, plumes and everything.

A pleasant caller today was Dr. Edgar O. Lovett, president of the Rice institute. He has been traveling through Europe for several months, making educational surveys of one sort and another. I don't know, but I have a sneaking idea that Dr. Lovett is just a bit homestick. He is pining for Houston, Tex., and knowing Houston I cannot blame him.

Basil Woon, an American correspondent, has written a book on Paris, a searching study of Paris from the Ritz to Montmartre. It is to be published in America. It is dedicated to his wife, who "had she not let me out nights this material would never have been gathered." Mr. Woon married a French lady. He has been in Paris seven years. London is his birthplace but America is his love, despite the fact he landed there 12 years ago jobless and with a capital of two cents.

The hinterland's cry that the best thing about New York is the train back home can be duplicated here. My passage home was delivered today. It buoyed me us as nothing else has. I expect to knock about a week longer and then sail for the best bit of land on the globe.

The fact is I am fed up on petty grafting. I have reached the point where when there is a knock at the door I instinctively reach for a franc. I have horrible dreams of hundreds of hands reaching out toward me. I curse myself of my cowardice and do nothing about it. A hat check girl today accepted a tip for a casual service and then asked for more. And weak-willed ninny that I am I gave it to her. O sole mia!

A drive to Versailles this afternoon refreshed my spirits. The sweeping beauty of the palace and gardens always leaves me breathless. The last time I was there was several hours after a famous Bluebeard's head went ploy into a basket. The guillotine was still there that morning and yet despite the greusome touch outside the palace gates you entered to lose all memory of it in the memory of France's royal splendor that is gone.

The Powerful Katrinka's Little Brother— By Fontaine Fox

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Government Movies—I.

WASHINGTON, March 28. — The United States, through the motion picture unit of the department of agriculture, is the largest producer and distributor of educational films in the world. Established in 1912 on a small scale, this organization, known as the office of motion pictures, was the first governmental institution in this or any other country to make movies for educational purposes.

It now produces 28 new pictures of from one to four reels every year. From six to 100 prints are made of each picture and they are furnished free for exhibition purposes to schools, colleges, churches, community centers, farmers' organizations, chambers of commerce, commercial clubs and theaters. Distribution is effected primarily through the 3,000 county extension agents of the department, and a motion picture projector has come to be as essential a part of the county agent's equipment as is his automobile. Many of the films are sent abroad.

All these pictures are produced and distributed at an annual cost to the government of approximately $60,000. This includes the maintenance of the stdio and laboratory in Washington, the purchase of supplies, and the salaries of the personnel of the division.

The pictures are all instructive, prepared for the dissemination of information which the farmer should possess and to drive home lessons that cannot be adequately or most forcefully presented through the spoken or written word. Many of them, however, tell "stories"—threads of romance and action that will stimulate and hold the interest and attention of those who view them. The scenarios are carefully worked out by experts and the pictures are made under the supervision of one of the three directors employed in the unit.

Needless to say, in view of the modest expenditures for this work, no high-priced movie stars are on the government payroll. In fact, no actors are regularly engaged. The casts of most of the pictures are recruited from the ranks of amateurs in the vicinity where the film is "shot," all of whom are glad to contribute their services for the experience. Only occasionally are professionals or semi-professionals employed, and then but briefly.

Wide Range of Subjects.

An exceedingly wide range of subjects has been covered in these government movies, as may be appreciated from the fact that the catalogue embraces 32 printed pages and the index lists almost everything from abattoir to zoology, from bacon to white-tail moths, from cabbage to vitrified brick, from dairying to tractors, from egg production to stockyards, from farm buildings to reforestation, from gardens to radio, from highways to peanuts, from irrigation to oranges, and from labor saving to marketing.

However, perhaps a more comprehensive idea of the nature of this decidedly interesting governmental service may be conveyed by citing the specific films that have just been released by F. W. Perkins, who is in charge of the office of motion pictures.

There are 19 of these pictures. First is a two-reeler entitled "The Green Barrier," a story of cattle grazing in the piney woods areas of the south, emphasizing the evils of firing the woods to "green up" the pasture. Next is "Sheep in Psalm and Sage," telling of the significance of sheep to man, economically and spiritually, and showing the great flocks of the west for their scenic interest and to give a general idea of the industry.

"Weighed in the Balance" is aa argument for cow-testing work, given through a story told by "Blossom," a deserving milk-producer. "Four Men and the Soy" illustrates the cultivation and utilization of soy beans. "Why Strawberries Grow Whiskers" sounds like the title of a Harold Lloyd comedy, but in reality it sets forth the story of black mould, the prime cause of the loss of strawberries in transit.

"Pines—From Seed to Sawmill," "Pines for Profit," "Dual-Purpose Trees" and "Wood Wisdom" are all pictures made for the forest service and their nature is indicated by their titles.

"Co-operative Marketing of Cotton" depicts the methods followed by the co-operative cotton marketing associations of the south, and shows the progress of the grower's bale from the gin to the mill, or to the seaboard for export shipment.

"A Crop Worth Saving" as a boys' and girls' club picture showing the process of the organization of Four-H clubs and their various activities, a club achievement day and a county contest. This picture was made in co-operation with Louisiana State university. "Touring With the Grangers" is the story of historic and scenic places observed by a middle west farmer who took his first vacation in 20 years and joined an automobile tour under the auspices of the National Grange, and shows West Point, the Hudson, Newport, Plymouth Rock, Provincetown, Boston, the mountains of Vermont and Niagara Falls.

For Our Latin Neighbors.

Two of the new pictures are of interest not only because of their nature, but also by reason of the circumstances under which they were made and the purpose to which they are dedicated. Last year the countries of Central and South America sent a Pan-American highway commission to the United States to study methods of road construction. One of the films, "A Highway of Friendship," shows the reception of this commission by federal and state officials and by the people in the various states that were visited, including North Carolina, Kentucky, Ohio, Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and the city of Washington.

The other picture, "Road Building in the United States," portrays the different methods of constructing important types of highways in this country, topsoil, gravel, penetration macadam, concrete and asphaltic concrete roads, and how the work is financed.

Both pictures are made with Spanish titles only and are for exhibition only by our Latin neighbors. Prints will be sent into each of the Central and American republics and their exhibition is expected to serve a dual purpose—one of diplomacy, in that the people of those countries will be gratified to see how cordially and elaborately their delegates were received and entertained in the United States, and the other of business in that they will contribute to the growth of our exports of road building machinery.

"Laying Lumbrious Low" is a film that will interest city folks even more than it will those on the farms and in rural communities, for it has to do with the damage to lawns and the putting greens of golf courses by that arch-villain, lumbious terristris, commonly known as the earthworm. It tells the story of how home owners and golfers learned from the department of agriculture the proper methods of dealing with that fiend and applied them with good results.

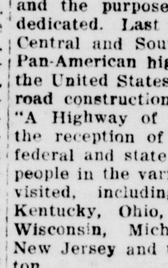

Pictures shortly to be released by Mr. Perkins' organization include "John Doe's Cotton and Yours;" "Across the Great Salt Desert" and three other films dealing with western highway construction work; "Watching the Weather Above" and "Charting the Upper Air;" "A Good Turn for the Forests," telling of the fire menace to our forests and boy scout activities in preventing fires, and "Poor Mrs. Smith," which teaches a lesson in appreciation of the advantages of farm life.

While all these pictures are for free distribution, the number of prints it is possible to provide may not meet the demand, hence it has been arranged so that extra prints may be purchased at a cost of approximately $37 for the standard-width slow-burning reel of 1,000 feet.

SICK 3 YEARS WITHOUT RELIEF

Finally Found Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Columbia, S. C.—"Your medicine has done me so much good that I feel like I owe my life to it. For three years I was sick and was treated by physicians, but they didn't seem to help me any. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got strong enough to do my housework, where before I was hardly able to be up. I have also taken the Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life and it has left me in good health. I recommend it as the best medicine for women in the Change of Life and you can use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. S. A. Holley, R. F. D. No. 4, Columbia, South Carolina.

Why suffer for years with backache, nervousness, painful times and other ailments common to women from early life to middle age, when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will bring relief? Take it when annoying symptoms first appear and avoid years of suffering.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 200,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use.

Prayer Censorship Is Proposed For Iowa Legislature

DES MOINES, Ia.—Prayer censorship may be established in the Iowa legislature. There is deep muttering among some of the Hawkeye solons that ministers who open the sessions with long prayers should first submit advance copies of their intended supplications.

The cause of all the rumbles was a prayer of Rev. Frank W. Mutchler, pastor of the Union Park Church of Christ, of this city. The pastor asked for blessing for the proposed child labor amendment.

Opponents of the measure considered this propaganda and lobbying on the floor for the bill.

The supporters of the child labor amendment pooh-poohed such charges and so the tempest in the teapot rages on.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

You Cannot Hide Your Fat

Overfatness is the one misfortune which you cannot hide from yourself or from those around you. If too thin, your dressmaker or tailor can supply the deficiencies, but the overfat carry a burden they cannot conceal. There is one sure way to reduce your weight quickly and pleasantly—the famous Marmola Prescription. This prescription changes the fatty tissues and fat-producing foods to solid flesh and energy. It helps the general health and digestion. It permits you to eat substantial food. It leaves the skin clear and smooth. This famous prescription is now condensed into tablet form. Each tablet contains an exact dose of the same ingredients that made the original prescription capable of reducing the overfat body steadily and easily without the slightest ill effects. Take one tablet after each meal and at bedtime until the normal weight is reached and the bodily health completely restored. Ask your druggist for Marmola Prescription Tablets or send one dollar to the Marcola Company, General Motors Building, Detroit, Mich., and you will receive enough to start you well on the road to slenderness and happiness. Don't put off getting slender—this is your opportunity to make yourself attractive—so get a box and start today. adv.

Authentic Story Of Old Carthage In Plain Dealer

Almost everybody knows that there are Carthages in the United States and that Utica is a flourishing city in New York; but it is only in the last month or two, probably, that it became generally known that there was a Carthage of antiquity of a million population and a Utica, 300,000, the neighbor of old Carthage and about the same distance from her as Akron is from Cleveland.

The reason for that sudden access of acquaintance with the past is report of a gigantic, organized attempt to uncover these two historic cities. News of preparation for the enterprise already has appeared in newspapers. The Cleveland Plain Dealer has virtually a staff representative with the Carthage-Utica expedition, Count Prorok, attached to the expedition as a representative of the French government, which is partner with five universities in the vast undertaking.

The Prorok articles and news dispatches will appear in The Plain Dealer as the work of disentombing these interesting cities progresses. The first major article by Prorok will appear Sunday, March 29.

Wrestling information from ruin and relics has become almost a passion, a passion which no longer is confined to the student and the adult. The secrets of a boudoir of 2,000 years ago fascinate the girl reader; boys cannot fail to be interested in the sports of bygone centuries, particularly when they learn that there were intercity leagues then as now; and so on down the list of experiences and habits that make up life whether then or today.

The Plain Dealer makes it possible for Ohio readers to follow operations at Carthage and elsewhere in northern Africa as closely and freshly as if they were occurring downstate.

Monstrosity Made to Order.

Dr. Marie Heinrichs of Chicago, is credited with having discovered how to make monstrosities to order. She exposes minnow's eggs to ultra violet rays of the mercury vapor lamp and by timing the exposures she can produce fish with one to four eyes as desired. Likewise she has developed fish with two heads, two tails and all sorts of other peculiarities.

Briton Will Explore Unknown Regions in Behind the Andes

LONDON—Dr. William McGovern, the English explorer who recently startled the world by penetrating into the Forbidden City of Lhasa, Tibet, disguised as a monk, is arranging a trip across the Andes into the unknown regions of Peru.

The expedition will consist of a party of three, and will attempt to penetrate the 1,000 miles of unknown territory which lie behind the Andes mapping it and endeavoring to secure prehistoric relics and data.

Antiseptic Strong But Safe.

Hexylresorcinol, the new antiseptic developed in the laboratories of the National Research Council, and used at Johns Hopkins hospital, is said to be fifty times stronger than carbolic acid in its power to kill disease germs, and yet is so harmless to mankind that it may be swallowed without injury. Dr. Veador Leonard to test its effect upon the human system took some of it himself after watching the effects upon rates when they had been fed with it. He and six other men then took increasingly larger doses daily with no ill effects, demonstrating that it was harmless.

MERGER MEASURE FACING DEFEAT

A movement which would undoubtedly would have resulted in the defeat of house bill consolidating the towns of Benwood and McMechen, was blocked in the house of delegates yesterday afternoon because of the fact that a gentlman's agreement was entered into early today providing that no business should be transacted during the session. Legislators agreed to this plan when several delegates expressed a desire to spend the week-end at their homes.

The house committee on counties, districts and municipalities reported the consolidation bill without recommendation this afternoon. Dr. L. M. Robinson, of Harrison county explaining the reason for the report, saying that the delegation from Marshall county is divided, the two senators from the second district are divided and the two towns are divided on the question.

FIGHT PREDICTED ON GASOLINE TAX

The bill proposing an increase in the present gasoline tax is expected to come up in the lower house at Charleston next week. Battle lines have been formed and a strong effort will be made to defeat the measure. The tax now is two cents and under the terms of the pending bill another cent would be added.

Auto clubs of the state are united in the campaign to bring about the defeat of the proposal, while a number of other civic organizations are giving it earnest support.

Jap Government Is Dismissing Employes Under Retrenchment

TOKIO — During 1925, under retrenchment plans worked out by the minister of finance and approved by the Japanese cabinet, 39,553 government employes will be dismissed from the service. The government's policy is to give each dismissed employe a "retirement allowance," and the total sum thus distributed during the year will amount to 42,397,060 yen. Of this sum 3,204,368 yen will be paid out in cash and the remainder in bonds.

Successful municipal undertakings of Southend, England, have made the tax rate so low that the city is rapidly growing.

DEMAND FOR TUBERCULIN TESTED MILK IS GROWING

Two Trucks Making Daily Trips Between East Rochester and Cleveland—New Plant Being Erected.

By M. K. Zimerman.

EAST ROCHESTER, March 28.—Because Columbiana county abounds in tuberculin tested cattle, within a few weeks 20,000 pounds of milk or 10 tons will be shipped from West township to Cleveland. Between $30,000 and $35,000 is no wbeing spent in the erection of a pre-cooling milk plant just west of here on the Lincoln highway by Samuel and Benjamin Vinocur, of Cleveland, an interest that is now taking 1,150 gallons of tuberculin tested milk out of this territory daily.

The project developed because of the fact that Columbiana county is one of the few counties in the northeastern part of the state where it is possible to secure this grade of milk and cream.

Two trucks are making daily trips between here and Cleveland hauling 115 10-gallon cans of milk. The demand for tuberculin-tested milk in Cleveland is growing at such an alarming rate that the larger distributors there are now looking to supply this demand.

Milk producers in Hanover and West townships, in this county, and those in East and Agusta townships, in Carroll county, are to be members of the Distributors' Co-operative Sales company. These producers are being paid $2.51 per hundred weight for their milk testing 3.5 per cent butter fat, and delivered at the station here. The Vinocur Dairy company is paying these producers on this basis, but in addition a premium of 5 cents per point for milk testing above this basis and 5 cents less when it goes below this standard test.

The pre-cooling plant that is now in course of erection on an acre tract a short distance west from the Cleveland and Pittsburgh railroad crossing here, will be in charge of Homer Arnold when completed. At a cost of $427 a water well was drilled to a depth of 170 feet. One three-cylinder Deming pump is to be used to create a pressure so that water can be used in any part of the plant.

The building will occupy a site 42 by 42 feet, and the cooling system will be the most costly part of the plant. After the milk is cooled it is to be run into large tanks where the temperature will be maintained, and from there it will flow into the two new thermos tanks, which will be mounted on trucks. These thermos tanks alone cost $4,000 each, not counting the cost of the truck chassis. The same schedule of four hours running time between East Rochester and Cleveland is expected to be maintained, just as is now the rule.

While another large Cleveland milk distributing interest is taking all the tuberculin tested milk it can obtain from Butler and Knox townships, the Vinocur Dairy company is taking practically the entire production of Hanover and West townships. This Cleveland company which is now bottling between 400 and 500 cases of quarts daily in addition to 300 cases of pints and 100 cases of pint creams, a little later proposes to bottle considerable milk at the new East Rochester plant, and enter the Alliance and Canton territory with tuberculin tested milk.

First shipments from this territory to the Cleveland market by this new interest began March 1. The increase in supply has been so heavy that the third truck is to be placed in transit immediately hauling between the gathering station here and Cleveland. As soon as the cooling plant is placed in operation over 2,500 gallon of milk will be trucked to Cleveland daily, and as a gallon of milk weighs eight pounds, the shipping of 10 tons of milk daily from these two western townships to Cleveland will immediately follow.

A number of producers in this district who have been shipping to East Liverpool have already changed their accounts, and it is said that others propose to save the East Liverpool shipping expense by making deliveries to the new station here.

The same rule applies to those producers who have been shipping to Salem, these producers now proposing to deliver to the new plant here.

Throughout this part of the county the owners of tuberculin cattle are elated over the situation that has developed. The fight that is being made against the testing of cattle in adjoining counties is said to be working to the detriment of producers in these counties, as the demand for non-tuberculin tested milk is dwindling.

Divorce Suit Filed.

James H. Andrews, residing in East Liverpool, and employed by the National Manufacturing company, of Wellsville, has been sued by his wife, Isail B. Andrews, for divorce, the petition having been filed by Attorney W. A. O'Grday, of Wellsville.

A Romance of the Spanish Main

CAPTAIN BLOOD

by RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

SYNOPSIS.

Captain Peter Blood, buccaneer, rescues Arabella Bishop, with whom he is in love and Lord Wade, an emissary of King James, from two Spanish ships. Lord Wade offers Blood a commission under James, but the buccaneer had been sent as a slave to the Barbadoes by this same King and he declines. To place Arabella in safety he sails into the teeth of the British fleet commanded by Colonel Bishop, governor of Barbadoes, whom Blood had once made walk the plank. Blood's crew would fight to the end, but Blood orders the ship to heave to that Arabella may be landed safely.

"Again you misapprehend me," cried Lord Julian, between concern and indignation. "That is not intended. Your followers will be included in your commission."

"And d'ye think they'll go with me to hunt their brethren—the Brethren of the Coast? D'ye think I could take a commission of King James's? I tell you I wouldn't be soiling my hands with it—thief and pirate's hands though they be. Thief and pirate is what you heard Miss Bishop call me today—a thing of scorn, an outcast. And who made me that? Who made me thief and pirate? D'ye dream, man, what it is to be a slave? But there! I grow hot for nothing at all. I explain myself, I think, and God knows, it is not my custom. I am grateful to you, Lord Julian, for your kindly intentions. I am so. But ye'll understand, perhaps. Ye look as if ye might."

"I'll see Colonel Bishop in Hell or ever I lies to for him."

Lord Julian stood a moment, watching the tall figure as it moved away towards the taffrail. Then letting his arms fall helplessly to his sides in dejection, he departed.

CHAPTER XVIII

THE SERVICE OF KING JAMES

Miss Arabella Bishop was aroused very early on the following morning by the brazen voice of a bugle and the insisting clanging of a bell in the ship's belfry. In his cabin Lord Julian was already astir and hurredly dressing. About him i' the waist, where all last night had been so peaceful, there was a frenziedly active bustle of some three-score men. By the rail, immediately above and behind Lord Julian, stood Captain Blood in altercation with a one-eyed giant, whose head was swathed in a red cotton kerchief, whose blue shirt hung open at the waist. As his lordship, moving forward, revealed himself, their voices ceased, and Blood turned to greet him.

"Good morning to you," he said, and added: "I've blundered badly, so I have. I should have known better than to come so close to Jamaica by night. But I was in haste to land you. Come up here. I have something to show you."

Wondering, Lord Julian mounted the companion as he was bidden. Standing beside Captain Blood, he looked astern, following the indication of the Captain's hand, and cried in amazement. There, not more than three miles away, was land—an uneven wall of vivid green that filled the western horizon. And a couple of miles this side of it, bearing after them, came speeding three great white ships.

Wolverstone looked down sardonically upon Lord Julian. "So that you're like to be in yet another sea-fight afore ye've done wi' ships, my lord."

"That's a point we were just arguing," said Blood. "For I hold that we're in no case to fight against such odds."

"The odds be damned!" Wolverstone thrust out his heavy jowl. "We're used to odds. The odds was heavier at Maracaybo; yet we won out, and took three ships. They was heavier yesterday when we engaged Don Miguel."

"Aye—but those were Spaniards."

"And what better are these?—Are ye afeard of a lubberly Barbados planter? Whatever ails you, Peter? I've never known ye scared afore."

A gun boomed out behind them.

"That'll be the signal to lie to," said Blood, in the same listless voice; and he fetched a sigh.

Wolverstone squared himself before his captain.

"I'll see Colonel Bisho in hell or ever I lies to for him."

"Oh, but—by your leave," his lordship intervened, "surely there is nothing to be apprehended from Colonel Bishop. Considering the service you have rendered to his niece and to me . . . I assure you that my word counts for something in England."

"Oh, aye—in England. But this ain't England, damme," Wolverstone laughed.

Came the roar of a second gun, and a round shot splashed the water less than half a cable's-length astern. Blood leaned over the rail to speak to the fair young man immediately below him by the helmsman at the whipstaff.

"Bid them take in sail, Jeremy," he said quietly. "We lie to." But Wolverstone interposed again.

"Hold there a moment, Jeremy!" he roared. "Wait!" Captain and loyal follower faced, their glances met, sullen defiance braving dull anger, surprise and pain.

"There is no question," said Blood, "of surrender for any man aboard save only myself. If Bishop can report to England that I am taken and hanged, he will magnify himself and at the same time gratify his personal rancour against me. I'll send him a message offering to surrender aboard his ship, taking Miss Bishop and Lord Julian with me, but only on condition that the Arabella is allowed to proceed unharmed. It's a bargain that he'll accept, if I know him at all."

"Ye're surely daft even to think of it, Peter!"

"Not so daft as you when you talk of fighting that." "Before we've run another half-mile we shall be within range."

Wolverstone swore elaborately, then suddenly checked. Out of the tail of his single eye he had espied a trim figure in gray silk that was ascending the companion. So engrossed had they been that they had not seen Miss Bishop come from the door of the passage leading to the cabin. And there was something else that those three men on the poop, and Pitt immediately below them, had failed to observe. Some moments ago Ogle, followed by the main body of his gun-deck crew, had emerged from the booby hatch, to fall into muttered, angrily vehement talk with those who, abandoning the gun-tackles upon which they were laboring, had come to crowd about him.

Even now Blood had no eyes for that. He turned to look at Miss Bishop, marvelling a little, after the manner in which yesterday she had avoided him, that she should now venture upon the quarter-deck. Her presence at this moment, and considering the nature of his altercation with Wolverstone, was embarrassing. Captain Blood bared his head and bowed silently in a greeting which she returned composedly and formally.

"What is happening, Lord Julian?" she enquired.

As if to answer her a third gun spoke from the ships.

"They are ships of the Jamaica fleet," his lordship answered her.

Before more could be added, their attention was drawn at last to Ogle, who came bounding up the broad ladder, and to the men lounging aft in his wake. Blood, confronted him.

"What's this?" the Captain demanded sharply. "Your station is on the gun-deck. Why have you left it?"

"Captain," Ogle said, and as he spoke he pointed to the pursuing ships, "Colonel Bishop holds us. We're in no case either to run or fight."

"Ogle," said he, in a voice cold and sharp as steel, "your station is on the gun-deck. You'll return to it at once, and take your crew with you, or else . . ."

"Threats will not serve, Captain."

Captain Blood's hand closed over the butt of one of the pistols slung before him.

Compare Gulbransen Music With Anything Else You Hear

Here, indeed, is the ideal musical instrument for the home.

It provides the best of piano music whenever you want it. It supplies whatever types of music you prefer. And you play it, with your own expression and feeling.

The Gulbransen Registering Piano is a permanent investment in good piano music, easily played. It does not go out of style. It requires no expensive upkeep. It is just as up-to-date as the latest roll you play on it.

The Gulbransen costs little, if anymore than other forms of musical entertainment for the home. It knits folks closely together. Gives each one something that no other instrument does—the thrill and pleasure of personally playing piano music with real expression. It is not an expense at all. Rather an investment that daily pays big returns in entertainment and accomplishment worth while.

The Gulbransen can be bought on convenient terms of payment.

Your silent piano has a cash value when traded in on a modern grand or upright Gulbransen Registering Piano. Let us tell you what it is.

LIVE QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

Closing Scenes in Christ's Life—(Review of Quarter) for Sunday, March 29.

Lesson 1—To what extent has the reign of Christ been established in the world?

Lesson 2—What is the most encouraging thing in your thought of the judgment day

Lesson 3—Why did Jesus transform the Jewish passover into the Lord's Supper?

Lesson 4—What do you consider the most vital and practical teachings of John 14?

Lesson 5—What are the two most important lessons taught by the vine and the branches?

Lesson 6—Why is this one of the most remarkable chapters in the Bible?

Lesson 7—Of what help to Jesus were the disciples in the garden?

Lesson 8—How can the teachings of Christ be more effectively applied to the government of our community?

Lesson 9—Was it justice or politics that brought Pilate to his final decision about Christ?

Lesson 10—Do the attitudes of the two thieves fairly represent the attitudes of all peoples for or against Christ?

Lesson 11—What place did the meanings of the resurrection have in the building of the early church?

Lesson 12—How were the disciples completely confirmed in unwavering faith and obedience?

CLERICUS SAYS: It matters little how many times we study the life of Christ unless we practice the truth he came to teach. It is not enough to express something about Christ; we must be an expression of Christ. This is our task.

LESSON PRAYER.

Father, forgive us our silence concerning the things we have seen and heard concerning thy love as revealed in Jesus Christ, and teach us how to be joyfully active for thee.

BOOK REVIEW.

Christianity and the State, by S. Parkes Cadman, The MacMillan Co., New York, is a series of lectures delivered before the Pacific School of Religion upon the Earl Foundation. A volume by Dr. Cadman on this major problem is an event in the religious world.

Parenthood and Child Nurture, by Edna Dean Baker, The MacMillan Co., New York, $1.50, shows in how many ways the discoveries of modern child study may aid in understanding children better. It presents a summary of the facts of child development during the full period of childhood from birth to eleven years.

HOME TRAINING

Youth and Age Learning Together.

"Father, I would like a good talk with you," said a young man who had been attending a youth movement conference. "I do not want you to think me unkind or out of order but I have some serious convictions regarding our relations in the interests of the largest good to all."

"Very well, my son, I am certain with the large part the youth have had in the recent World War, they ought to have a larger place in the world's program after the war."

"That is it exactly, father. There is need of a new world program which dare not the made by war lords, profiteering lords, political bosses and hidebound traditionalities."

"Quite so, my son; it was painful to have to surrender our sons and daughters to suffer the pangs of national hate in shot and shell. Possibly we parents suffered as much as our children and if there is a way to avert its repetition, let us hear it."

"Might I suggest then that the time has come when youth and age shall learn together. Too long has it been said, "old age for wisdom, youth for action." Youth must be given credit for some wisdom and then a place for putting that wisdom into action."

"Furthermore, there are two false assumptions that need to be eliminated, namely, that authority should be withheld from the young and that youth is to learn from age but not age fro myouth."

"Agreed," said the father, "let us learn together."

It requires about 12 hours to travel from Basel, Switzerland, to Brussels, Belgium, by train, and four and one-half by airplane.

SERMONOGRAMS

Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm.—Emerson.

Have your habits fighting for you, not against you.

Without courage you may as well be without conviction.

Life is full of dangerous crossings, and conscience is the flagman.

The logical "big brother" for any boy is that boy's own father.

Conceit may puff a man up, but it never props a man up.

Fame is a vapor; popularity an accident; riches take wings; those who cheer today will curse tomorrow; only one thing endures—character.—Horace Greeley.

Trust men and they will trust you, treat them greatly and they will show thmselves great.—Emerson.

There is a policeman in every man's conscience; you may not always find him on his beat.

People pay far more attention to our example than they do to our good advice.

If we were more careful of where we step those who follow us would not stumble so often.

It is better to say, "This one thing I do," than to say, "These forty things I dabble in."

Be a bold, brave, true, honest man. If you know a thing is right, do it. If you have a solemn conviction, dare to utter it in the fear of God, regardless of the wrath of man.—John B. Gough.

National League Champions A Month Ahead of Rival Clubs

McGraw Critics Say He Is Rushing His Training Too Much

Baseball Men in General Hold to Theory That a Greyhound in April is Often a Dachshund in September.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Rival National league managers are showing a disposition to criticize our Mr. McGraw because he hasn't brought his young men to a slow boil, as it were, but has cooked them to a rich, brown turn by way of pre-season conditioning. If the National league race were to start tomorrow there is little doubt that the Giants would get away running for they are all of a month beyond the rest of the field in condition, particularly the pitchers.

Baseball men in general haven't hesitated to say that McGraw is making a mistake and claim that the "Dog Days" of late August will prove it. Their theory is that a Greyhound in April is often a dachsund in September and the history of baseball does not say them nay.

In fact, the general trend of managerial strategy is away from the spring rush, although few have yet begun to put the idea into practice. Ty Cobb, managing a contender in the rival league, is one of them. There wasn't a ball tossed in the Tiger camp until March 2 and the first exhibition game took place as late as March 20. The Tigers haven't seen another major league club yet and won't until some time next week.

"Cob has the right idea," said Stanley Harris when the writer told him about this system of training. Yet it was noted at the time that the Senators were being rushed along as fast as the next, although it must be conceded that Harris is letting Johnson, Ruether, Coveleskie and other veteran pitchers proceed with their preparations without unseemly haste.

Not so McGraw. For many days early this month the so-called master mind had his complete squad out, morning and afternoon and some of them worked with such enthusiasm that he was constrained to call a halt. Even Art Nehf, strictly a warm weather pitcher, has worked himself into a state where he is as ready as a cocked pistol.

Going Up!

When Johnny Mitchell, infielder, was grabbed by Brooklyn from the American association critics around that organization averred he wouldn't make good with the big league team. Try to buy him from Owner Ebbets and Manager Robinson as he unlimbers at Clearwater, Fla!

Tunney Gets Decision.

ST. PAUL, March 28.—Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, has another popular decision over Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, today. They engaged in a tame 10-round go last night, Tunney showing to advantage in seven of the ten rounds. Tunney had a 14 pound weight advantage. Greb showed to advantage in the second and third rounds, in which he unloosed a volley of blows that forced Tunney to the ropes. But after that it was all Tuney's.

Girls Play Benefit With Ex-Champions

School Lassies Meet 1920 Sextet Tonight; Let's Help 'em Buy Sweaters, Fans.

Six girls who in 1920 carried E. L. H. S. colors to the pinnacle of basketball success in Columbiana county circles, will essay a comeback tonight on the high school court against the high school sextet of today.

Speed, perhaps, may not be there as in days of yore, the graduates admit, but, they contend, experience will count a lot.

The 1925 team will show its regular lineup tonight, while the Ex-Highs will use the same six that routed opposition back in 1920.

The contest will be a benefit clash for the present school girls, who hope to be able to purchase sweaters from the funds received.

The quality of the main attraction is assured. And the preliminary ranks almost as high.

In the first clash on the card, the Lutherans and the United Presbyterians of the Sunday school circuit will battle. This contest is a regularly scheduled league contest and originally was to have been played at the Y. M. C. A. However, promoters of the high school affair believed it would prove a fitting send-off to their own game and accordingly had it transferred to the school court.

St. Louis Cardinals Ask $1,250 For Game

Offer Will be Rejected Unless Financial Support is Received Says Local Club Manager.

Is there a baseball enthusiast or group of such fans, in the city who would like to tackle the job of financing the appearance in East Liverpool on May 4 of the St. Louis Cardinals, Branch Rickey's National league entry in the 1925 pennant race? This is the appeal of the East Liverpool baseball club.

The St. Louis club wants a guarantee of $1,250 for a game on the East Liverpool diamond.

The Cardinals also ask a rain guarantee of $500 and insist upon a certified check for the entire amount of the playing guarantee or the rain guarantee the moment the club steps on the field.

The great Rogers Hornsby will be in uniform and will take part in the game if such is arranged. This would be one clause of the contract.

John Fowler, who formally took charge of the East Liverpool baseball club at its organization meeting last night, will furnish a first class baseball club to play the Cardinals if he can obtain financial backing for the venture. The East Liverpool baseball club has not the money to put up for the appearance of the Cardinals. But it has the players, or will get them, at least.

If financial support is not forthcoming, Manager Fowler announced today, the offer will have to be rejected, although with much regret.

Yankee Rookie Starts 'Em Low

Monroe Schwartz, husky righthand pitching rookie being tried out by the Yankees at St. Petersburg, Fla., pitches "haymakers" just like an amateur boxer. He starts his roundhouse delivery from the ground, as the photo shows. Schwartz, an Ohioan, was obtained from the Atlanta Southern league club.

Decorators Victors In Volley Contest

The victory of the Decorators' volley ball team over the Foremen in two games was one of the outstanding athletic features of the Laughlin, E. E. indoor picnic last evening at the Y. M. C. A.

The scores were 15-12, and 15-8.

The lineups: Decorators—Moore, Cook, Hall, Stull, White, Hanes; Foremen—Watkins, Calhoun, Berg, Bastian, Pugh.

SCHOOL GIRL TEAMS LAUNCH CAGE TOURNEY

Fast Contests are Staged in First Round Play.

Before small, but mightily enthusiastic crowds of grade school fans, the girls' basketball teams of Garfield, McKinley, Central and Neville-Horace Mann survived the first two rounds of the school girls' tournament on the high school court yesterday afternoon.

Garfield defeated Pleasant Heights, 9 to 5; McKinley won from Washington, 13 to 5; Central triumphed over Sixth Street, 45 to 4, and Neville-Horace Mann vanquished Lincoln, 17 to 4.

The McKinley-Washington game was the best of the afternoon bill, while the Lincoln-Neville Horace Mann tilt furnished the fireworks in the evening.

In the semi-final games, to be played today, the Garfield girls will tackle the McKinley lassies, while Neville-Horace Mann will play Central.

Chrysler Gear Ratio and Revolutions Same as Maxwell

The following article was clipped from the Motor Budget conducted by George W. Sutton, for the Buffalo Evening News.

Along with the rest of the motoring public I have thought that the Chrysler is a car with an extremely high speed motor, built on European principles. In fact, have heard automobile dealers mention this supposed fact to the detriment of the Chrysler. I was much surprised this week therefore, to find that the Chrysler has exactly the same gear ratio and revolutions per minute at 30 miles an hour as the Maxwell. The ratio is 4:60 at 1546 r. p. m. This is a slower engine speed at 30 miles an hour than that of the Essex, Overland Six, Auburn, Moon, Rickenbacker Six, Willys-Knight Six, Flint 40, Buick Standard, Cleveland, Hupmobile and Nash Six. It is faster than the Stutz, Wills Ste. Claire, Flint 55, Cadillac, Paige, Peerless Eight, Franklin, Buick Master Six, Jewett and Packard Eight.

Dyes Make Rugs Famous.

Chinese rugs lay their claim to fame mostly at the feet of the skilled dyers who impart the remarkable colorings, especially the blues, to these rugs. A Chinese rug weaver can complete only about half a square foot of rug a day, which lasts from daylight to dark. Much of the work is done by apprentices who are paid nothing. When they have served their apprenticeship their wage may be as low as 50 cents a day at the start, or $20 a month, which is the maximum ever paid.

Did You Ever Try to Raise a Wild Fox?

Up in northeastern Ohio they have a fox farm, and the average value is around $1,500 for a pair. Doesn't seem possible that a couple of ordinary foxes could be worth as much as a first-class automobile, does it?

And for that much money you could buy a couple of our good Used Cars. We always have several in our salesrooms that have been thoroughly overhauled, and that are priced way below their actual worth.

COMMON SENSE IN SMALL DOSES

When Willie says his throat is sore,
When Willie's eyes are red;
Keep Willie home from school, my friend,
Keep Willie still in bed.

The av'rage man with lots of wealth
Is not concerned about his health—
In fact he seldom counts the cost
Until, Alas! his health is lost.

I've met many people,
But I've yet to behold
The fellow who hasn't
A cure for a cold.

If all the stuff that's recommended,
To cure disease could be commended,
We'd never have another ache;
We borrow, beg and buy prescriptions,
From the tombs of old Egyptians—
Then discover they're a fake.

Parents who do not sow the seeds of truth in the fertile brains of their young children, leave fertile fields for sordid weeds.

Man thinks a lot of stocks and bonds
And of the things that he can sell;
But seldom thinks of stagnant ponds
Or the microbes in the well.

Young Girl Chocolate Dippers Make Large Wages, Report Shows

CHICAGO — Young girl chocolate candy dippers earn $60 a week and more, it was made known here in a workers' welfare commission investigation of candy factories. The big candy factory is a paradise for youth, according to the evidence.

"That's where the fur coats and fine clothes of working girls come from," testified the superintendent of one of the largest candy factories in the United States. "These girls have the fire of youth. They work fast and earn big pay."

In an appeal for wage increases for county employes, a London councilman recently said that half of the men had to buy margarine instead of butter for their families.

Concession to construct and operate railway lines totaling more than 1,200 miles have been granted by the government of Poland recently.

Perfumery and cosmetics used by the people of Hongkong last year cost more than $500,000, half being from this country.

Buy Pennsylvania Oils Like You Buy Diamonds

You don't buy a diamond just because the diamond is the most precious gem. Instead, you buy a flawless diamond—a diamond that has been so masterfully cut that it reflects a flame of color.

Similarly, don't buy various motor oils, made from 100% Pennsylvania Crude just because Pennsylvania is the finest crude. For example; FREEDOM Perfect is not only made from 100% Pennsylvania Crude; in addition, it is refined with an experience that has come with forty-five years of specializing in the refining of Paraffin base crudes.

Because of this, FREEDOM Perfect maintains its original lubricating and high heat resisting properties; frequent crank case changes are not necessary. Your dealer has FREEDOM Perfect—insist upon it.

So They Put Them Down.
That "Genuine" Scotch.
Good Health, Mr. Baker.
Chapman, Arch Criminal.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

The little stocks drooped Thursday, and the stock exchange reminded you of the doormouse's watch at the mad hatter's tea party. Nothing seemed to please it.

One of the Wabash stocks that have bankrupted many a man solemnly declared a 5 per cent dividend. And prices broke worse than ever.

"All right," says the big fellows, "if we can't put them up, we'll put them down." So they put them down. They know how to make money both ways. You don't. That's why you shouldn't gamble.

Are you buying some of the "genuine Scotch" now peddled and storing it inside your mucus membrane?

Seventeen manufacturers of "Scotch" whisky have been arrested in Germany. They have copied Scotch bottles and labels perfectly. Heaven knows what the whisky is like.

The German government arrested them for imitating British trademarks, and interfering with British bootleg profits among the Yankees.

George F. Baker, one of the four richest men in the world, Henry Ford, Rockefeller and Mellon being the other three, celebrates his eighty-fifth birthday today.

To live 85 years is nothing. Millions do it. Turtles live 500 years, and whales even longer.

Mr. Baker interests you, because, at 85, he is actually doing the work of 10 men.

He is the ruling power, absolute czar in dozens of the nation's biggest railroad and industrial enterprises. One little item in his daily routine, for instance, is control of the great railroad system built up by the old working Vanderbilts. To be able to do that work at 85 means something.

Speeches in the house of commons and the house of lords will go out, on the air, for all of Great Britain to hear by radio. The appropriate remark would be: "This solves the bedtime story and will put all England to sleep." The fact is that the best speeches in the English language are made in the house of commons, where they fight things out on the floor, instead of "trading" them out in committee rooms.

The murder trial now absorbing the American intellect is that of Chapman, romantically described as the "arch criminal and brigand."

What would interest civilization in this case, if there were any civilization to be interested, is the history back of this criminal. He began in crime an undersized, underfed, mentally and physically starved little Irish boy. When they caught him in his first theft, they sent him to the university of crime, which is the prison.

In one penitentiary and then another, he took post-graduate courses. His present notoriety is the result.

With a decent courage and resourcefulness that now frighten the police, and cause them to keep this criminal heavily chained, might have made a useful and successful man of him. The same steel can be made into a plow or a dagger.

The French are cheerful, and the English exultant, over the excellent prospect of reaching an agreement on security among nations. Austen Chamberlain's speech seems to have started something in the right direction.

But the French are worried about their constantly falling birth rate. Last year new French babies outnumbered French deaths by only 72,216. The year before the increase was 95,000.

As far as safety goes, however, France needn't worry. The millions that used to be needed for "cannon fodder" are needed no longer. Great caterpillar-like armies of crawling infantry will be replaced by a few thousand fighters in the air. Fifty such men as the great Guynemere could demoralize an army of a million and kill one-third of it.

A lady of Spokane demands a divorce because her husband at breakfast milked a goat directly into his cup of cofee. He keeps the goat in the house. The lady declares that such "table manners" could not be endured by any person of refinement.

"Other times, other manners." Eve would have thought it very clever had Adam done exactly the same thing.

The wealth of this country is now figured at $330,000,000,000, which means three hundred and thirty times one thousand million dollars. That amounts to only $2,900 for each inhabitant, which is, of course, ridiculously little. The population would bring more than that if all the people could be sold as slaves at their fair value as money earners.

Any one of the 48 states, full developed, would be worth more than $330,000,000,000. Alaska is worth more than that in mineral wealth alone.

Marks should be presented in bundles of 10 billion each and are redeemable at one trillion marks to the Renter mark.

Illinois Officials Order Rigid Investigation of Fatal Blaze in Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Institution.

PATIENT FOUND TRAPPED IN ROOM

Lives of Many Convalescents and Nurses Endangered as Flames Spread Rapidly Thru Four-story Building.

CHICAGO, Mar. 28.—State fire officials today ordered a rigid investigation of the fatal fire which early today damaged the Chicago Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat hospital in the loop, cost the life of one patient, caused severe injuries to three women and another man and endangered lives of 10 patients and as many nurses.

P. J. Regan, 64, a steam fitter was the victim of the flames. He had been a patient at the hospital since March 10 and undergone an operation on his eyes yesterday. His head was swathed in bandages, which completely blinded him. He was trapped in his room by the fire which spread so rapidly through the old four-story structure that the occupants were forced to flee in their night clothing.

Regan was found by firemen in his room, beating with his bare hands against the burning walls and groping blindly for the door. He was hurried outside but had enhaled so much smoke and gas he died within a short time.

Nurses Rescue Patients.

The fire broke out in the basement shortly after midnight and swept rapidly up the elevator shaft, spreading over the four floors of the building.

Miss Margaret Kilgoe, a nurse, and Mrs. Agnes West, superintendent, aided firemen carry several patients down fire escapes to safety, Mrs. West desisting in her rescue work only when firemen forced her to quit and carried her out of the burning building.

The third and fourth floors of the hospital were destroyed and the first two floors damaged.

WAR VETERAN SLAYS WOMAN AS BABY PLAYS

Eternal Triangle is Blamed for Axe Murder.

ADMITS CRIME

Unwelcome Suitor Kills Sister-in-law in New York.

NEW YORK, March, 28.—A tragedy, grim in its romance and brutal in its execution, was confessed today by Eugene Cassinelli, 27, according to the police when he admitted killing his young sister-in-law, Mrs. Amelia Cassinelii with an axe while her two-year-old baby played happily on the floor of her apartment last night.

The eternal triangle, police declared, was responsible for the act.

The woman's husband was Daniel Cassinelli, who worked by day. The unwelcome suitor was Eugene, his brother, who worked at night in a bakery, police said.

Eugene and Daniel were soldiers in the 26th division of the A. E. F. in Italy during the war, the laughing black eyes of a pretty native girl attracted them both. She was Amelia. It was a matter of considerable doubt to Amelia which brother she loved the more. But she married Daniel.

Visits Victim's Flat.

The war over, all three returned to the United States.

Eugene could not forget that he once was Amelia's suitor. She told her husband of his attentions and the brother ordered him from his home.

Daniel threatened to beat him, Eugene said. He said Daniel feared Amelia might go away with him, he told police, so he went to her little flat last night while Daniel was away. He pleaded. He implored. He threatened. Neighbors heard screams. They found Mrs. Cassinelli dead, her baby nearby, crying. Eugene had fled. Police caught him.

BIBLE BILL BACKERS, 'TRICKED,' THEY CHARGE, PLAN TO RESUME FIGHT

Dangerous Fires Smoulder in Ashes of Hopes of Buchanan Measure Supporters as They are Defeated in Senate.

REFORM FORCES FOR NEXT MEET

Pet Proposals are Crushed as Penalty for Hold-up of Religious Legislation in Rules Committee.

COLUMBUS, Mar. 28.—Dangerous fires were smouldering among the ashes of the hopes of backers of the "reform" bloc Buchanan Bible Bill when tired legislators dragged themselves wearily off to bed at 3:35 o'clock this morning—with the two houses in technical "five minute" recess which will last until April 16.

Klan backers of the Bible bill were beaten, perhaps temporarily, but they went down fighting in a two hour informal wrangle on the senate floor and in senate corridors after the senate had recessed. "Tricked", they said, at the last minute in their persistent attempt to force their pet measure through the senate. They will resume the fight to force passage of the Bible bill when the legislature returns April 16. This agreement was reported in one of the strangest informal meetings of the senate chamber has ever seen after backers of the Bible bill, insistent that they be given another chance to pass their bill, had been prevailed upon to reform their lines during the three weeks' recess and make their last fight when the senate comes back to work.

"Bad Faith" Is Charged.

Groups of senators milled back and forth across the floor for nearly two hours after the senate had recessed and some of the members had left, only to be later recalled. Groups formed and reformed as members, their brains numbed by the 17-hour strain of the last day's session, attempted to chart a clear course through which the Bible bill could be steered to victory. The palaver ended with agreement to defer action until April 16.

When the fight opens again the "reform" group, mustering 20 votes, a clear majority of the senate and sufficient to pass the bill, will be forced to capture four additional votes to

PET BUILDING PLANS CRUSHED

State Institutions Hit as Appropriations are Slashed.

COLUMBUS, Mar. 28.—Pet building projects of a number of state institutions were scuttled and $2,200,000 was clipped from the appropriations for new highway constructions when the two houses of the legislature reached final agreement early today on the general appropriation bill.

Definite appropriations carried in the measure, as finally passed by both houses, after members of the joint conference committee labored for five hours on the measure, aggregated $65,350,000. To this must be added appropriation of the state's share of the proceeds of the auto tag fees and the gasoline tax—about $9,000,000—bringing the total appropriations for the biennium, including some $3,500,000 in the three supplemental appropriation bills and the Sundry claims bill, to $78,000,000.

Conferees clipped $3,500,000 from the total of the bill as it was reported by the senate finance committee and passed by the senate.

They also eliminated the clause which Governor Donahey had threatened to veto—which would take from the governor final decision on alloca-

Condemned Slayer Hears Radio Song As he Awaits Fate

PITTSBURGH, March 28.—The soothing melody of "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" broke the regular jazz program of Station WCAE here last night in answer to the request of "Pistol Pete" Henry Jackson, condemned murderer.

Jackson listened on the county jail radio set as the song was broadcast then went to bed. He was taken today to Rockview penitentiary where he will be electrocuted Monday.

COUNCIL HITS BUILDERS FOR CLOSING WALKS

Propose Ordinance Calling for Overhead Protection.

PAVING URGED

Plan Renewal of Campaign for Repair of Sidewalks.

Closing of sidewalks in the business district while new structures are in the course of construction will be prohibited, if an ordinance, authorized by council, is adopted by the municipal legislative body at its next meeting.

The proposal will require contractors, erecting business buildings, to construct roofed sidewalks as a protection to pedestrians instead of closing the walks entirely and requiring pedestrians to use the streets.

Solon Thomas Farrall called council's attention last night to the sidewalk at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets, which he asserted had been closed since last summer. Neighboring business men, he declared were objecting to the sidewalk being kept closed and, furthermore he asserted, the lives of pedestrians were endangered as they are forced to walk in the street. A fence, erected in front of ruins of one of the fire-swept Fifth street buildings extends a foot beyond the curb stone, he said.

Plan to Enforce Order.

"Contractors in cities are not permitted to close the sidewalks without making some other arrangement for people to walk and wes hould not be compelled to stand for such a practice here," he declared.

By a unanimous vote council ordered Solicitor Brokaw to prepare an ordinance, requiring the construction of temporary sidewalks in the business district, and have it ready for consideration at the next meeting.

Declaring that many property hold-

BISHOP SPEAKS AT M. E. MEET IN CITY AFTER COUNTY TOUR

Rt. Rev. Theodore Henderson Guest at Wellsville Dinner.

MEETS PASTORS

Contribution of $175 for Tornado Sufferers is Made.

Rt. Rev. Theodore Henderson, bishop of the Cincinnati area of the Methodist Episcopal church, who spoke in the First Methodist Episcopal church, Fifth and Jackson streets, at 7:30 o'clock last evening, was greeted by a crowd that taxed the capacity of the auditorium.

Henderson's visit marked his final meeting of the day in Columbiana county. He attended conferences of ministers and church leaders at Lisbon yesterday morning and afternoon and went to Wellsville for dinner at 6 o'clock.

He was accompanied by Dr. J. B. Caldwell, a member of the Genesee conference New York, but who has been engaged in missionary work in China for several years. Dr. Caldwell is one of the 25 Methodist missionaries in foreign countries who were recently withdrawn because of the lack of funds to support them. He spoke on the subject "Evangelistic Work in the China Fields," telling of the need for missionary work in the Far East countries.

Spends Night Here.

Dr. Frank G. Fowler, pastor of the church, presided. He presented Dr. H. S. Powell, district superintendent, of the Steubenville district, who introduced Dr. Caldwell and afterwards Bishop Henderson.

Bishop Henderson discussed the world service program and then took up the subject of personal work in the local church in the way of evangelism. A free will collection for the tornado sufferers, netted $175. The money will be turned over to the local Red Cross chapter. The congregational singing was led by Prof. H. F. Laughlin.

Bishop Henderson, who was a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Taylor, of the Park Boulevard over night, left this morning for Cleveland. He will speak at Akron, Sunday morning, and at Canton Sunday even-

Dr. Whitacomb Will Occupy Episcopal Pulpit on Sunday

Dr. J. D. Whitacomb, of Cleveland, will conduct services in the St. Stephen's Episcopal church Sunday morning and evening, in the absence of Rev. Lionel C. Difford, rector, who is recovering from a physical breakdown at Mt. Clemens, Mich.

Prof. Albert E. Clark, organist and choirmaster at the church, will give a 25-minute organ recital, beginning at 7:05 o'clock, preceding the evening preaching service. This will be the fifth number of the series of Lenten organ recitals to be presented by Prof. Clark. The program follows:

"Melody in F" ..... Rubinstein
"God So Loved the World" (Crucifiction) ..... Stainer
"O Star of Eve" (Tannhauser) ..... Wagner
"Pilgrims Chorus" (Tannhauser) ..... Wagner

200 Guests Attend Laughlin China Co. Indoor Picnic

About 200 guests attended the indoor picnic given at the Y. M. C. A. last evening by employes of the East End plants of the Homer Laughlin China company, members of their families and friends.

The athletic events began at 7:45 o'clock and were concluded at 9 o'clock. The decorators twice defeated the foremen in the volleyball contests.

A musical program was presented between 9 and 9:40 o'clock. This was followed by refreshments served in the banquet hall on the second floor of the building.

The picnic was arranged by the shop service committee, co-operating with the industrial department of the Y. M. C. A.

REV. A. L. DUNCAN SHOP SPEAKER

So They Put Them Down.
That "Genuine" Scotch.
Good Health, Mr. Baker.
Chapman, Arch Criminal.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

The little stocks drooped Thursday, and the stock exchange reminded you of the doormouse's watch at the mad hatter's tea party. Nothing seemed to please it.

One of the Wabash stocks that have bankrupted many a man solemnly declared a 5 per cent dividend. And prices broke worse than ever.

"All right," says the big fellows, "if we can't put them up, we'll put them down." So they put them down. They know how to make money both ways. You don't. That's why you shouldn't gamble.

Are you buying some of the "genuine Scotch" now peddled and storing it inside your mucus membrane?

Seventeen manufacturers of "Scotch" whisky have been arrested in Germany. They have copied Scotch bottles and labels perfectly. Heaven knows what the whisky is like.

The German government arrested them for imitating British trademarks, and interfering with British bootleg profits among the Yankees.

George F. Baker, one of the four richest men in the world, Henry Ford, Rockefeller and Mellon being the other three, celebrates his eighty-fifth birthday today.

To live 85 years is nothing. Millions do it. Turtles live 500 years, and whales even longer.

Mr. Baker interests you, because, at 85, he is actually doing the work of 10 men.

He is the ruling power, absolute czar in dozens of the nation's biggest railroad and industrial enterprises. One little item in his daily routine, for instance, is control of the great railroad system built up by the old working Vanderbilts. To be able to do that work at 85 means something.

Speeches in the house of commons and the house of lords will go out, on the air, for all of Great Britain to hear by radio. The appropriate remark would be: "This solves the bedtime story and will put all England to sleep." The fact is that the best speeches in the English language are made in the house of commons, where they fight things out on the floor, instead of "trading" them out in committee rooms.

The murder trial now absorbing the American intellect is that of Chapman, romantically described as the "arch criminal and brigand."

What would interest civilization in this case, if there were any civilization to be interested, is the history back of this criminal. He began in crime an undersized, underfed, mentally and physically starved little Irish boy. When they caught him in his first theft, they sent him to the university of crime, which is the prison.

In one penitentiary and then another, he took post-graduate courses. His present notoriety is the result.

With a decent courage and resourcefulness that now frighten the police, and cause them to keep this criminal heavily chained, might have made a useful and successful man of him. The same steel can be made into a plow or a dagger.

The French are cheerful, and the English exultant, over the excellent prospect of reaching an agreement on security among nations. Austen Chamberlain's speech seems to have started something in the right direction.

But the French are worried about their constantly falling birth rate. Last year new French babies outnumbered French deaths by only 72,216. The year before the increase was 95,000.

As far as safety goes, however, France needn't worry. The millions that used to be needed for "cannon fodder" are needed no longer. Great caterpillar-like armies of crawling infantry will be replaced by a few thousand fighters in the air. Fifty such men as the great Guynemere could demoralize an army of a million and kill one-third of it.

A lady of Spokane demands a divorce because her husband at breakfast milked a goat directly into his cup of cofee. He keeps the goat in the house. The lady declares that such "table manners" could not be endured by any person of refinement.

"Other times, other manners." Eve would have thought it very clever had Adam done exactly the same thing.

The wealth of this country is now figured at $330,000,000,000, which means three hundred and thirty times one thousand million dollars. That amounts to only $2,900 for each inhabitant, which is, of course, ridiculously little. The population would bring more than that if all the people could be sold as slaves at their fair value as money earners.

Any one of the 48 states, full developed, would be worth more than $330,000,000,000. Alaska is worth more than that in mineral wealth alone.

ONE KILLED, FOUR HURT AS FIRE DAMAGES LOOP HOSPITAL IN CHICAGO

Illinois Officials Order Rigid Investigation of Fatal Blaze in Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Institution.

PATIENT FOUND TRAPPED IN ROOM

Lives of Many Convalescents and Nurses Endangered as Flames Spread Rapidly Thru Four-story Building.

CHICAGO, Mar. 28.—State fire officials today ordered a rigid investigation of the fatal fire which early today damaged the Chicago Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat hospital in the loop, cost the life of one patient, caused severe injuries to three women and another man and endangered lives of 10 patients and as many nurses.

P. J. Regan, 64, a steam fitter was the victim of the flames. He had been a patient at the hospital since March 10 and undergone an operation on his eyes yesterday. His head was swathed in bandages, which completely blinded him. He was trapped in his room by the fire which spread so rapidly through the old four-story structure that the occupants were forced to flee in their night clothing.

Regan was found by firemen in his room, beating with his bare hands against the burning walls and groping blindly for the door. He was hurried outside but had enhaled so much smoke and gas he died within a short time.

Nurses Rescue Patients.

The fire broke out in the basement shortly after midnight and swept rapidly up the elevator shaft, spreading over the four floors of the building.

Miss Margaret Kilgoe, a nurse, and Mrs. Agnes West, superintendent, helped firemen carry several patients down fire escapes to safety, Mrs. West desisting in her rescue work only when firemen forced her to quit and carried her out of the burning building.

The third and fourth floors of the hospital were destroyed and the first two floors damaged.

Issue Last Call For German Marks Of Old Vintage

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The last call went out for German marks—old vintage—today.

A cablegram to the department of commerce said the German government had announced the marks may be presented for redemption on or before June 5.

Marks should be presented in bundles of 10 billion each and are redeemable at one trillion marks to the Renter mark.

WAR VETERAN SLAYS WOMAN AS BABY PLAYS

Eternal Triangle is Blamed for Axe Murder.

ADMITS CRIME

Unwelcome Suitor Kills Sister-in-law in New York.

NEW YORK, March, 28.—A tragedy, grim in its romance and brutal in its execution, was confessed today by Eugene Cassinelli, 27, according to the police when he admitted killing his young sister-in-law, Mrs. Amelia Cassinelli with an axe while her two-year-old baby played happily on the floor of her apartment last night.

The eternal triangle, police declared, was responsible for the act.

The woman's husband was Daniel Cassinelli, who worked by day. The unwelcome suitor was Eugene, his brother, who worked at night in a bakery, police said.

Eugene and Daniel were soldiers in the 26th division of the A. E. F. in Italy during the war, the laughing black eyes of a pretty native girl attracted them both. She was Amelia. It was a matter of considerable doubt to Amelia which brother she loved the more. But she married Daniel.

Visits Victim's Flat.

The war over, all three returned to the United States.

Eugene could not forget that he once was Amelia's suitor. She told her husband of his attentions and the brother ordered him from his home.

Daniel threatened to beat him, Eugene said. He said Daniel feared Amelia might go away with him, he told police, so he went to her little flat last night while Daniel was away. He pleaded. He implored. He threatened. Neighbors heard screams. They found Mrs. Cassinelli dead, her baby nearby, crying. Eugene had fled. Police caught him.

BIBLE BILL BACKERS, 'TRICKED,' THEY CHARGE, PLAN TO RESUME FIGHT

Dangerous Fires Smoulder in Ashes of Hopes of Buchanan Measure Supporters as They are Defeated in Senate.

REFORM FORCES FOR NEXT MEET

Pet Proposals are Crushed as Penalty for Hold-up of Religious Legislation in Rules Committee.

COLUMBUS, Mar. 28.—Dangerous fires were smouldering among the ashes of the hopes of backers of the "reform" bloc Buchanan Bible Bill when tired legislators dragged themselves wearily off to bed at 3:35 o'clock this morning—with the two houses in technical "five minute" recess which will last until April 16.

Klan backers of the Bible bill were beaten, perhaps temporarily, but they went down fighting in a two hour informal wrangle on the senate floor and in senate corridors after the senate had recessed. "Tricked", they said, at the last minute in their persistent attempt to force their pet measure through the senate. They will resume the fight to force passage of the Bible bill when the legislature returns April 16. This agreement was reported in one of the strangest informal meetings of the senate chamber has ever seen after backers of the Bible bill, insistent that they be given another chance to pass their bill, had been prevailed upon to reform their lines during the three weeks' recess and make their last fight when the senate comes back to work.

"Bad Faith" Is Charged.

Groups of senators milled back and forth across the floor for nearly two hours after the senate had recessed and some of the members had left, only to be later recalled. Groups formed and reformed as members, their brains numbed by the 17-hour strain of the last day's session, attempted to chart a clear course through which the Bible bill could be steered to victory. The palaver ended with agreement to defer action until April 16.

When the fight opens again the "reform" group, mustering 20 votes, a clear majority of the senate and sufficient to pass the bill, will be forced to capture four additional votes to

PET BUILDING PLANS CRUSHED

State Institutions Hit as Appropriations are Slashed.

COLUMBUS, Mar. 28.—Pet building projects of a number of state institutions were scuttled and $2,200,000 was clipped from the appropriations for new highway constructions when the two houses of the legislature reached final agreement early today on the general appropriation bill.

Definite appropriations carried in the measure, as finally passed by both houses, after members of the joint conference committee labored for five hours on the measure, aggregated $65,350,000. To this must be added appropriation of the state's share of the proceeds of the auto tag fees and the gasoline tax—about $9,000,000—bringing the total appropriations for the biennium, including some $3,500,000 in the three supplemental appropriation bills and the Sundry claims bill, to $78,000,000.

Conferees clipped $3,500,000 from the total of the bill as it was reported by the senate finance committee and passed by the senate.

They also eliminated the clause which Governor Donahey had threatened to veto—which would take from the governor final decision on allocations

Condemned Slayer Hears Radio Song As he Awaits Fate

PITTSBURGH, March 28.—The soothing melody of "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" broke the regular jazz program of Station WCAE here last night in answer to the request of "Pistol Pete" Henry Jackson, condemned murderer.

Jackson listened on the county jail radio set as the song was broadcast then went to bed. He was taken today to Rockview penitentiary where he will be electrocuted Monday.

COUNCIL HITS BUILDERS FOR CLOSING WALKS

Propose Ordinance Calling for Overhead Protection.

PAVING URGED

Plan Renewal of Campaign for Repair of Sidewalks.

Closing of sidewalks in the business district while new structures are in the course of construction will be prohibited, if an ordinance, authorized by council, is adopted by the municipal legislative body at its next meeting. The proposal will require contractors, erecting business buildings, to construct roofed sidewalks as a protection to pedestrians instead of closing the walks entirely and requiring pedestrians to use the streets.

Solon Thomas Farrall called council's attention last night to the sidewalk at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets, which he asserted had been closed since last summer. Neighboring business men, he declared were objecting to the sidewalk being kept closed and, furthermore he asserted, the lives of pedestrians were endangered as they are forced to walk in the street. A fence, erected in front of ruins of one of the fire-swept Fifth street buildings extends a foot beyond the curb stone, he said.

Plan to Enforce Order.

"Contractors in cities are not permitted to close the sidewalks without making some other arrangement for people to walk and wes hould not be compelled to stand for such a practice here," he declared.

By a unanimous vote council ordered Solicitor Brokaw to prepare an ordinance, requiring the construction of temporary sidewalks in the business district, and have it ready for consideration at the next meeting.

Declaring that many property hold-

BISHOP SPEAKS AT M. E. MEET IN CITY AFTER COUNTY TOUR

Rt. Rev. Theodore Henderson Guest at Wellsville Dinner.

MEETS PASTORS

Contribution of $175 for Tornado Sufferers is Made.

Rt. Rev. Theodore Henderson, bishop of the Cincinnati area of the Methodist Episcopal church, who spoke in the First Methodist Episcopal church, Fifth and Jackson streets, at 7:30 o'clock last evening, was greeted by a crowd that taxed the capacity of the auditorium.

Henderson's visit marked his final meeting of the day in Columbiana county. He attended conferences of ministers and church leaders at Lisbon yesterday morning and afternoon and went to Wellsville for dinner at 6 o'clock.

He was accompanied by Dr. J. B. Caldwell, a member of the Genesee conference New York, but who has been engaged in missionary work in China for several years. Dr. Caldwell is one of the 25 Methodist missionaries in foreign countries who were recently withdrawn because of the lack of funds to support them. He spoke on the subject "Evangelistic Work in the China Fields," telling of the need for missionary work in the Far East countries.

Spends Night Here.

Dr. Frank G. Fowler, pastor of the church, presided. He presented Dr. H. S. Powell, district superintendent, of the Steubenville district, who introduced Dr. Caldwell and afterwards Bishop Henderson.

Bishop Henderson discussed the world service program and then took up the subject of personal work in the local church in the way of evangelism. A free will collection for the tornado sufferers, netted $175. The money will be turned over to the local Red Cross chapter. The congregational singing was led by Prof. H. F. Laughlin.

Bishop Henderson, who was a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Taylor, of the Park Boulevard over night, left this morning for Cleveland. He will speak at Akron, Sunday morning, and at Canton Sunday even-

Dr. J. D. Whitacomb, of Cleveland, will conduct services in the St. Stephen's Episcopal church Sunday morning and evening, in the absence of Rev. Lionel C. Difford, rector, who is recovering from a physical breakdown at Mt. Clemens, Mich.

Prof. Albert E. Clark, organist and choirmaster at the church, will give a 25-minute organ recital, beginning at 7:05 o'clock, preceding the evening preaching service. This will be the fifth number of the series of Lenten organ recitals to be presented by Prof. Clark. The program follows:

"Melody in F" ..... Rubinstein
"God So Loved the World" (Crucifiction) ..... Stainer
"O Star of Eve" (Tannhauser) ..... Wagner
"Pilgrims Chorus" (Tannhauser) ..... Wagner

200 Guests Attend Laughlin China Co. Indoor Picnic

About 200 guests attended the indoor picnic given at the Y. M. C. A. last evening by employes of the East End plants of the Homer Laughlin China company, members of their families and friends.

The athletic events began at 7:45 o'clock and were concluded at 9 o'clock. The decorators twice defeated the foremen in the volleyball contests.

A musical program was presented between 9 and 9:40 o'clock. This was followed by refreshments served in the banquet hall on the second floor of the building.

The picnic was arranged by the shop service committee, co-operating with the industrial department of the Y. M. C. A.

REV. A. L. DUNCAN SHOP SPEAKER

Rev. A. L. Duncan, pastor of the Avondale Street Free Methodist church, will be the speaker at the noon-day shop meeting to be held in the American Vitrified Products company's plant, East End Monday. Harold Allison will act as leader.

POTTERS WILL ATTEND PICNIC AT IDORA PARK

Annual Outing at Youngstown Resort on June 6.

PLAN PROGRAM

Labor Chieftain and Gov. Donahey Invited to Speak.

Idora Park, Youngstown, has been selected as the place for the annual outing which the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters will hold on Saturday, June 6, it was announced today.

Pottery workers from East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester, Newell, Sebring, Steubenville, Salineville, New Castle, Canonsburg, Kittanning, East Palestine, Wheeling, Salem, Niles, Alliance and other nearby places will attend the outing. The Youngstown resort was selected because it was the most centrally located.

The management of the park has agree to check picnic baskets without charge and to co-operate with the committee in making the affair a red letter day. All potteries will suspend operations for the day.

Excursion trains or electric cars will be operated to Youngstown from all pottery centers. The park has accommodations for 5,000 automobiles for those who elect to make the trip by motor.

The program committee will invite William Green of Coshocton, president of the American Federation of Labor; Governor A. V. Donahey and other notables to attend the reunion and to make addresses. A committee, consisting of William Ashbangh, William Watkin and Joseph Dickey, will look after the sports end of the affair, which will be the first brotherhood picnic in 10 years.

Representatives of approximately 40 local have been invited to attend a meeting at the N. B. of O. P. headquarters, Sixth street, tonight to discuss further plans for the outing.

DONAHEY VETOES FARNSWORTH BILL

COLUMBUS, March 28.—Gov. Donahey today vetoed the Fransworth bill seeking to provide competition for construction of bridge superstructures by counties.

ers failed to heed council's orders to lay sidewalks last summer, Councilman Kerr urged that steps be taken early this spring to force the construction of walks along main thoroughfares. He asserted that many sidewalks were laid last year, but there are still many places where the improvement is needed. As soon as the weather permits, the city will start to lay the sidewalks in front of property where the owners refused to carry out the council order.

A delegation of Shadyside avenue and Campground road residents appeared before council to urge the improvement of the 2,100 feet of roadway from Jethro to connect with the new paved road in the township. The road is in such deplorable condition that physicians refuse to answer a sick call after dark, it was declared. Council voted to view the road at an early date.

Requests for Improvements.

August Palmisano appeared before council with a request for permission to cross Peach alley with a switch to connect with the new warehouse of the Liverpool Produce company in Second street. The request was referred to the street committee for investigation.

A committee of Harker avenue residents, seeking a sewer to parallel Pennsylvania avenue, attended the meeting. Upon recommendation of the street committee, council will visit the scene of the proposed improvement.

The request for an extension of the water mains in Gardendale was referred to the service director for action after a committee spoke to council. The request from a Laura avenue property owner to close an alley leading from Laura avenue to Bradshaw avenue was refused.

Hugh Thorn, a member of the Carnegie library board, asked council to speed legislation necessary to roof the library building. An $800 appropriation for this purpose was made by council early in the year.

James Martin of East End opposed the resurfacing of Mulberry street south of the railroad crossing. He was informed that the legislation had already been started and that council shall proceed with the improvement.

20-Foot Street Proposal.

A petition from residents of Spring Grove avenue asking that the grade be established and the street opened was referred to the street committee.

An offer from Mrs. George Murphy to sell the city sufficient ground to provide a 20-foot street from Claiborne avenue to West Ninth street, was referred to the street committee, which will coinfer with the Y. & O. railroad officials. It is claimed that property owners of Claiborne avenue are unable to reach their homes with a vehicle.

A resolution declaring it necessary to improve St. Clair avenue from Young's alley to the north line of the Croxall property by surfacing was passed on first reading. Councilmen Chambers, Farrall, Kerr and Larcombe blocked an attempt to suspend the rules and pass the resolution on second reading.

Councilman Raymond Chambers reported an offer had been made to lease a small piece of city property near Race street, East End, by a party who wished to erect a filling station and provide a waiting station for street car patrons. Council deferred action on the request until it is formally presented to council.

Seek City Lot Lease Bids

Solicitor Brokaw was instructed to prepare a petition, to be signed by members of council and other city officials, which will direct the county auditor to place the delinquent street improvement assessments on the taxation duplicate for collection next December. In East Liverpool, there is said to be more than $100,000 in delinquent assessments, many of which have been standing for 20 years or more.

An ordinance to provide bonds for the improvement of Fifth street, Oak street, Carson alley and Fawcett street in anticipation of the collection of special assessments was passed on three readings. Another ordinance authorizing the service director to lease the city lot in West Sixth street to the higest bidder for a period not to exceed two yeras and at a rental fee not less than $2,000, was also passed on three readings. Councilman Thomas Farrall opposed the ordinance on second and third readings, expressing the opinion that there was no need of "rushing" the legislation. The present lease on the lot expires April 15 and the new ordinance provides for its lease for another period of two years under the same terms that it has been rented during the last two years.

Supervisor for Dumping Ground.

At the request of Sanitary Officer D. J. McKeever the solons voted to co-operate with the school board and the board of health in the employment of a supervisor to care for the dump ground at Patterson field. Council, it is said, has an offer from a man who is asking no salary to look after the work. Council also took steps to halt the dumping operations along the Park way road in the vicinity of Race street.

The street committee recommended that the Pennsylvania railroad company be forced to repair the crossing at the foot of Market street. The committee also recommended that William Devon be granted a long term lease on the ground at the corner of Sugar street and Thompson avenue. Devon has promised to fence this property, erect a wall and provide a sidewalk if council will grant the lease. The ground at this point is said to be steep and the city would be liable to damages in case of an accident.

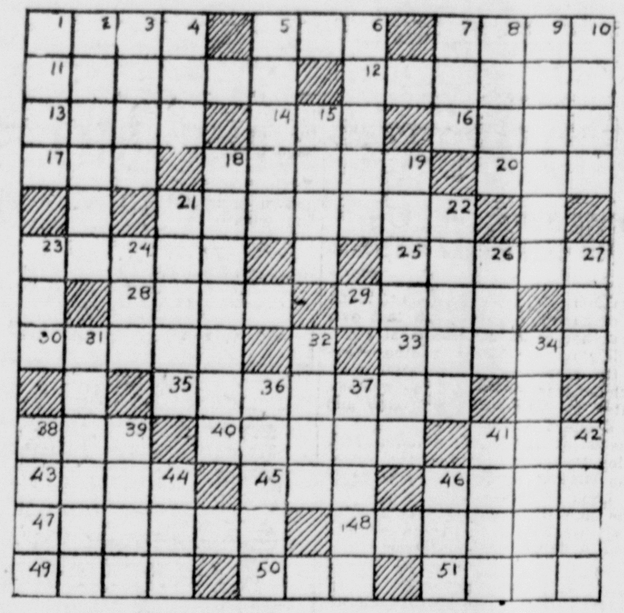

Improvement of Modoc alley, Etna alley, Springdale street and Smithfield street by construction of sanitary sewers was recommended. It was also urged that Denver street be scraped and ashed.

Herewith is solution to Puzzle No. 136:

How to Solve Puzzle.

The best way to solve this cross-word puzzle is to run over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms in search of evident or "easy" words. If horizontal, the word you are looking for must extend crosswise from the number to the first shaded stop on the right; if vertical, it must extend downward from the number to the first shaded stop below. When finished, the words should read equally well crosswise and downward.

Bible Bill Backers

force their bill out of senate rules committee for a vote on the floor, the needed motion for suspension of the rules requiring a two-thirds vote of the senate for adoption.

The whole course of the last day's session of the legislature, which opened at 9 o'clock Friday morning, and ended at 2:15 o'clock this morning, was rocked repeatedly by the Bible bill. Pet measures of leaders of the legislature went down to defeat while Klan backers wrecked their vengeance for the hold-up of the Bible bill in senate rules committee. Other measures were hopelessly lost in the legislative shuffle. Friendship were strained, charges of "steam roller," "trickery," "broken agreements," "bad faith" were flung about. Legislative action for 17 hours revolved around the bill.

Klan Filibuster.

The Klan filibuster broke out into the open when the senate rules committee, by a vote of 4 to 4, ignored the Bible bill on the last calendar. Senate backers of the bill at once moved to force the measure out of committee, but their motion to suspend the rules to permit a motion to force the bill upon the floor, with a vote of 20 to 11, lacked four votes of the two-thirds required. The filibuster was continued intermittently during the night.

At 2:15 o'clock this morning, the "reform" group themselves helped to knife the bill, when they supported a motion by Republican Leader Gardener for a "five-minute" recess. A few minutes later they found the recess was to continue for three minutes. Backers of the bill saw "red." The two-hour wrangle on the floor began. At times it looked as if they would force the senate to come back to work. In the end they agreed to wait until April 16 when the senate will return to consider the remainder of the third reading calendar and it will be possible to make the parliamentary moves needed for a showdown on the Bible bill.

While the fight lasted, threats were made and carried out to kill pet senate bills. It broke out into the open on the house floor when Speaker Silver held against Bible devotees who wanted to recess to watch the fight in the senate. Disorder reigned.

Threats of Reprisal.

Republican Leader Taft moved to clear the air, ordering a call of the house. Taft took the floor. Where there had been hubbub, one could have heard a pin drop.

"Word has come to me," Taft began, "that certain members of this house have taken it upon themselves to decree that all senate bills shall be voted down unless the senate agrees to considerable of the Bible bill. This assembly came here with a definite program and agreed upon a definite schedule of action. I want to know now whether the house desires to abandon this program and adjourn or complete our program."

Taft moved the regular order be continued. The house supported him, 64 to 46. The "reform" group had lost again.

Tension, however, seemed to grow. Feeling reached a climax later in the night when Representative George H. Roberts, Youngstown, rushed into the senate chamber, seized a long pole and pushed the minute hand of the big clock ahead five minutes, to indicate the five-minute recess had ended. Supporters of the bill shouted threats of reprisal from back of the senate rail, aimed apparently at no one in particular.

But the legislators were too worn out to continue the siege too long. They straggled off to bed, leaving the senate in its "five-minute recess" which is to continue for three weeks. The fight over the Bible bill smouldered, to break out again when the senate reconvenes April 16.

Bishop Speaks

ing. Dr. Caldwell returned to his home near Buffalo, N. Y., today.

Speaks in Lisbon.

The pre-Easter evangelistic campaign in the First M. E. church will continue Sunday and throughout next week. At the Sunday morning service, Dr. Fowler will speak on the subject "A New Heart" and Sunday evening on "Keeping Step."

"There are some half-baked Americans and some half-baked Methodists who only think of one language, and never give a thought to the saving of the souls of those who do not speak their own language," declared Bishop Henderson, during an address at a county conference of the official boards in the Lisbon church yesterday afternoon.

"There are 20,000 souls in the Steubenville district that will have to be looked after by the people of this church in this district," he said. "I'm one of those fellows who can't contribute to the relief of those of other nations while we have people right in our own midst who need succor. We have got to get out and help those in the Steubenville or the Cleveland district, and those in the mountains of Kentucky, where they eat and sleep as many as eleven in one room."

Need More Missionaries.

He related many incidents where Methodists were doing excellent work along this line, but the need of more teachers and missionaries in both the home and foreign field is greater now than ever, he said.

"Get this picture!" he exclaimed. "There are 175,000 people in one group in India knocking at the door of the Methodist Episcopal church to learn more about Christ, and we've been compelled to close the door. We have not the people to send there to teach and to help those whose souls are craving for the Gospel of Christ."

WALES' PARTY OFF TO AFRICA

Crowds Cheer as Prince Begins His 25,000 Mile Trip.

LONDON, March 28. — Edward, Prince of Wales, set off today on this 25,000-mile trip to two continents, Africa and South America, as the "ambassador of the British Empire."

A night of dancing and supping furnished his last gayety at home. A throng of Londoners crowded the streets to see him off for Portsmouth, where a regally fitted battleship waited for his cruise, and a staff of retainers and servants went with him to make the trip smooth.

Twenty-one cooks, stewards and waiters will prepare and serve H. R. H.'s meals. Two valets and eight servants will attend the personal wants of the prince and his party, which includes six officers of his staff. Confidential clerks will conduct his personal and official business and a special marine band will provide music aboard H. M. S. Repulse.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Mar. 28.—The stock market was extremely dull and price trends were downward today. Trading dwindled to an unusually small volume in the first hour. Opening prices were mixed, with Baldwin, General Electric and some of the oil stocks higher, while Northern Pacific, General Motors and United States Steel were down from a fraction to a full point. The market was practically lifeless in the first period and stocks wandered about aimlessly with prices gradually sagging to lower levels.

Industrial stocks leaders were pushed up a point or two at the opening but plenty of stock was available at theh igher levels and declines immediately set in. The brilliant movement in Pan-American, which close l Friday's session was nowhere in evidence. Some buying in specialty stocks and industrials accounted for moderate spurts in prices in a few of these stocks. Bullis sentiment was in evidence in the buying of the motor stocks and independent steel stocks with Gulf States and Crucible the most prominent in the latter group.

U. S. Steel lost ½ point at the opening and the bulk of sales in the first hour were made at prices below 117, compared to Friday's close at 117¾.

The forward movement in the shipping stocks carried Atlantic Gulf and Marine preferred to slightly higher levels and the mercantile stocks, including Macey and Beechnut packing made good responses to reports of good current retail trade. Railroad stocks were inactive and generally lower though Chicago nad Northwestern regained a little more of this week's losses.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Mrs. Sara Jane Plant, in loving memory of our dear mother who was taken away three years ago today, March 28, 1922.

What happy days we once enjoyed.
When we were all together.
But, Oh, it all is now.
Since you have gone forever.
You fought life's battles bravely,
And patiently stood every test,
And you always be known and remembered,
Because you were one of the best.

Annual Outing at Youngstown Resort on June 6.

PLAN PROGRAM

Labor Chieftain and Gov. Donahey Invited to Speak.

Idora Park, Youngstown, has been selected as the place for the annual outing which the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters will hold on Saturday, June 6, it was announced today.

Pottery workers from East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester, Newell, Sebring, Steubenville, Salineville, New Castle, Canonsburg, Kittanning, East Palestine, Wheeling, Salem, Niles, Alliance and other nearby places will attend the outing. The Youngstown resort was selected because it was the most centrally located.

The management of the park has agree to check picnic baskets without charge and to co-operate with the committee in making the affair a red letter day. All potteries will suspend operations for the day.

Excursion trains or electric cars will be operated to Youngstown from all pottery centers. The park has accommodations for 5,000 automobiles for those who elect to make the trip by motor.

The program committee will invite William Green of Coshocton, president of the American Federation of Labor; Governor A. V. Donahey and other notables to attend the reunion and to make addresses. A committee, consisting of William Ashbaugh, William Watkin and Joseph Dickey, will look after the sports end of the affair, which will be the first brotherhood picnic in 10 years.

Representatives of approximately 40 local have been invited to attend a meeting at the N. B. of O. P. headquarters, Sixth street, tonight to discuss further plans for the outing.

DONAHEY VETOES FARNSWORTH BILL

COLUMBUS, March 28.—Gov. Donahey today vetoed the Fransworth bill seeking to provide competition for construction of bridge superstructures by counties.

ers failed to heed council's orders to lay sidewalks last summer, Councilman Kerr urged that steps be taken early this spring to force the construction of walks along main thoroughfares. He asserted that many sidewalks were laid last year, but there are still many places where the improvement is needed. As soon as the weather permits, the city will start to lay the sidewalks in front of property where the owners refused to carry out the council order.

A delegation of Shadyside avenue and Campground road residents appeared before council to urge the improvement of the 2,100 feet of roadway from Jethro to connect with the new paved road in the township. The road is in such deplorable condition that physicians refuse to answer a sick call after dark, it was declared. Council voted to view the road at an early date.

Requests for Improvements.

August Palmisano appeared before council with a request for permission to cross Peach alley with a switch to connect with the new warehouse of the Liverpool Produce company in Second street. The request was referred to the street committee for investigation.

A committee of Harker avenue residents, seeking a sewer to parallel Pennsylvania avenue, attended the meeting. Upon recommendation of the street committee, council will visit the scene of the proposed improvement.

The request for an extension of the water mains in Gardendale was referred to the service director for action after a committee spoke to council. The request from a Laura avenue property owner to close an alley leading from Laura avenue to Bradshaw avenue was refused.

Hugh Thorn, a member of the Carnegie library board, asked council to speed legislation necessary to roof the library building. An $800 appropriation for this purpose was made by council early in the year.

James Martin of East End opposed the resurfacing of Mulberry street south of the railroad crossing. He was informed that the legislation had already been started and that council shall proceed with the improvement.

20-Foot Street Proposal.

A petition from residents of Spring Grove avenue asking that the grade be established and the street opened was referred to the street committee.

An offer from Mrs. George Murphy to sell the city sufficient ground to provide a 20-foot street from Claiborne avenue to West Ninth street, was referred to the street committee, which will coinfer with the Y. & O. railroad officials. It is claimed that property owners of Claiborne avenue are unable to reach their homes with a vehicle.

A resolution declaring it necessary to improve St. Clair avenue from Young's alley to the north line of the Croxall property by surfacing was passed on first reading. Councilmen Chambers, Farrall, Kerr and Larcombe blocked an attempt to suspend the rules and pass the resolution on second reading.

Councilman Raymond Chambers reported an offer had been made to lease a small piece of city property near Race street, East End, by a party who wished to erect a filling station and provide a waiting station for street car patrons. Council deferred action on the request until it is formally presented to council.

Seek City Lot Lease Bids

Solicitor Brokaw was instructed to prepare a petition, to be signed by members of council and other city officials, which will direct the county auditor to place the delinquent street improvement assessments on the taxation duplicate for collection next December. In East Liverpool, there is said to be more than $100,000 in delinquent assessments, many of which have been standing for 20 years or more.

An ordinance to provide bonds for the improvement of Fifth street, Oak street, Carson alley and Fawcett street in anticipation of the collection of special assessments was passed on three readings. Another ordinance authorizing the service director to lease the city lot in West Sixth street to the higest bidder for a period not to exceed two yeras and at a rental fee not less than $2,000, was also passed on three readings. Councilman Thomas Farrall opposed the ordinance on second and third readings, expressing the opinion that there was no need of "rushing" the legislation. The present lease on the lot expires April 15 and the new ordinance provides for its lease for another period of two years under the same terms that it has been rented during the last two years.

Supervisor for Dumping Ground.

At the request of Sanitary Officer D. J. McKeever the solons voted to co-operate with the school board and the board of health in the employment of a supervisor to care for the dump ground at Patterson field. Council, it is said, has an offer from a man who is asking no salary to look after the work. Council also took steps to halt the dumping operations along the Park way road in the vicinity of Race street.

The street committee recommended that the Pennsylvania railroad company be forced to repair the crossing at the foot of Market street. The committee also recommended that William Devon be granted a long term lease on the ground at the corner of Sugar street and Thompson avenue. Devon has promised to fence this property, erect a wall and provide a sidewalk if council will grant the lease. The ground at this point is said to be steep and the city would be liable to damages in case of an accident.

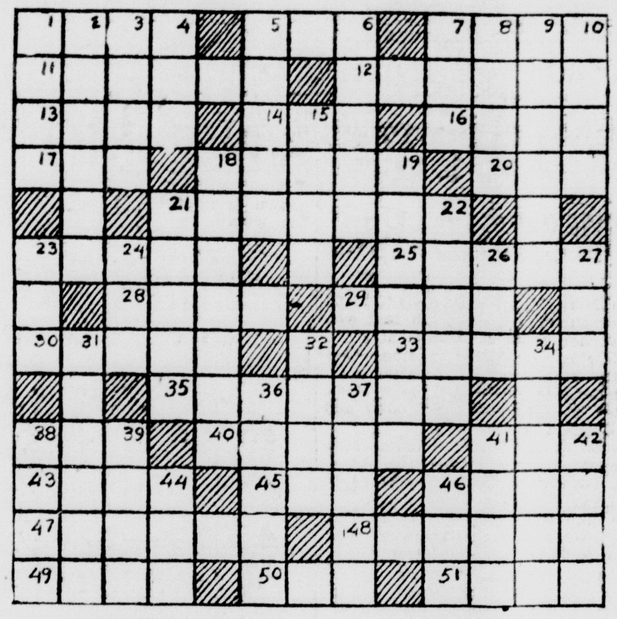

Improvement of Modoc alley, Etna alley, Springdale street and Smithfield street by construction of sanitary sewers was recommended. It was also urged that Denver street be scraped and ashed.

Australia's new aircraft factory is expected to turn out 150 airplanes the first year.

How to Solve Puzzle.

The best way to solve this cross-word puzzle is to run over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms in search of evident or "easy" words. If horizontal, the word you are looking for must extend crosswise from the number to the first shaded stop on the right; if vertical, it must extend downward from the number to the first shaded stop below. When finished, the words should read equally well crosswise and downward.

Bible Bill Backers

force their bill out of senate rules committee for a vote on the floor, the needed motion for suspension of the rules requiring a two-thirds vote of the senate for adoption.

The whole course of the last day's session of the legislature, which opened at 9 o'clock Friday morning, and ended at 2:15 o'clock this morning, was rocked repeatedly by the Bible bill. Pet measures of leaders of the legislature went down to defeat while Klan backers wrecked their vengeance for the hold-up of the Bible bill in senate rules committee. Other measures were hopelessly lost in the legislative shuffle. Friendship were strained, charges of "steam roller," "trickery," "broken agreements," "bad faith" were flung about. Legislative action for 17 hours revolved around the bill.

Klan Filibuster.

The Klan filibuster broke out into the open when the senate rules committee, by a vote of 4 to 4, ignored the Bible bill on the last calendar. Senate backers of the bill at once moved to force the measure out of committee, but their motion to suspend the rules to permit a motion to force the bill upon the floor, with a vote of 20 to 11, lacked four votes of the two-thirds required. The filibuster was continued intermittently during the night.

At 2:15 o'clock this morning, the "reform" group themselves helped to knife the bill, when they supported a motion by Republican Leader Gardener for a "five-minute" recess. A few minutes later they found the recess was to continue for three minutes. Backers of the bill saw "red." The two-hour wrangle on the floor began. At times it looked as if they would force the senate to come back to work. In the end they agreed to wait until April 16 when the senate will return to consider the remainder of the third reading calendar and it will be possible to make the parliamentary moves needed for a showdown on the Bible bill.

While the fight lasted, threats were made and carried out to kill pet senate bills. It broke out into the open on the house floor when Speaker Silver held against Bible devotees who wanted to recess to watch the fight in the senate. Disorder reigned.

Threats of Reprisal.

Republican Leader Taft moved to clear the air, ordering a call of the house. Taft took the floor. Where there had been hubbub, one could have heard a pin drop.

"Word has come to me," Taft began, "that certain members of this house have taken it upon themselves to decree that all senate bills shall be voted down unless the senate agrees to considerable of the Bible bill. This assembly came here with a definite program and agreed upon a definite schedule of action. I want to know now whether the house desires to abandon this program and adjourn or complete our program."

Taft moved the regular order be continued. The house supported him, 64 to 46. The "reform" group had lost again.

Tension, however, seemed to grow. Feeling reached a climax later in the night when Representative George H. Roberts, Youngstown, rushed into the senate chamber, seized a long pole and pushed the minute hand of the big clock ahead five minutes, to indicate the five-minute recess had ended. Supporters of the bill shouted threats of reprisal from back of the senate rail, aimed apparently at no one in particular.

But the legislators were too worn out to continue the siege too long. They straggled off to bed, leaving the senate in its "five-minute recess" which is to continue for three weeks. The fight over the Bible bill smouldered, to break out again when the senate reconvenes April 16.

Bishop Speaks

ing. Dr. Caldwell returned to his home near Buffalo, N. Y., today.

Speaks in Lisbon.

The pre-Easter evangelistic campaign in the First M. E. church will continue Sunday and throughout next week. At the Sunday morning service, Dr. Fowler will speak on the subject "A New Heart" and Sunday evening on "Keeping Step."

"There are some half-baked Americans and some half-baked Methodists who only think of one language, and never give a thought to the saving of the souls of those who do not speak their own language," declared Bishop Henderson, during an address at a county conference of the official boards in the Lisbon church yesterday afternoon.

"There are 20,000 souls in the Steubenville district that will have to be looked after by the people of this church in this district," he said. "I'm one of those fellows who can't contribute to the relief of those of other nations while we have people right in our own midst who need succor. We have got to get out and help those in the Steubenville or the Cleveland district, and those in the mountains of Kentucky, where they eat and sleep as many as eleven in one room."

Need More Missionaries.

He related many incidents where Methodists were doing excellent work along this line, but the need of more teachers and missionaries in both the home and foreign field is greater now than ever, he said.

"Get this picture!" he exclaimed. "There are 175,000 people in one group in India knocking at the door of the Methodist Episcopal church to learn more about Christ, and we've been compelled to close the door. We have not the people to send there to teach and to help those whose souls are craving for the Gospel of Christ."

Eggs from the United States were shipped to 33 countries within the last year.

Crowds Cheer as Prince Begins His 25,000 Mile Trip.

LONDON, March 28. — Edward, Prince of Wales, set off today on this 25,000-mile trip to two continents, Africa and South America, as the "ambassador of the British Empire."

A night of dancing and supping furnished his last gayety at home. A throng of Londoners crowded the streets to see him off for Portsmouth, where a regally fitted battleship waited for his cruise, and a staff of retainers and servants went with him to make the trip smooth.

Twenty-one cooks, stewards and waiters will prepare and serve H. R. H.'s meals. Two valets and eight servants will attend the personal wants of the prince and his party, which includes six officers of his staff. Confidential clerks will conduct his personal and official business and a special marine band will provide music aboard H. M. S. Repulse.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Mar. 28.—The stock market was extremely dull and price trends were downward today. Trading dwindled to an unusually small volume in the first hour. Opening prices were mixed, with Baldwin, General Electric and some of the oil stocks higher, while Northern Pacific, General Motors and United States Steel were down from a fraction to a full point. The market was practically lifeless in the first period and stocks wandered about aimlessly with prices gradually sagging to lower levels.

Industrial stocks leaders were pushed up a point or two at the opening but plenty of stock was available at theh igher levels and declines immediately set in. The brilliant movement in Pan-American, which closed Friday's session was nowhere in evidence. Some buying in specialty stocks and industrials accounted for moderate spurts in prices in a few of these stocks. Bullis sentiment was in evidence in the buying of the motor stocks and independent steel stocks with Gulf States and Crucible the most prominent in the latter group.

U. S. Steel lost ½ point at the opening and the bulk of sales in the first hour were made at prices below 117, compared to Friday's close at 117¾.

The forward movement in the shipping stocks carried Atlantic Gulf and Marine preferred to slightly higher levels and the mercantile stocks, including Macey and Beechnut packing made good responses to reports of good current retail trade. Railroad stocks were inactive and generally lower though Chicago had Northwestern regained a little more of this week's losses.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Mrs. Sara Jane Plant, in loving memory of our dear mother who was taken away three years ago today, March 28, 1922.

What happy days we once enjoyed
When we were all together.
But, Oh, it all is now.
Since you have gone forever.
You fought life's battles bravely,
And patiently stood every test,
And you always be known and remembered,
Because you were one of the best.

ACCEPT BOOKS FOR REST ROOM

Miss Elsie Berg was hostess to members of the Wellsville Twentieth Century club yesterday afternoon at her home in Tenth and Center streets.

Members responded to roll call with quotations from Josephine Dascom Bacon.

During the business session the club voted thanks to the Pennsylvania Railroad company for bookcases and books given by the company to the community rest rooms in the city hall, sponsored by the club. Flowers were sent to Mrs. E. L. McGarey, member of the club, who is ill.

Mrs. R. H. Alby sang two songs, accompanied by Mrs. Oliver Cummings.

Discussion on writers were as follows: James Branch Cabell, by Mrs. Naomi Forner; Rupert Hughes, Miss Carrie Southwick; Dorothy Canfield Fisher, Mrs. J. M. Darbaker.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Friday, April 10, at the home of Mrs. D. S. Morrison, Riverside avenue.

HIGHS CONCLUDE COURT SCHEDULE

Wellsville and Mingo Junction high school basketball teams are still on even terms, so far as court victories are concerned, as a result of last night's engagements on the Mingo floor.

The Wellsville girl's team, playing a fast brand of basketball, captured a hard fought contest from the Mingo girls by the score of 18 to 10.

Coach Zimmerman's boys, however, found themselves on the short end of a 26 to 24 count in the main clash, the home five winning the decision in the closing minutes.

Last night's contests rang the curtain down on the Orange and Black cage schedule for 1925.

Georgia Weekley led the Wellsville scorers in the girls' game, caging six field goals and four fouls for 16 of the sextet's points. Varnia and Hogenmiller performed well at centers while the great defensive playing of Foley and Moore kept the Mingo field scoring to three goals.

H. Dickey led the scoring for the boys with three two-pointers and as many fouls. Guard Scholl dropped in two double deckers.

The Wellsville passers led practically all the way, only to have victory snatched from their grasp in the closing minutes. A one-point margin, favoring the Orange and Black, separated the teams at the half. The score at that point was 15-14. Banks put up a good game at guard for the locals while Haesho, Scanlon and Ables starred for the winners.

BISHOP SPEAKS TO BIG AUDIENCE

Climaxing one of the most successful meetings of its kind held in the church in recent years, Bishop Theodore Henderson, in charge of the Ohio-Kentucky area of the Methodist Episcopal church, last night delivered an address to several hundred persons in the local church.

Bishop Henderson, after attending meetings in Lisbon in the afternoon, was a guest of the local church at a 5 o'clock dinner in the church basement.

Accompanying Bishop Henderson was Missionary Caldwell, who recently returned from a charge in China.

Approximately 200 persons attended the dinner which was served by members of the Epworth league. An attractive color scheme of pink and green was carried out in the decorations.

Missionary Caldwell discussed conditions in China in a short talk prior to Bishop Henderson's address.

Bishop Henderson spoke from the theme, "Live a Christian Life." He urged his hearers to appear honest before the Lord and to live a spiritual life.

After his address here Bishop Henderson went to East Liverpool for a meeting in the Methodist church.

Miss Falconer Hostess.

Miss Margaret Falconer was hostess to members of the Fortnightly club Thursday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. F. Campbell, Highland avenue. Fancywork was the chief diversion. Luncheon was served by the hostess. The next meeting of the club will be held in two weeks.

MISSIONARY TO LECTURE HERE

Miss Ruth Work, a missionary of the United Presbyterian church, in Egypt, will deliver an address on Tuesday evening, March 31, at 7:30 o'clock, in the First United Presbyterian church here.

Miss Work is coming to the local church as a guest of the Women's Missionary society.

COLUMBINE CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. John Dash was hostess to members of the Columbine club last evening at her home in Nevada street.

Following the regular business session the club observed a social hour. Luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. William Dalby and Mrs. Leonard Altier.

Guests of the club included Mrs. Wesley Maner and Mrs. Altier.

The contest prize was awarded to Mrs. Lena Workman.

The club will hold its next meeting in two weeks at the home of Mrs. George Schmidt in Wood street.

Wife Asks Divorce.

Ethel Marie Lomax, through her counsel, W. A. O'Grady of Wellsville, has filed a petition for divorce against her husband, James H. Lomax. The couple were married August 12, 1918. The plaintiff charges the defendant with gross neglect of duty.

Lomax resides on Fourteenth street, Wellsville.

May Take Dog Census.

COSHOCTON, March.—Sheriff Harold Marquand is considering the advisibility of a dog census of the county to compel owners to purchase tags. Last year, 3,790 tags were purchased and this does not include all dogs, for, admittedly, many were without tags, and he believes, with the natural increase, there are well over 4,000 in the county, while only 2,933 tags have been purchased this year.

Mrs. R. H. Alby sang two songs, accompanied by Mrs. Oliver Cummings.

Discussion on writers were as follows: James Branch Cabell, by Mrs. Naomi Forner; Rupert Hughes, Miss Carrie Southwick; Dorothy Canfield Fisher, Mrs. J. M. Darbaker.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Friday, April 10, at the home of Mrs. D. S. Morrison, Riverside avenue.

HIGHS CONCLUDE COURT SCHEDULE

Wellsville and Mingo Junction high school basketball teams are still on even terms, so far as court victories are concerned, as a result of last night's engagements on the Mingo floor.

The Wellsville girl's team, playing a fast brand of basketball, captured a hard fought contest from the Mingo girls by the score of 18 to 10.

Coach Zimmerman's boys, however, found themselves on the short end of a 26 to 24 count in the main clash, the home five winning the decision in the closing minutes.

Last night's contests rang the curtain down on the Orange and Black cage schedule for 1925.

Georgia Weekley led the Wellsville scorers in the girls' game, caging six field goals and four fouls for 16 of the sextet's points. Varnia and Hogenmiller performed well at centers while the great defensive playing of Foley and Moore kept the Mingo field scoring to three goals.

H. Dickey led the scoring for the boys with three two-pointers and as many fouls. Guard Scholl dropped in two double deckers.

The Wellsville passers led practically all the way, only to have victory snatched from their grasp in the closing minutes. A one-point margin, favoring the Orange and Black, separated the teams at the half. The score at that point was 15-14. Banks put up a good game at guard for the locals while Haesho, Scanlon and Ables starred for the winners.

BISHOP SPEAKS TO BIG AUDIENCE

Climaxing one of the most successful meetings of its kind held in the church in recent years, Bishop Theodore Henderson, in charge of the Ohio-Kentucky area of the Methodist Episcopal church, last night delivered an address to several hundred persons in the local church.

Bishop Henderson, after attending meetings in Lisbon in the afternoon, was a guest of the local church at a 5 o'clock dinner in the church basement.

Accompanying Bishop Henderson was Missionary Caldwell, who recently returned from a charge in China.

Approximately 200 persons attended the dinner which was served by members of the Epworth league. An attractive color scheme of pink and green was carried out in the decorations.

Missionary Caldwell discussed conditions in China in a short talk prior to Bishop Henderson's address.

Bishop Henderson spoke from the theme, "Live a Christian Life." He urged his hearers to appear honest before the Lord and to live a spiritual life.

After his address here Bishop Henderson went to East Liverpool for a meeting in the Methodist church.

Miss Falconer Hostess.

Miss Margaret Falconer was hostess to members of the Fortnightly club Thursday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. F. Campbell, Highland avenue. Fancywork was the chief diversion. Luncheon was served by the hostess. The next meeting of the club will be held in two weeks.

MISSIONARY TO LECTURE HERE

Miss Ruth Work, a missionary of the United Presbyterian church, in Egypt, will deliver an address on Tuesday evening, March 31, at 7:30 o'clock, in the First United Presbyterian church here.

Miss Work is coming to the local church as a guest of the Women's Missionary society.

COLUMBINE CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. John Dash was hostess to members of the Columbine club last evening at her home in Nevada street.

Following the regular business session the club observed a social hour. Luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. William Dalby and Mrs. Leonard Altier.

Guests of the club included Mrs. Wesley Maner and Mrs. Altier.

The contest prize was awarded to Mrs. Lena Workman.

The club will hold its next meeting in two weeks at the home of Mrs. George Schmidt in Wood street.

Wife Asks Divorce.

Ethel Marie Lomax, through her counsel, W. A. O'Grady of Wellsville, has filed a petition for divorce against her husband, James H. Lomax. The couple were married August 12, 1918.

The plaintiff charges the defendant with gross neglect of duty.

Lomax resides on Fourteenth street, Wellsville.

May Take Dog Census.

COSHOCTON, March.—Sheriff Harold Marquand is considering the advisibility of a dog census of the county to compel owners to purchase tags. Last year, 3,790 tags were purchased and this does not include all dogs, for, admittedly, many were without tags, and he believes, with the natural increase, there are well over 4,000 in the county, while only 2,933 tags have been purchased this year.

Nine-tenths of the moving pictures shown in England are made in other countries.

A Model Home

The Emporia (Kan.) Gazette is sponsoring the construction of a model home. The house is adapted to the needs and comforts of an average family and is to be built for about $6,000. The Gazette has made contracts at regular market prices. The quotations from builders and supply men will be duplicated to anyone else in the community wishing to build a similar dwelling. When the house is finished it will be outfitted in the same way, with the things an average family would require and with everything as tasteful, attractive and durable as moderate funds can buy. The heads of the local schools have been asked to make out a list of books suitable for this model home's library.

It seems to be a completely planned project and one which should be of great benefit to the community in every way. Local firms will compete for the various kinds of work entailed in building and furnishing the Gazette's house just as they would for the patronage of a private home-builder. There will be no special favors, reductions or other special considerations, for the model home is to be an advertising affair only in one sense. It will advertise to the community the fact that a competent and attractive home can be had for a moderate sum of money. It will also advertise the fact that everybody in the community, business concern as well as individual citizen, benefits in some degree every time such a home is built and used.

Spring Traffic Rush

Heavy traffic is no longer seasonal. Even snow-bound northern communities had their traffic problems all through the winer. Now that spring is here, however, there is an inevitable increase in motoring that bids fair to congest highways and by-ways all over the country.

For this reason there come renewed and strengthened warnings from traffic officials, safety councils and automobile association representatives. First of all they urge every driver to take to heart safe and sane driving as his own personal duty to himself and to the public. They ask pedestrians to realize that the most careful driver cannot always avoid injuring persons who step out unexpectedly into vehicular traffic where they do not belong. They ask dealers in automobiles to make it their duty to see that no beginner drives a motor car on the highway until he is thoroughly instructed and competent to drive properly.

Having pleaded for the safety of people, they urge also protection of the roads. Two ways to injure the pavements in which every automobilist has an investment, direct or indirect, are overloading trucks and driving too fast.

Let those who are concerned—and that includes nearly everybody who stirs abroad—heed these warnings.

Cheaper Wheat

Wheat has dropped about half a dollar in March, and accordingly a probe is ordered. It doesn't seem likely that official investigators will discover anything not already known.

The slump in the price of wheat, and to a less degree in other grains, has been world-wide, as was to have been expected in a commodity whose price is dependent on the demand of a world market. The big speculators have been unloading everywhere.

The United States department of agriculture recently reported that there was more wheat in the world than had been supposed. Private inquiries had brought the same information before the government vouched for it. Foreign trading centers have doubtless known it, too.

It is to be hoped that grain will not go still lower than it is new, for the sake of our great farming population, which is just getting back on its feet financially after lean years. At present prices, the raising of wheat, corn and oats may still be profitable this year, and insure sufficient planting to avoid a scarcity after next harvest. But prices held at their recent level of inflation would have been a burden to an urban and industrial population outnumbering the farmers.

Money Going Up

The Bank of England has raised its rate from 4 to 5 per cent. The federal reserve bank of New York has raised its rediscount rate one-half per cent.

This, a financial writer remarks, "means that the unlent supply of lendable capital is smallare than it was," and tht "a contraction of credit impends."

The immediate effect may be slight, though there is sure to be some check in speculation and prices. But the bankers responsible for such changes are far-sighted, and usually right. It may be probably will not continue indefinitely as plentiful and cheap as well at this stage of the game to realize that money and credit they have been lately. Those who are interested in loans may be expected to heed the warning.

New Note in Industry

The new president of the Federation of Labor says that industrial ware are caused by "a flagrant disregard or denial of the common rights of either employers or employes."

The thing to do, he declares, is for each side to try to see the other side as well as its own, and to realize the common ground between them, instead of emphasizing their differences.

Some of our leading capitalists lately have said the same thing.

It is indicative of a new day in industrial relations when labor leaders and captains of industry agree that the way to industrial peace and prosperity is not through aggressive warfare, intended in each case to crush the other side, but though better understanding of their common humanity and common interest. There is a growing feeling in industry today that future success lies in self-respecting co-operation.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

PARIS, March 28.—Gay, in a manner of speaking, Paree is one place where men and women may indulge the most fantastic ideas of dress without public ridicule. There is indeed no limit to this sartorial indulgence.

A comic strip type of Englishman is often seen about town. He is tall and gangly. There is a monocle in his eye and a bowler clapped far down over his ears. His dove white spats have gold buttons. His puff tie is turkey red. If he appeared in a New York play, George Jean Nathan would cry.

Then there is a fellow who wears a tiny pink cap. Tufts of gray hair sprout out at the side. His trousers are brown with pink stripes down the sides. His coat is a bilious yellow with two huge pearl buttons in the back. He is a dancing teacher in Montmarire.

In a wine shop on Rue de Rivoli is the proprietor who has extra long mustachios which he braids. An old cabbie who has a stand in front of the Cafe de la Paix wears a drop earring in one ear and one high topped boot on one foot and on the other a sandal.

The colored bobbed wigs of green, red and white are seen in all smart cafes at night, but they are worn mostly by the demi-mond. The idea that the Parisian woman is the best dressed in the world is another undying myth. American women beat them at their own game.

The most smartly clad of the species in Paris is the midinette. She has a dash and her cheeks are not blotched with cosmetics. She is a duplicate of our corn fed girls in America. The French woman begins to show her age early. And then to be coy and kittenish she flosses up like a circus horse with spangles, plumes and everything.

A pleasant caller today was Dr. Edgar O. Lovett, president of the Rice institute. He has been traveling through Europe for several months, making educational surveys of one sort and another. I don't know, but I have a sneaking idea that Dr. Lovett is just a bit homestick. He is pining for Houston, Tex., and knowing Houston I cannot blame him.

Basil Woon, an American correspondent, has written a book on Paris, a searching study of Paris from the Ritz to Montmartre. It is to be published in America. It is dedicated to his wife, who "had she not let me out nights this material would never have been gathered." Mr. Woon married a French lady. He has been in Paris seven years. London is his birthplace but America is his love, despite the fact he landed there 12 years ago jobless and with a capital of two cents.

The hinterland's cry that the best thing about New York is the train back home can be duplicated here. My passage home was delivered today. It buoyed me us as nothing else has. I expect to knock about a week longer and then sail for the best bit of land on the globe.

The fact is I am fed up on petty grafting. I have reached the point where when there is a knock at the door I instinctively reach for a franc. I have horrible dreams of hundreds of hands reaching out toward me. I curse myself of my cowardice and do nothing about it. A hat check girl today accepted a tip for a casual service and then asked for more. And weak-willed ninny that I am I gave it to her. O sole mia!

A drive to Versailles this afternoon refreshed my spirits. The sweeping beauty of the palace and gardens always leaves me breathless. The last time I was there was several hours after a famous Bluebeard's head went ploy into a basket. The guillotine was still there that morning and yet despite the greusome touch outside the palace gates you entered to lose all memory of it in the memory of France's royal splendor that is gone.

The Powerful Katrinka's Little Brother— By Fontaine Fox

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Government Movies—I.

WASHINGTON, March 28. — The United States, through the motion picture unit of the department of agriculture, is the largest producer and distributor of educational films in the world. Established in 1912 on a small scale, this organization, known as the office of motion pictures, was the first governmental institution in this or any other country to make movies for educational purposes.

It now produces 28 new pictures of from one to four reels every year. From six to 100 prints are made of each picture and they are furnished free for exhibition purposes to schools, colleges, churches, community centers, farmers' organizations, chambers of commerce, commercial clubs and theaters. Distribution is effected primarily through the 3,000 county extension agents of the department, and a motion picture projector has come to be as essential a part of the county agent's equipment as is his automobile. Many of the films are sent abroad.

All these pictures are produced and distributed at an annual cost to the government of approximately $60,000. This includes the maintenance of the stdio and laboratory in Washington, the purchase of supplies, and the salaries of the personnel of the division.

The pictures are all instructive, prepared for the dissemination of information which the farmer should possess and to drive home lessons that cannot be adequately or most forcefully presented through the spoken or written word. Many of them, however, tell "stories"—threads of romance and action that will stimulate and hold the interest and attention of those who view them. The scenarios are carefully worked out by experts and the pictures are made under the supervision of one of the three directors employed in the unit.

Needless to say, in view of the modest expenditures for this work, no high-priced movie stars are on the government payroll. In fact, no actors are regularly engaged. The casts of most of the pictures are recruited from the ranks of amateurs in the vicinity where the film is "shot," all of whom are glad to contribute their services for the experience. Only occasionally are professionals or semi-professionals employed, and then but briefly.

Wide Range of Subjects.

An exceedingly wide range of subjects has been covered in these government movies, as may be appreciated from the fact that the catalogue embraces 32 printed pages and the index lists almost everything from abattoir to zoology, from bacon to white-tail moths, from cabbage to vitrified brick, from dairying to tractors, from egg production to stockyards, from farm buildings to reforestation, from gardens to radio, from highways to peanuts, from irrigation to oranges, and from labor saving to marketing.

However, perhaps a more comprehensive idea of the nature of this decidedly interesting governmental service may be conveyed by citing the specific films that have just been released by F. W. Perkins, who is in charge of the office of motion pictures.

There are 19 of these pictures. First is a two-reeler entitled "The Green Barrier," a story of cattle grazing in the piney woods areas of the south, emphasizing the evils of firing the woods to "green up" the pasture. Next is "Sheep in Psalm and Sage," telling of the significance of sheep to man, economically and spiritually, and showing the great flocks of the west for their scenic interest and to give a general idea of the industry.

"Weighed in the Balance" is aa argument for cow-testing work, given through a story told by "Blossom," a deserving milk-producer. "Four Men and the Soy" illustrates the cultivation and utilization of soy beans. "Why Strawberries Grow Whiskers" sounds like the title of a Harold Lloyd comedy, but in reality it sets forth the story of black mould, the prime cause of the loss of strawberries in transit.

"Pines—From Seed to Sawmill," "Pines for Profit," "Dual-Purpose Trees" and "Wood Wisdom" are all pictures made for the forest service and their nature is indicated by their titles.

"Co-operative Marketing of Cotton" depicts the methods followed by the co-operative cotton marketing associations of the south, and shows the progress of the grower's bale from the gin to the mill, or to the seaboard for export shipment.

"A Crop Worth Saving" as a boys' and girls' club picture showing the process of the organization of Four-H clubs and their various activities, a club achievement day and a county contest. This picture was made in co-operation with Louisiana State university. "Touring With the Grangers" is the story of historic and scenic places observed by a middle west farmer who took his first vacation in 20 years and joined an automobile tour under the auspices of the National Grange, and shows West Point, the Hudson, Newport, Plymouth Rock, Provincetown, Boston, the mountains of Vermont and Niagara Falls.

For Our Latin Neighbors.

Two of the new pictures are of interest not only because of their nature, but also by reason of the circumstances under which they were made and the purpose to which they are dedicated. Last year the countries of Central and South America sent a Pan-American highway commission to the United States to study methods of road construction. One of the films, "A Highway of Friendship," shows the reception of this commission by federal and state officials and by the people in the various states that were visited, including North Carolina, Kentucky, Ohio, Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and the city of Washington.

The other picture, "Road Building in the United States," portrays the different methods of constructing important types of highways in this country, topsoil, gravel, penetration macadam, concrete and asphaltic concrete roads, and how the work is financed.

Both pictures are made with Spanish titles only and are for exhibition only by our Latin neighbors. Prints will be sent into each of the Central and American republics and their exhibition is expected to serve a dual purpose—one of diplomacy, in that the people of those countries will be gratified to see how cordially and elaborately their delegates were received and entertained in the United States, and the other of business in that they will contribute to the growth of our exports of road building machinery.

"Laying Lumbrious Low" is a film that will interest city folks even more than it will those on the farms and in rural communities, for it has to do with the damage to lawns and the putting greens of golf courses by that arch-villain, lumbious terristris, commonly known as the earthworm. It tells the story of how home owners and golfers learned from the department of agriculture the proper methods of dealing with that fiend and applied them with good results.

Pictures shortly to be released by Mr. Perkins' organization include "John Doe's Cotton and Yours;" "Across the Great Salt Desert" and three other films dealing with western highway construction work; "Watching the Weather Above" and "Charting the Upper Air;" "A Good Turn for the Forests," telling of the fire menace to our forests and boy scout activities in preventing fires, and "Poor Mrs. Smith," which teaches a lesson in appreciation of the advantages of farm life.

While all these pictures are for free distribution, the number of prints it is possible to provide may not meet the demand, hence it has been arranged so that extra prints may be purchased at a cost of approximately $37 for the standard-width slow-burning reel of 1,000 feet.

SICK 3 YEARS WITHOUT RELIEF

Finally Found Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Columbia, S. C.—"Your medicine has done me so much good that I feel like I owe my life to it. For three years I was sick and was treated by physicians, but they didn't seem to help me any. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got strong enough to do my housework, where before I was hardly able to be up. I have also taken the Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life and it has left me in good health. I recommend it as the best medicine for women in the Change of Life and you can use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. S. A. HOLLEY, R. F. D. No. 4, Columbia, South Carolina.

Why suffer for years with backache, nervousness, painful times and other ailments common to women from early life to middle age, when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will bring relief? Take it when annoying symptoms first appear and avoid years of suffering.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 200,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use.

Prayer Censorship Is Proposed For Iowa Legislature

DES MOINES, Ia.—Prayer censorship may be established in the Iowa legislature. There is deep muttering among some of the Hawkeye solons that ministers who open the sessions with long prayers should first submit advance copies of their intended supplications.

The cause of all the rumbles was a prayer of Rev. Frank W. Mutchler, pastor of the Union Park Church of Christ, of this city. The pastor asked for blessing for the proposed child labor amendment.

Opponents of the measure considered this propaganda and lobbying on the floor for the bill.

The supporters of the child labor amendment pooh-poohed such charges and so the tempest in the teapot rages on.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

You Cannot Hide Your Fat

Overfatness is the one misfortune which you cannot hide from yourself or from those around you. If too thin, your dressmaker or tailor can supply the deficiencies, but the overfat carry a burden they cannot conceal. There is one sure way to reduce your weight quickly and pleasantly—the famous Marmola Prescription. This prescription changes the fatty tissues and fat-producing foods to solid flesh and energy. It helps the general health and digestion. It permits you to eat substantial food. It leaves the skin clear and smooth. This famous prescription is now condensed into tablet form. Each tablet contains an exact dose of the same ingredients that made the original prescription capable of reducing the overfat body steadily and easily without the slightest ill effects. Take one tablet after each meal and at bedtime until the normal weight is reached and the bodily health completely restored. Ask your druggist for Marmola Prescription Tablets or send one dollar to the Marmola Company, General Motors Building, Detroit, Mich., and you will receive enough to start you well on the road to slenderness and happiness. Don't put off getting slender—this is your opportunity to make yourself attractive—so get a box and start today. adv.

A Model Home

The Emporia (Kan.) Gazette is sponsoring the construction of a model home. The house is adapted to the needs and comforts of an average family and is to be built for about $6,000. The Gazette has made contracts at regular market prices. The quotations from builders and supply men will be duplicated to anyone else in the community wishing to build a similar dwelling. When the house is finished it will be outfitted in the same way, with the things an average family would require and with everything as tasteful, attractive and durable as moderate funds can buy. The heads of the local schools have been asked to make out a list of books suitable for this model home's library.

It seems to be a completely planned project and one which should be of great benefit to the community in every way. Local firms will compete for the various kinds of work entailed in building and furnishing the Gazette's house just as they would for the patronage of a private home-builder. There will be no special favors, reductions or other special considerations, for the model home is to be an advertising affair only in one sense. It will advertise to the community the fact that a competent and attractive home can be had for a moderate sum of money. It will also advertise the fact that everybody in the community, business concern as well as individual citizen, benefits in some degree every time such a home is built and used.

Spring Traffic Rush

Heavy traffic is no longer seasonal. Even snow-bound northern communities had their traffic problems all through the winer. Now that spring is here, however, there is an inevitable increase in motoring that bids fair to congest highways and by-ways all over the country.

For this reason there come renewed and strengthened warnings from traffic officials, safety councils and automobile association representatives. First of all they urge every driver to take to heart safe and sane driving as his own personal duty to himself and to the public. They ask pedestrians to realize that the most careful driver cannot always avoid injuring persons who step out unexpectedly into vehicular traffic where they do not belong. They ask dealers in automobiles to make it their duty to see that no beginner drives a motor car on the highway until he is thoroughly instructed and competent to drive properly.

Having pleaded for the safety of people, they urge also protection of the roads. Two ways to injure the pavements in which every automobilist has an investment, direct or indirect, are overloading trucks and driving too fast.

Let those who are concerned—and that includes nearly everybody who stirs abroad—heed these warnings.

Cheaper Wheat

Wheat has dropped about half a dollar in March, and accordingly a probe is ordered. It doesn't seem likely that official investigators will discover anything not already known.

The slump in the price of wheat, and to a less degree in other grains, has been world-wide, as was to have been expected in a commodity whose price is dependent on the demand of a world market. The big speculators have been unloading everywhere.

The United States department of agriculture recently reported that there was more wheat in the world than had been supposed. Private inquiries had brought the same information before the government vouched for it. Foreign trading centers have doubtless known it, too.

It is to be hoped that grain will not go still lower than it is new, for the sake of our great farming population, which is just getting back on its feet financially after lean years. At present prices, the raising of wheat, corn and oats may still be profitable this year, and insure sufficient planting to avoid a scarcity after next harvest. But prices held at their recent level of inflation would have been a burden to an urban and industrial population outnumbering the farmers.

Money Going Up

The Bank of England has raised its rate from 4 to 5 per cent. The federal reserve bank of New York has raised its rediscount rate one-half per cent.

This, a financial writer remarks, "means that the unlent supply of lendable capital is smallare than it was," and tht "a contraction of credit impends."

The immediate effect may be slight, though there is sure to be some check in speculation and prices. But the bankers responsible for such changes are far-sighted, and usually right. It may be probably will not continue indefinitely as plentiful and cheap as well at this stage of the game to realize that money and credit they have been lately. Those who are interested in loans may be expected to heed the warning.

New Note in Industry

The new president of the Federation of Labor says that industrial ware are caused by "a flagrant disregard or denial of the common rights of either employers or employes."

The thing to do, he declares, is for each side to try to see the other side as well as its own, and to realize the common ground between them, instead of emphasizing their differences.

Some of our leading capitalists lately have said the same thing.

It is indicative of a new day in industrial relations when labor leaders and captains of industry agree that the way to industrial peace and prosperity is not through aggressive warfare, intended in each case to crush the other side, but though better understanding of their common humanity and common interest. There is a growing feeling in industry today that future success lies in self-respecting co-operation.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

PARIS, March 28.—Gay, in a manner of speaking, Paree is one place where men and women may indulge the most fantastic ideas of dress without public ridicule. There is indeed no limit to this sartorial indulgence.

A comic strip type of Englishman is often seen about town. He is tall and gangly. There is a monocle in his eye and a bowler clapped far down over his ears. His dove white spats have gold buttons. His puff tie is turkey red. If he appeared in a New York play, George Jean Nathan would cry.

Then there is a fellow who wears a tiny pink cap. Tufts of gray hair sprout out at the side. His trousers are brown with pink stripes down the sides. His coat is a bilious yellow with two huge pearl buttons in the back. He is a dancing teacher in Montmartre.

In a wine shop on Rue de Rivoli is the proprietor who has extra long mustachios which he braids. An old cabbie who has a stand in front of the Cafe de la Paix wears a drop earring in one ear and one high topped boot on one foot and on the other a sandal.

The colored bobbed wigs of green, red and white are seen in all smart cafes at night, but they are worn mostly by the demi-mond. The idea that the Parisian woman is the best dressed in the world is another undying myth. American women beat them at their own game.

The most smartly clad of the species in Paris is the midinette. She has a dash and her cheeks are not blotched with cosmetics. She is a duplicate of our corn fed girls in America. The French woman begins to show her age early. And then to be coy and kittenish she flosses up like a circus horse with spangles, plumes and everything.

A pleasant caller today was Dr. Edgar O. Lovett, president of the Rice institute. He has been traveling through Europe for several months, making educational surveys of one sort and another. I don't know, but I have a sneaking idea that Dr. Lovett is just a bit homestick. He is pining for Houston, Tex., and knowing Houston I cannot blame him.

Basil Woon, an American correspondent, has written a book on Paris, a searching study of Paris from the Ritz to Montmartre. It is to be published in America. It is dedicated to his wife, who "had she not let me out nights this material would never have been gathered." Mr. Woon married a French lady. He has been in Paris seven years. London is his birthplace but America is his love, despite the fact he landed there 12 years ago jobless and with a capital of two cents.

The hinterland's cry that the best thing about New York is the train back home can be duplicated here. My passage home was delivered today. It buoyed me us as nothing else has. I expect to knock about a week longer and then sail for the best bit of land on the globe.

The fact is I am fed up on petty grafting. I have reached the point where when there is a knock at the door I instinctively reach for a franc. I have horrible dreams of hundreds of hands reaching out toward me. I curse myself of my cowardice and do nothing about it. A hat check girl today accepted a tip for a casual service and then asked for more. And weak-willed ninny that I am I gave it to her. O sole mia!

A drive to Versailles this afternoon refreshed my spirits. The sweeping beauty of the palace and gardens always leaves me breathless. The last time I was there was several hours after a famous Bluebeard's head went ploy into a basket. The guillotine was still there that morning and yet despite the greusome touch outside the palace gates you entered to lose all memory of it in the memory of France's royal splendor that is gone.

The Powerful Katrinka's Little Brother— By Fontaine Fox

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Government Movies—I.

WASHINGTON, March 28. — The United States, through the motion picture unit of the department of agriculture, is the largest producer and distributor of educational films in the world. Established in 1912 on a small scale, this organization, known as the office of motion pictures, was the first governmental institution in this or any other country to make movies for educational purposes.

It now produces 28 new pictures of from one to four reels every year. From six to 100 prints are made of each picture and they are furnished free for exhibition purposes to schools, colleges, churches, community centers, farmers' organizations, chambers of commerce, commercial clubs and theaters. Distribution is effected primarily through the 3,000 county extension agents of the department, and a motion picture projector has come to be as essential a part of the county agent's equipment as is his automobile. Many of the films are sent abroad.

All these pictures are produced and distributed at an annual cost to the government of approximately $60,000. This includes the maintenance of the stdio and laboratory in Washington, the purchase of supplies, and the salaries of the personnel of the division.

The pictures are all instructive, prepared for the dissemination of information which the farmer should possess and to drive home lessons that cannot be adequately or most forcefully presented through the spoken or written word. Many of them, however, tell "stories"—threads of romance and action that will stimulate and hold the interest and attention of those who view them. The scenarios are carefully worked out by experts and the pictures are made under the supervision of one of the three directors employed in the unit.

Needless to say, in view of the modest expenditures for this work, no high-priced movie stars are on the government payroll. In fact, no actors are regularly engaged. The casts of most of the pictures are recruited from the ranks of amateurs in the vicinity where the film is "shot," all of whom are glad to contribute their services for the experience. Only occasionally are professionals or semi-professionals employed, and then but briefly.

Wide Range of Subjects.

An exceedingly wide range of subjects has been covered in these government movies, as may be appreciated from the fact that the catalogue embraces 32 printed pages and the index lists almost everything from abattoir to zoology, from bacon to white-tail moths, from cabbage to vitrified brick, from dairying to tractors, from egg production to stockyards, from farm buildings to reforestation, from gardens to radio, from highways to peanuts, from irrigation to oranges, and from labor saving to marketing.

However, perhaps a more comprehensive idea of the nature of this decidedly interesting governmental service may be conveyed by citing the specific films that have just been released by F. W. Perkins, who is in charge of the office of motion pictures.

There are 19 of these pictures. First is a two-reeler entitled "The Green Barrier," a story of cattle grazing in the piney woods areas of the south, emphasizing the evils of firing the woods to "green up" the pasture. Next is "Sheep in Psalm and Sage," telling of the significance of sheep to man, economically and spiritually, and showing the great flocks of the west for their scenic interest and to give a general idea of the industry.

"Weighed in the Balance" is an argument for cow-testing work, given through a story told by "Blossom," a deserving milk producer. "Four Men and the Soy" illustrates the cultivation and utilization of soy beans. "Why Strawberries Grow Whiskers" sounds like the title of a Harold Lloyd comedy, but in reality it sets forth the story of black mould, the prime cause of the loss of strawberries in transit.

"Pines—From Seed to Sawmill," "Pines for Profit," "Dual-Purpose Trees" and "Wood Wisdom" are all pictures made for the forest service and their nature is indicated by their titles.

"Co-operative Marketing of Cotton" depicts the methods followed by the co-operative cotton marketing associations of the south, and shows the progress of the grower's bale from the gin to the mill, or to the seaboard for export shipment.

"A Crop Worth Saving" as a boys' and girls' club picture showing the process of the organization of Four-H clubs and their various activities, a club achievement day and a county contest. This picture was made in co-operation with Louisiana State university. "Touring With the Grangers" is the story of historic and scenic places observed by a middle west farmer who took his first vacation in 20 years and joined an automobile tour under the auspices of the National Grange, and shows West Point, the Hudson, Newport, Plymouth Rock, Provincetown, Boston, the mountains of Vermont and Niagara Falls.

For Our Latin Neighbors.

Two of the new pictures are of interest not only because of their nature, but also by reason of the circumstances under which they were made and the purpose to which they are dedicated. Last year the countries of Central and South America sent a Pan-American highway commission to the United States to study methods of road construction. One of the films, "A Highway of Friendship," shows the reception of this commission by federal and state officials and by the people in the various states that were visited, including North Carolina, Kentucky, Ohio, Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and the city of Washington.

The other picture, "Road Building in the United States," portrays the different methods of constructing important types of highways in this country, topsoil, gravel, penetration macadam, concrete and asphaltic concrete roads, and how the work is financed.

Both pictures are made with Spanish titles only and are for exhibition only by our Latin neighbors. Prints will be sent into each of the Central and American republics and their exhibition is expected to serve a dual purpose—one of diplomacy, in that the people of those countries will be gratified to see how cordially and elaborately their delegates were received and entertained in the United States, and the other of business in that they will contribute to the growth of our exports of road building machinery.

"Laying Lumbrious Low" is a film that will interest city folks even more than it will those on the farms and in rural communities, for it has to do with the damage to lawns and the putting greens of golf courses by that arch-villain, lumbious terristris, commonly known as the earthworm. It tells the story of how home owners and golfers learned from the department of agriculture the proper methods of dealing with that fiend and applied them with good results.

Pictures shortly to be released by Mr. Perkins' organization include "John Doe's Cotton and Yours;" "Across the Great Salt Desert" and three other films dealing with western highway construction work; "Watching the Weather Above" and "Charting the Upper Air;" "A Good Turn for the Forests," telling of the fire menace to our forests and boy scout activities in preventing fires, and "Poor Mrs. Smith," which teaches a lesson in appreciation of the advantages of farm life.

While all these pictures are for free distribution, the number of prints it is possible to provide may not meet the demand, hence it has been arranged so that extra prints may be purchased at a cost of approximately $37 for the standard-width slow-burning reel of 1,000 feet.

SICK 3 YEARS WITHOUT RELIEF

Finally Found Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Columbia, S. C.—"Your medicine has done me so much good that I feel like I owe my life to it. For three years I was sick and was treated by physicians, but they didn't seem to help me any. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got strong enough to do my housework, where before I was hardly able to be up. I have also taken the Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life and it has left me in good health. I recommend it as the best medicine for women in the Change of Life and you can use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. S. A. HOLLEY, R. F. D. No. 4, Columbia, South Carolina.

Why suffer for years with backache, nervousness, painful times and other ailments common to women from early life to middle age, when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will bring relief? Take it when annoying symptoms first appear and avoid years of suffering.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 200,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use.

Prayer Censorship Is Proposed For Iowa Legislature

DES MOINES, Ia.—Prayer censorship may be established in the Iowa legislature. There is deep muttering among some of the Hawkeye solons that ministers who open the sessions with long prayers should first submit advance copies of their intended supplications.

The cause of all the rumbles was a prayer of Rev. Frank W. Mutchler, pastor of the Union Park Church of Christ, of this city. The pastor asked for blessing for the proposed child labor amendment.

Opponents of the measure considered this propaganda and lobbying on the floor for the bill.

The supporters of the child labor amendment pooh-poohed such charges and so the tempest in the teapot rages on.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

You Cannot Hide Your Fat

Overfatness is the one misfortune which you cannot hide from yourself or from those around you. If too thin, your dressmaker or tailor can supply the deficiencies, but the overfat carry a burden they cannot conceal. There is one sure way to reduce your weight quickly and pleasantly—the famous Marmola Prescription. This prescription changes the fatty tissues and fat-producing foods to solid flesh and energy. It helps the general health and digestion. It permits you to eat substantial food. It leaves the skin clear and smooth. This famous prescription is now condensed into tablet form. Each tablet contains an exact dose of the same ingredients that made the original prescription capable of reducing the overfat body steadily and easily without the slightest ill effects. Take one tablet after each meal and at bedtime until the normal weight is reached and the bodily health completely restored. Ask your druggist for Marmola Prescription Tablets or send one dollar to the Marcola Company, General Motors Building, Detroit, Mich., and you will receive enough to start you well on the road to slenderness and happiness. Don't put off getting slender—this is your opportunity to make yourself attractive—so get a box and start today. adv.

CHILDRENS CROSS WORD PUZZLE

Children's Pictorial Cross Word Puzzle—How To Solve Puzzle.

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

Running Across.

Word 4. "Yankee Doodle ——."
Word 7. Every king has one to wear on his head.
Word 10. Synonym for the world in capitals in this sentence: "Fools rush in where angels fear to STEP."

Running Down.

Word 1. Sorrowful.
Word 2. A small roadside hotel.
Word 3. Opposite of sad.
Word 5. What we breathe.
Word 6. It falls at night.
Word 7. A small couch or bed.
Word 8. To be indebted to.
Word 9. A slight bow.

Authentic Story Of Old Carthage In Plain Dealer

Almost everybody knows that there are Carthages in the United States and that Utica is a flourishing city in New York; but it is only in the last month or two, probably, that it became generally known that there was a Carthage of antiquity of a million population and a Utica, 300,000, the neighbor of old Carthage and about the same distance from her as Akron is from Cleveland.

The reason for that sudden access of acquaintance with the past is report of a gigantic, organized attempt to uncover these two historic cities. News of preparation for the enterprise already has appeared in newspapers. The Cleveland Plain Dealer has virtually a staff representative with the Carthage-Utica expedition, Count Prorok, attached to the expedition as a representative of the French government, which is partner with five universities in the vast undertaking.

The Prorok articles and news dispatches will appear in The Plain Dealer as the work of disentombing these interesting cities progresses. The first major article by Prorok will appear Sunday, March 29.

Wrestling information from ruin and relics has become almost a passion, a passion which no longer is confined to the student and the adult. The secrets of a boudoir of 2,000 years ago fascinate the girl reader; boys cannot fail to be interested in the sports of bygone centuries, particularly when they learn that there were intercity leagues then as now; and so on down the list of experiences and habits that make up life whether then or today.

The Plain Dealer makes it possible for Ohio readers to follow operations at Carthage and elsewhere in northern Africa as closely and freshly as if they were occurring downstate.

Monstrosity Made to Order.

Dr. Marie Heinrichs of Chicago, is credited with having discovered how to make monstrosities to order. She exposes minnow's eggs to ultra violet rays of the mercury vapor lamp and by timing the exposures she can produce fish with one to four eyes as desired. Likewise she has developed fish with two heads, two tails and all sorts of other peculiarities.

Briton Will Explore Unknown Regions in Behind the Andes

LONDON—Dr. William McGovern, the English explorer who recently startled the world by penetrating into the Forbidden City of Lhasa, Tibet, disguised as a monk, is arranging a trip across the Andes into the unknown regions of Peru.

The expedition will consist of a party of three, and will attempt to penetrate the 1,000 miles of unknown territory which lie behind the Andes mapping it and endeavoring to secure prehistoric relics and data.

Antiseptic Strong But Safe.

Hexylresorcinol, the new antiseptic developed in the laboratories of the National Research Council, and used at Johns Hopkins hospital, is said to be fifty times stronger than carbolic acid in its power to kill disease germs, and yet is so harmless to mankind that it may be swallowed without injury. Dr. Veador Leonard to test its effect upon the human system took some of it himself after watching the effects upon rates when they had been fed with it. He and six other men then took increasingly larger doses daily with no ill effects, demonstrating that it was harmless.

CHILDRENS CROSS WORD PUZZLE

Children's Pictorial Cross Word Puzzle—How To Solve Puzzle.

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

Running Across.

Word 4. "Yankee Doodle ——."
Word 7. Every king has one to wear on his head.
Word 10. Synonym for the world in capitals in this sentence: "Fools rush in where angels fear to STEP."

Running Down.

Word 1. Sorrowful.
Word 2. A small roadside hotel.
Word 3. Opposite of sad.
Word 5. What we breathe.
Word 6. It falls at night.
Word 7. A small couch or bed.
Word 8. To be indebted to.
Word 9. A slight bow.

A COUGH REMEDY WITHOUT OPIATES.

Many cough preparations contain some one or more harmful drugs which are added to take the place of opiates. None of these narotic substitutes have ever been used in FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND. The name of every ingredient is plainly printed on every carton. You know what you are taking when you take Foley's. It clings to the throat. Good for old and young. You have a cough, why not try it. Refuse substitutes. Sold everywhere.

"Come along! "I'm on my way to the drug store to get a bottle of NEEDHAM'S CREOPINE for my cough! It'll get rid of it in a jiffy.

Authentic Story Of Old Carthage In Plain Dealer

Almost everybody knows that there are Carthages in the United States and that Utica is a flourishing city in New York; but it is only in the last month or two, probably, that it became generally known that there was a Carthage of antiquity of a million population and a Utica, 300,000, the neighbor of old Carthage and about the same distance from her as Akron is from Cleveland.

The reason for that sudden access of acquaintance with the past is report of a gigantic, organized attempt to uncover these two historic cities. News of preparation for the enterprise already has appeared in newspapers. The Cleveland Plain Dealer has virtually a staff representative with the Carthage-Utica expedition. Count Prorok, attached to the expedition as a representative of the French government, which is partner with five universities in the vast undertaking.

The Prorok articles and news dispatches will appear in The Plain Dealer as the work of disentombing these interesting cities progresses. The first major article by Prorok will appear Sunday, March 29.

Wrestling information from ruin and relics has become almost a passion, a passion which no longer is confined to the student and the adult. The secrets of a boudoir of 2,000 years ago fascinate the girl reader; boys cannot fail to be interested in the sports of bygone centuries, particularly when they learn that there were intercity leagues then as now; and so on down the list of experiences and habits that make up life whether then or today.

The Plain Dealer makes it possible for Ohio readers to follow operations at Carthage and elsewhere in northern Africa as closely and freshly as if they were occurring downstate.

Monstrosity Made to Order.

Dr. Marie Heinrichs of Chicago, is credited with having discovered how to make monstrosities to order. She exposes minnow's eggs to ultra violet rays of the mercury vapor lamp and by timing the exposures she can produce fish with one to four eyes as desired. Likewise she has developed fish with two heads, two tails and all sorts of other peculiarities.

MERGER MEASURE FACING DEFEAT

A movement which would undoubtedly would have resulted in the defeat of house bill consolidating the towns of Benwood and McMechen, was blocked in the house of delegates yesterday afternoon because of the fact that a gentlman's agreement was entered into early today providing that no business should be transacted during the session. Legislators agreed to this plan when several delegates expressed a desire to spend the week-end at their homes.

The house committee on counties, districts and municipalities reported the consolidation bill without recommendation this afternoon. Dr. L. M. Robinson, of Harrison county explaining the reason for the report, saying that the delegation from Marshall county is divided, the two senators from the second district are divided and the two towns are divided on the question.

FIGHT PREDICTED ON GASOLINE TAX

The bill proposing an increase in the present gasoline tax is expected to come up in the lower house at Charleston next week. Battle lines have been formed and a strong effort will be made to defeat the measure. The tax now is two cents and under the terms of the pending bill another cent wou'd be added.

Auto clubs of the state are united in the campaign to bring about the defeat of the proposal, while a number of other civic organizations are giving it earnest support.

Cast to Rehearse.

Members of the cast that will appear in the production of "Cheer Up," next Thursday and Friday evenings in the Chester theatre will hold rehearsals every evening next week until the show. The play is being produced under the auspices of Crescent chapter No. 49, Order of Eastern Star.

Many Seek Auto Tags.

During the past week number of local auto owners have filed applications for license tags for the three-quarter year period which begins next Wednesday. Applications will be acted on in order of receipt by the state road commission at Charleston.

War on Dogs Continues.

Chief of Police Brady Seevers still continues the war launched recently on dogs roaming the streets of the city and many have been picked up by that official. Some have been shot while others were claimed by their owners.

Boy Scout Troops.

Members of the Chester Boy Scout troop met last evening in the Welfare house. The session was in charge of Scoutmaster Whalon. Number of hikes have been planned for the summer.

To Resume Road Work.

Work on the uncompleted stretch of the highway near Laughlin's Corners is expected to be resumed in the near future. Large force of men will be employed in order to rush the improvement to speedy completion.

Prices of fish at St. Johns, Newfoundland, have recently been the highest of any time since the war.

Jap Government Is Dismissing Employes Under Retrenchment

TOKIO—During 1925, under retrenchment plans worked out by the minister of finance and approved by the Japanese cabinet, 39,553 government employes will be dismissed from the service. The government's policy is to give each dismissed employe a "retirement allowance," and the total sum thus distributed during the year will amount to 42,397,060 yen. Of this sum 3,204,368 yen will be paid out in cash and the remainder in bonds.

Successful municipal undertakings of Southend, England, have made the tax rate so low that the city is rapidly growing.

Jap Government Is Dismissing Employes Under Retrenchment

TOKIO — During 1925, under retrenchment plans worked out by the minister of finance and approved by the Japanese cabinet, 39,553 government employes will be dismissed from the service. The government's policy is to give each dismissed employe a "retirement allowance," and the total sum thus distributed during the year will amount to 42,397,060 yen. Of this sum 3,204,368 yen will be paid out in cash and the remainder in bonds.

Successful municipal undertakings of Southend, England, have made the tax rate so low that the city is rapidly growing.

DEMAND FOR TUBERCULIN TESTED MILK IS GROWING

By M. K. Zimerman.

EAST ROCHESTER, March 28.—Because Columbiana county abounds in tuberculin tested cattle, within a few weeks 20,000 pounds of milk or 10 tons will be shipped from West township to Cleveland. Between $30,000 and $35,000 is no wbeing spent in the erection of a pre-cooling milk plant just west of here on the Lincoln highway by Samuel and Benjamin Vinocur, of Cleveland, an interest that is now taking 1,150 gallons of tuberculin tested milk out of this territory daily.

The project developed because of the fact that Columbiana county is one of the few counties in the northeastern part of the state where it is possible to secure this grade of milk and cream.

Two trucks are making daily trips between here and Cleveland hauling 115 10-gallon cans of milk. The demand for tuberculin-tested milk in Cleveland is growing at such an alarming rate that the larger distributors there are now looking to supply this demand.

Milk producers in Hanover and West townships, in this county, and those in East and Agusta townships, in Carroll county, are to be members of the Distributors' Co-operative Sales company. These producers are being paid $2.51 per hundred weight for their milk testing 3.5 per cent butter fat, and delivered at the station here. The Vinocur Dairy company is paying these producers on this basis, but in addition a premium of 5 cents per point for milk testing above this basis and 5 cents less when it goes below this standard test.

The pre-cooling plant that is now in course of erection on an acre tract a short distance west from the Cleveland and Pittsburgh railroad crossing here, will be in charge of Homer Arnold when completed. At a cost of $427 a water well was drilled to a depth of 170 feet. One three-cylinder Deming pump is to be used to create a pressure so that water can be used in any part of the plant.

The building will occupy a site 42 by 42 feet, and the cooling system will be the most costly part of the plant. After the milk is cooled it is to be run into large tanks where the temperature will be maintained, and from there it will flow into the two new thermos tanks, which will be mounted on trucks. These thermos tanks alone cost $4,000 each, not counting the cost of the truck chassis. The same schedule of four hours running time between East Rochester and Cleveland is expected to be maintained, just as is now the rule.

While another large Cleveland milk distributing interest is taking all the tuberculin tested milk it can obtain from Butler and Knox townships, the Vinocur Dairy company is taking practically the entire production of Hanover and West townships. This Cleveland company which is now bottling between 400 and 500 cases of quarts daily in addition to 300 cases of pints and 100 cases of pint creams, a little later proposes to bottle considerable milk at the new East Rochester plant, and enter the Alliance and Canton territory with tuberculin tested milk.

First shipments from this territory to the Cleveland market by this new interest began March 1. The increase in supply has been so heavy that the third truck is to be placed in transit immediately hauling between the gathering station here and Cleveland. As soon as the cooling plant is placed in operation over 2,500 gallon of milk will be trucked to Cleveland daily, and as a gallon of milk weighs eight pounds, the shipping of 10 tons of milk daily from these two western townships to Cleveland will immediately follow.

A number of producers in this district who have been shipping to East Liverpool have already changed their accounts, and it is said that others propose to save the East Liverpool shipping expense by making deliveries to the new station here.

The same rule applies to those producers who have been shipping to Salem, these producers now proposing to deliver to the new plant here.

Throughout this part of the county the owners of tuberculin cattle are elated over the situation that has developed. The fight that is being made against the testing of cattle in adjoining counties is said to be working to the detriment of producers in these counties, as the demand for non-tuberculin tested milk is dwindling.

Divorce Suit Filed.

James H. Andrews, residing in East Liverpool, and employed by the National Manufacturing company, of Wellsville, has been sued by his wife, Isail B. Andrews, for divorce, the petition having been filed by Attorney W. A. O'Grday, of Wellsville.

The couple were married April 21, 1909. Mrs. Andrews charges her husband with gross neglect of duty, and relates that he has failed to provide for her.

Certified Seed Oats Distributed Among Farmers of County

Four hundred bushels of certified seed oats of the Kiami variety have been delivered in this county and distributed among those who placed orders with the Columbiana County Farm bureau, and an additional shipment of 110 bushels is expected to arrive within week.

The first seed oats were distributed from Columbiana, Lisbon and East Liverpool, while the second shipments will be distributed from East Palestine, Summitville and Homeworth.

First shipments of certified seed potatoes will be received in this county from Wisconsin shipping points on or about April 15, it was announced by County Purchasing Agent Phil E. Heim today. This seed will be the Rural New Yorker variety.

The Rural Russets, which will be shipped out of Michigan, will not arrive until about May 1.

In all over 6,000 bushels of certified seed potatoes will be shipped into this county from Wisconsin and Michigan this year as against 10,000 bushels last year.

Equipment For New Telephone Office in Lisbon Delivered

Equipment for the new office of the Bell Telephone company, in Lisbon, has been delivered, but it has been announced that it will be probably July before an improved service will be possible through the Lisbon exchange.

Additional cables have been strung throughout the Lisbon district and it is proposed by the company to renew all of the old-fashioned wall and desk sets now in service in Lisbon.

The new central exchange office will be located on the second floor of the Henry building, South Market street, a lease on these quarters having been taken last year when the building was in course of erection.

Patterson Estate Executors Asked To Furnish Bond

A motion to have the executors of the will and testament of the late Monroe Patterson bond has been filed in probate court by Attorney Charles Boyd in behalf of Della Norris, one of the heirs.

Myrtle Jones, May Bryan, Ida Thompson and George A. Patterson were appointed executors of the estate.

A second motion filed by Mr. Boyd asks that the court require an inventory of the estate be filed as required by law. It is also asked that the property be appraised.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR DOG LICENSES

A total of 3,045 dog license tags had been issued by Deputy County Auditor Randall Hamilton up to Friday. This is a new high record for the collection of dog tax during the first quarter of any single year since the law became effective. It is predicted that over 3,100 tags will be issued before the close of business next Tuesday. A year ago about one-half this number of licenses had been issued during the first quarter.

Top Price for Hogs.

Shippers of hogs out of this county have been receiving top prices for their stock, it has just been revealed. A shipment out of Columbiana this week where 92 Hampshire hogs were loaded in one car, 74 head sold on a basis of $14.92 per hundred weight, with a shipping expense of 62 cents per hundred weight.

Suit to Recover.

The Union Savings and Loan company, of East Liverpool, through its counsel, George Y. Travis, has filed a petition in common pleas court against Mary C. Reynolds and others, of Sherwood addition, Lincoln highway, Liverpool township, seeking the recovery of $898.56 on a promissory note, and the foreclosure of a mortgage given to secure the instrument.

Mayor Helps Out Cupid.

Mayor Musser of Lancaster, Pa., is a good ally of Cupid. Recently Walter Watterson of Cochraneville, Chester county, arrived in Lancaster with "his girl" to take her to the movies. He broke about every traffic rule conceived for autos and eventlly was arrested, but the mayor came to his rescue, arranged a special session of the police court, had Watterson park the car in the mayor's yard, and finish the evening of sightseeing and theatre going with his girl.

A Romance of the Spanish Main

CAPTAIN BLOOD

by RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

SYNOPSIS.

Captain Peter Blood, buccaneer, rescues Arabella Bishop, with whom he is in love and Lord Wade, an emissary of King James, from two Spanish ships. Lord Wade offers Blood a commission under James, but the buccaneer had been sent as a slave to the Barbadoes by this same King and he declines. To place Arabella in safety he sails into the teeth of the British fleet commanded by Colonel Bishop, governor of Barbadoes, whom Blood had once made walk the plank. Blood's crew would fight to the end, but Blood orders the ship to heave to that Arabella may be landed safely.

"Again you misapprehend me," cried Lord Julian, between concern and indignation. "That is not intended. Your followers will be included in your commission."

"And d'ye think they'll go with me to hunt their brethren—the Brethren of the Coast? D'ye think I could take a commission of King James's? I tell you I wouldn't be soiling my hands with it—thief and pirate's hands though they be. Thief and pirate is what you heard Miss Bishop call me today—a thing of scorn, an outcast. And who made me that? Who made me thief and pirate? D'ye dream, man, what it is to be a slave? But there! I grow hot for nothing at all. I explain myself, I think, and God knows, it is not my custom. I am grateful to you, Lord Julian, for your kindly intentions. I am so. But ye'll understand, perhaps. Ye look as if ye might."

Lord Julian stood a moment, watching the tall figure as it moved away towards the taffrail. Then letting his arms fall helplessly to his sides in dejection, he departed.

CHAPTER XVIII

THE SERVICE OF KING JAMES

Miss Arabella Bishop was aroused very early on the following morning by the brazen voice of a bugle and the insisting clanging of a bell in the ship's belfry. In his cabin Lord Julian was already astir and hurredly dressing. About him in the waist, where all last night had been so peaceful, there was a frenziedly active bustle of some three-score men. By the rail, immediately above and behind Lord Julian, stood Captain Blood in altercation with a one-eyed giant, whose head was swathed in a red cotton kerchief, whose blue shirt hung open at the waist. As his lordship, moving forward, revealed himself, their voices ceased, and Blood turned to greet him.

"Good morning to you," he said, and added: "I've blundered badly, so I have. I should have known better than to come so close to Jamaica by night. But I was in haste to land you. Come up here. I have something to show you."

Wondering, Lord Julian mounted the companion as he was bidden. Standing beside Captain Blood, he looked astern, following the indication of the Captain's hand, and cried in amazement. There, not more than three miles away, was land—an uneven wall of vivid green that filled the western horizon. And a couple of miles this side of it, bearing after them, came speeding three great white ships.

Wolverstone looked down sardonically upon Lord Julian. "So that you're like to be in yet another sea-fight afore we've done wi' ships, my lord."

"That's a point we were just arguing," said Blood. "For I hold that we're in no case to fight against such odds."

"The odds be damned!" Wolverstone thrust out his heavy jowl. "We're used to odds. The odds was heavier at Maracaybo; yet we won out, and took three ships. They was heavier yesterday when we engaged Don Miguel."

"Aye—but those were Spaniards."

"And what better are these?—Are ye afeard of a lubberly Barbados planter? Whatever ails you, Peter? I've never known ye scared afore."

A gun boomed out behind them.

"That'll be the signal to lie to," said Blood, in the same listless voice; and he fetched a sigh.

Wolverstone squared himself before his captain.

"I'll see Colonel Bisho in hell or ever I lies to for him."

"Oh, but—by your leave," his lordship intervened, "surely there is nothing to be apprehended from Colonel Bishop. Considering the service you have rendered to his niece and to me . . . I assure you that my word counts for something in England."

"Oh, aye—in England. But this ain't England, damme," Wolverstone laughed.

Came the roar of a second gun, and a round shot splashed the water less than half a cable's-length astern. Blood leaned over the rail to speak to the fair young man immediately below him by the helmsman at the whipstaff.

"Bid them take in sail, Jeremy," he said quietly. "We lie to." But Wolverstone interposed again.

"Hold there a moment, Jeremy!" he roared. "Wait!" Captain and loyal follower faced, their glances met, sullen denance braving dull anger, surprise and pain.

"There is no question," said Blood, "of surrender for any man aboard save only myself. If Bishop can report to England that I am taken and hanged, he will magnify himself and at the same time gratify his personal rancour against me. I'll send him a message offering to surrender aboard his ship, taking Miss Bishop and Lord Julian with me, but only on condition that the Arabella is allowed to proceed unharmed. It's a bargain that he'll accept, if I know him at all."

"Ye're surely daft even to think of it, Peter!"

"Not so daft as you when you talk of fighting that." "Before we've run another half-mile we shall be within range."

Wolverstone swore elaborately, then suddenly checked. Out of the tail of his single eye he had espied a trim figure in gray silk that was ascending the companion. So engrossed had they been that they had not seen Miss Bishop come from the door of the passage leading to the cabin. And there was something else that those three men on the poop, and Pitt immediately below them, had failed to observe. Some moments ago Ogle, followed by the main body of his gun-deck crew, had emerged from the booby hatch, to fall into muttered, angrily vehement talk with those who, abandoning the gun-tackles upon which they were laboring, had come to crowd about him.

Even now Blood had no eyes for that. He turned to look at Miss Bishop, marvelling a little, after the manner in which yesterday she had avoided him, that she should now venture upon the quarter-deck. Her presence at this moment, and considering the nature of his altercation with Wolverstone, was embarrassing. Captain Blood bared his head and bowed silently in a greeting which she returned composedly and formally.

"What is happening, Lord Julian?" she enquired.

As if to answer her a third gun spoke from the ships.

"They are ships of the Jamaica fleet," his lordship answered her.

Before more could be added, their attention was drawn at last to Ogle, who came bounding up the broad ladder, and to the men lounging aft in his wake. Blood, confronted him.

"What's this?" the Captain demanded sharply. "Your station is on the gun-deck. Why have you left it?"

"Captain," Ogle said, and as he spoke he pointed to the pursuing ships, "Colonel Bishop holds us. We're in no case either to run or fight."

"Ogle," said he, in a voice cold and sharp as steel, "your station is on the gun-deck. You'll return to it at once, and take your crew with you, or else . . ."

"Threats will not serve, Captain." Captain Blood's hand closed over the butt of one of the pistols slung before him.

DEMAND FOR TUBERCULIN TESTED MILK IS GROWING

By M. K. Zimerman.

EAST ROCHESTER, March 28.—Because Columbiana county abounds in tuberculin tested cattle, within a few weeks 20,000 pounds of milk or 10 tons will be shipped from West township to Cleveland. Between $30,000 and $35,000 is no wbeing spent in the erection of a pre-cooling milk plant just west of here on the Lincoln highway by Samuel and Benjamin Vinocur, of Cleveland, an interest that is now taking 1,150 gallons of tuberculin tested milk out of this territory daily.

The project developed because of the fact that Columbiana county is one of the few counties in the northeastern part of the state where it is possible to secure this grade of milk and cream.

Two trucks are making daily trips between here and Cleveland hauling 115 10-gallon cans of milk. The demand for tuberculin-tested milk in Cleveland is growing at such an alarming rate that the larger distributors there are now looking to supply this demand.

Milk producers in Hanover and West townships, in this county, and those in East and Agusta townships, in Carroll county, are to be members of the Distributors' Co-operative Sales company. These producers are being paid $2.51 per hundred weight for their milk testing 3.5 per cent butter fat, and delivered at the station here. The Vinocur Dairy company is paying these producers on this basis, but in addition a premium of 5 cents per point for milk testing above this basis and 5 cents less when it goes below this standard test.

The pre-cooling plant that is now in course of erection on an acre tract a short distance west from the Cleveland and Pittsburgh railroad crossing here, will be in charge of Homer Arnold when completed. At a cost of $427 a water well was drilled to a depth of 170 feet. One three-cylinder Deming pump is to be used to create a pressure so that water can be used in any part of the plant.

The building will occupy a site 42 by 42 feet, and the cooling system will be the most costly part of the plant. After the milk is cooled it is to be run into large tanks where the temperature will be maintained, and from there it will flow into the two new thermos tanks, which will be mounted on trucks. These thermos tanks alone cost $4,000 each, not counting the cost of the truck chassis. The same schedule of four hours running time between East Rochester and Cleveland is expected to be maintained, just as is now the rule.

While another large Cleveland milk distributing interest is taking all the tuberculin tested milk it can obtain from Butler and Knox townships, the Vinocur Dairy company is taking practically the entire production of Hanover and West townships. This Cleveland company which is now bottling between 400 and 500 cases of quarts daily in addition to 300 cases of pints and 100 cases of pint creams, a little later proposes to bottle considerable milk at the new East Rochester plant, and enter the Alliance and Canton territory with tuberculin tested milk.

First shipments from this territory to the Cleveland market by this new interest began March 1. The increase in supply has been so heavy that the third truck is to be placed in transit immediately hauling between the gathering station here and Cleveland. As soon as the cooling plant is placed in operation over 2,500 gallon of milk will be trucked to Cleveland daily, and as a gallon of milk weighs eight pounds, the shipping of 10 tons of milk daily from these two western townships to Cleveland will immediately follow.

A number of producers in this district who have been shipping to East Liverpool have already changed their accounts, and it is said that others propose to save the East Liverpool shipping expense by making deliveries to the new station here.

The same rule applies to those producers who have been shipping to Salem, these producers now proposing to deliver to the new plant here.

Throughout this part of the county the owners of tuberculin cattle are elated over the situation that has developed. The fight that is being made against the testing of cattle in adjoining counties is said to be working to the detriment of producers in these counties, as the demand for non-tuberculin tested milk is dwindling.

Divorce Suit Filed.

James H. Andrews, residing in East Liverpool, and employed by the National Manufacturing company, of Wellsville, has been sued by his wife, Isaii B. Andrews, for divorce, the petition having been filed by Attorney W. A. O'Grday, of Wellsville.

The couple were married April 21, 1909. Mrs. Andrews charges her husband with gross neglect of duty, and relates that he has failed to provide for her.

Certified Seed Oats Distributed Among Farmers of County

Four hundred bushels of certified seed oats of the Kiami variety have been delivered in this county and distributed among those who placed orders with the Columbiana County Farm bureau, and an additional shipment of 110 bushels is expected to arrive within week.

The first seed oats were distributed from Columbiana, Lisbon and East Liverpool, while the second shipments will be distributed from East Palestine, Summitville and Homeworth.

First shipments of certified seed potatoes will be received in this county from Wisconsin shipping points on or about April 15, it was announced by County Purchasing Agent Phil E. Heim today. This seed will be the Rural New Yorker variety.

The Rural Russets, which will be shipped out of Michigan, will not arrive until about May 1.

In all over 6,000 bushels of certified seed potatoes will be shipped into this county from Wisconsin and Michigan this year as against 10,000 bushels last year.

Equipment For New Telephone Office in Lisbon Delivered

Equipment for the new office of the Bell Telephone company, in Lisbon, has been delivered, but it has been announced that it will be probably July before an improved service will be possible through the Lisbon exchange.

Additional cables have been strung throughout the Lisbon district and it is proposed by the company to renew all of the old-fashioned wall and desk sets now in service in Lisbon.

The new central exchange office will be located on the second floor of the Henry building, South Market street, a lease on these quarters having been taken last year when the building was in course of erection.

Patterson Estate Executors Asked To Furnish Bond

A motion to have the executors of the will and testament of the late Monroe Patterson bond has been filed in probate court by Attorney Charles Boyd in behalf of Della Norris, one of the heirs.

Myrtle Jones, May Bryan, Ida Thompson and George A. Patterson were appointed executors of the estate.

A second motion filed by Mr. Boyd asks that the court require an inventory of the estate be filed as required by law. It is also asked that the property be appraised.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR DOG LICENSES

A total of 3,045 dog license tags had been issued by Deputy County Auditor Randall Hamilton up to Friday. This is a new high record for the collection of dog tax during the first quarter of any single year since the law became effective. It is predicted that over 3,100 tags will be issued before the close of business next Tuesday. A year ago about one-half this number of licenses had been issued during the first quarter.

The board of revision, which has been in open session since Tuesday, held an executive session Friday to consider complaints that have been filed against the reappraisement values and upon which testimony has been taken. There will be no open meeting of the board until next week.

Case Appealed.

The case of Wallace Connelly and George Murphy against Abe Polinsky, of East Liverpool, heard in the court of Justice of the Peace Charles W. Powell, of that city, has been appealed to common pleas court by the defendant. The plaintiffs in this action sued for the recovery of $300 from Polinsky and the court rendered a judgment in favor of the plaintiffs.

Top Price for Hogs.

Shippers of hogs out of this county have been receiving top prices for their stock, it has just been revealed. A shipment out of Columbiana this week where 92 Hampshire hogs were loaded in one car, 74 head sold on a basis of $14.92 per hundred weight, with a shipping expense of 62 cents per hundred weight.

Suit to Recover.

The Union Savings and Loan company, of East Liverpool, through its counsel, George Y. Travis, has filed a petition in common pleas court against Mary C. Reynolds and others, of Sherwood addition, Lincoln highway, Liverpool township, seeking the recovery of $898.56 on a promissory note, and the foreclosure of a mortgage given to secure the instrument.

Mayor Helps Out Cupid.

Mayor Musser of Lancaster, Pa., is a good ally of Cupid. Recently Walter Watterson of Cochraneville, Chester county, arrived in Lancaster with "his girl" to take her to the movies. He broke about every traffic rule conceived for autos and eventlly was arrested, but the mayor came to his rescue, arranged a special session of the police court, had Watterson park the car in the mayor's yard, and finish the evening of sightseeing and theatre going with his girl.

CAPTAIN BLOOD

by RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

SYNOPSIS.

Captain Peter Blood, buccaneer, rescues Arabella Bishop, with whom he is in love and Lord Wade, an emissary of King James, from two Spanish ships. Lord Wade offers Blood a commission under James, but the buccaneer had been sent as a slave to the Barbadoes by this same King and he declines. To place Arabella in safety he sails into the teeth of the British fleet commanded by Colonel Bishop, governor of Barbadoes, whom Blood had once made walk the plank. Blood's crew would fight to the end, but Blood orders the ship to heave to that Arabella may be landed safely.

"Again you misapprehend me," cried Lord Julian, between concern and indignation. "That is not intended. Your followers will be included in your commission."

"And d'ye think they'll go with me to hunt their brethren—the Brethren of the Coast? D'ye think I could take a commission of King James's? I tell you I wouldn't be soiling my hands with it—thief and pirate's hands though they be. Thief and pirate is what you heard Miss Bishop call me today—a thing of scorn, an outcast. And who made me that? Who made me thief and pirate? D'ye dream, man, what it is to be a slave? But there! I grow hot for nothing at all. I explain myself, I think, and God knows, it is not my custom. I am grateful to you, Lord Julian, for your kindly intentions. I am so. But ye'll understand, perhaps. Ye look as if ye might."

Lord Julian stood a moment, watching the tall figure as it moved away towards the taffrail. Then letting his arms fall helplessly to his sides in dejection, he departed.

CHAPTER XVIII

THE SERVICE OF KING JAMES

Miss Arabella Bishop was aroused very early on the following morning by the brazen voice of a bugle and the insisting clanging of a bell in the ship's belfry. In his cabin Lord Julian was already astir and hurredly dressing. About him in the waist, where all last night had been so peaceful, there was a frenziedly active bustle of some three-score men. By the rail, immediately above and behind Lord Julian, stood Captain Blood in altercation with a one-eyed giant, whose head was swathed in a red cotton kerchief, whose blue shirt hung open at the waist. As his lordship, moving forward, revealed himself, their voices ceased, and Blood turned to greet him.

"Good morning to you," he said, and added: "I've blundered badly, so I have. I should have known better than to come so close to Jamaica by night. But I was in haste to land you. Come up here. I have something to show you."

Wondering, Lord Julian mounted the companion as he was bidden. Standing beside Captain Blood, he looked astern, following the indication of the Captain's hand, and cried in amazement. There, not more than three miles away, was land—an uneven wall of vivid green that filled the western horizon. And a couple of miles this side of it, bearing after them, came speeding three great white ships.

Wolverstone looked down sardonically upon Lord Julian. "So that you're like to be in yet another sea-fight afore ye've done wi' ships, my lord."

"That's a point we were just arguing," said Blood. "For I hold that we're in no case to fight against such odds."

"The odds be damned!" Wolverstone thrust out his heavy jowl. "We're used to odds. The odds was heavier at Maracaybo; yet we won out, and took three ships. They was heavier yesterday when we engaged Don Miguel."

"Aye—but those were Spaniards."

"And what better are these?—Are ye afeard of a lubberly Barbados planter? Whatever ails you, Peter? I've never known ye scared afore."

A gun boomed out behind them.

"That'll be the signal to lie to," said Blood, in the same listless voice; and he fetched a sigh.

Wolverstone squared himself before his captain.

"I'll see Colonel Bisho in hell or ever I lies to for him."

"Oh, but—by your leave," his lordship intervened, "surely there is nothing to be apprehended from Colonel Bishop. Considering the service you have rendered to his niece and to me . . . I assure you that my word counts for something in England."

"Oh, aye—in England. But this ain't England, damme," Wolverstone laughed.

Came the roar of a second gun, and a round shot splashed the water less than half a cable's-length astern. Blood leaned over the rail to speak to the fair young man immediately below him by the helmsman at the whipstaff.

"Bid them take in sail, Jeremy," he said quietly. "We lie to." But Wolverstone interposed again.

"Hold there a moment, Jeremy!" he roared. "Wait!" Captain and loyal follower faced, their glances met, sullen denance braving dull anger, surprise and pain.

"There is no question," said Blood, "of surrender for any man aboard save only myself. If Bishop can report to England that I am taken and hanged, he will magnify himself and at the same time gratify his personal rancour against me. I'll send him a message offering to surrender aboard his ship, taking Miss Bishop and Lord Julian with me, but only on condition that the Arabella is allowed to proceed unharmed. It's a bargain that he'll accept, if I know him at all."

"Ye're surely daft even to think of it, Peter!"

"Not so daft as you when you talk of fighting that." "Before we've run another half-mile we shall be within range."

Wolverstone swore elaborately, then suddenly checked. Out of the tail of his single eye he had espied a trim figure in gray silk that was ascending the companion. So engrossed had they been that they had not seen Miss Bishop come from the door of the passage leading to the cabin. And there was something else that those three men on the poop, and Pitt immediately below them, had failed to observe. Some moments ago Ogle, followed by the main body of his gun-deck crew, had emerged from the booby hatch, to fall into muttered, angrily vehement talk with those who, abandoning the gun-tackles upon which they were laboring, had come to crowd about him.

Even now Blood had no eyes for that. He turned to look at Miss Bishop, marvelling a little, after the manner in which yesterday she had avoided him, that she should now venture upon the quarter-deck. Her presence at this moment, and considering the nature of his altercation with Wolverstone, was embarrassing. Captain Blood bared his head and bowed silently in a greeting which she returned composedly and formally.

"What is happening, Lord Julian?" she enquired.

As if to answer her a third gun spoke from the ships.

"They are ships of the Jamaica fleet," his lordship answered her.

Before more could be added, their attention was drawn at last to Ogle, who came bounding up the broad ladder, and to the men lounging aft in his wake. Blood, confronted him.

"What's this?" the Captain demanded sharply. "Your station is on the gun-deck. Why have you left it?"

"Captain," Ogle said, and as he spoke he pointed to the pursuing ships, "Colonel Bishop holds us. We're in no case either to run or fight."

"Ogle," said he, in a voice cold and sharp as steel, "your station is on the gun-deck. You'll return to it at once, and take your crew with you, or else . . ."

"Threats will not serve, Captain." Captain Blood's hand closed over the butt of one of the pistols slung before him.

LIVE QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

Closing Scenes in Christ's Life—(Review of Quarter) for Sunday, March 29.

Lesson 1—To what extent has the reign of Christ been established in the world?

Lesson 2—What is the most encouraging thing in your thought of the judgment day

Lesson 3—Why did Jesus transform the Jewish passover into the Lord's Supper?

Lesson 4—What do you consider the most vital and practical teachings of John 14?

Lesson 5—What are the two most important lessons taught by the vine and the branches?

Lesson 6—Why is this one of the most remarkable chapters in the Bible?

Lesson 7—Of what help to Jesus were the disciples in the garden?

Lesson 8—How can the teachings of Christ be more effectively applied to the government of our community?

Lesson 9—Was it justice or politics that brought Pilate to his final decision about Christ?

Lesson 10—Do the attitudes of the two thieves fairly represent the attitudes of all peoples for or against Christ?

Lesson 11—What place did the meanings of the resurrection have in the building of the early church?

Lesson 12—How were the disciples completely confirmed in unwavering faith and obedience?

CLERICUS SAYS: It matters little how many times we study the life of Christ unless we practice the truth he came to teach. It is not enough to express something about Christ; we must be an expression of Christ. This is our task.

LESSON PRAYER.

Father, forgive us our silence concerning the things we have seen and heard concerning thy love as revealed in Jesus Christ, and teach us how to be joyfully active for thee.

BOOK REVIEW.

Christianity and the State, by S. Parkes Cadman, The MacMillan Co., New York, is a series of lectures delivered before the Pacific School of Religion upon the Earl Foundation. A volume by Dr. Cadman on this major problem is an event in the religious world.

Parenthood and Child Nurture, by Edna Dean Baker, The MacMillan Co., New York, $1.50, shows in how many ways the discoveries of modern child study may aid in understanding children better. It presents a summary of the facts of child development during the full period of childhood from birth to eleven years.

HOME TRAINING

Youth and Age Learning Together.

"Father, I would like a good talk with you," said a young man who had been attending a youth movement conference. "I do not want you to think me unkind or out of order but I have some serious convictions regarding our relations in the interests of the largest good to all."

"Very well, my son, I am certain with the large part the youth have had in the recent World War, they ought to have a larger place in the world's program after the war."

"That is it exactly, father. There is need of a new world program which dare not the made by war lords, profiteering lords, political bosses and hidebound traditionalities."

"Quite so, my son; it was painful to have to surrender our sons and daughters to suffer the pangs of national hate in shot and shell. Possibly we parents suffered as much as our children and if there is a way to avert its repetition, let us hear it."

"Might I suggest then that the time has come when youth and age shall learn together. Too long has it been said, "old age for wisdom, youth for action." Youth must be given credit for some wisdom and then a place for putting that wisdom into action."

"Furthermore, there are two false assumptions that need to be eliminated, namely, that authority should be withheld from the young and that youth is to learn from age but not age fro myouth."

"Agreed," said the father, "let us learn together.

Compare Gulbransen Music With Anything Else You Hear

Here, indeed, is the ideal musical instrument for the home.

It provides the best of piano music whenever you want it. It supplies whatever types of music you prefer. And you play it, with your own expression and feeling.

The Gulbransen Registering Piano is a permanent investment in good piano music, easily played. It does not go out of style. It requires no expensive upkeep. It is just as up-to-date as the latest roll you play on it.

The Gulbransen costs little, if any more than other forms of musical entertainment for the home. It knits folks closely together. Gives each one something that no other instrument does—the thrill and pleasure of personally playing piano music with real expression. It is not an expense at all. Rather an investment that daily pays big returns in entertainment and accomplishment worth while.

The Gulbransen can be bought on convenient terms of payment.

Your silent piano has a cash value when traded in on a modern grand or upright Gulbransen Registering Piano. Let us tell you what it is.

LIVE QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

Closing Scenes in Christ's Life—(Review of Quarter) for Sunday, March 29.

Lesson 1—To what extent has the reign of Christ been established in the world?

Lesson 2—What is the most encouraging thing in your thought of the judgment day

Lesson 3—Why did Jesus transform the Jewish passover into the Lord's Supper?

Lesson 4—What do you consider the most vital and practical teachings of John 14?

Lesson 5—What are the two most important lessons taught by the vine and the branches?

Lesson 6—Why is this one of the most remarkable chapters in the Bible?

Lesson 7—Of what help to Jesus were the disciples in the garden?

Lesson 8—How can the teachings of Christ be more effectively applied to the government of our community?

Lesson 9—Was it justice or politics that brought Pilate to his final decision about Christ?

Lesson 10—Do the attitudes of the two thieves fairly represent the attitudes of all peoples for or against Christ?

Lesson 11—What place did the meanings of the resurrection have in the building of the early church?

Lesson 12—How were the disciples completely confirmed in unwavering faith and obedience?

CLERICUS SAYS: It matters little how many times we study the life of Christ unless we practice the truth he came to teach. It is not enough to express something about Christ; we must be an expression of Christ. This is our task.

LESSON PRAYER.

Father, forgive us our silence concerning the things we have seen and heard concerning thy love as revealed in Jesus Christ, and teach us how to be joyfully active for thee.

BOOK REVIEW.

Christianity and the State, by S. Parkes Cadman, The MacMillan Co., New York, is a series of lectures delivered before the Pacific School of Religion upon the Earl Foundation. A volume by Dr. Cadman on this major problem is an event in the religious world.

Parenthood and Child Nurture, by Edna Dean Baker, The MacMillan Co., New York, $1.50, shows in how many ways the discoveries of modern child study may aid in understanding children better. It presents a summary of the facts of child development during the full period of childhood from birth to eleven years.

HOME TRAINING

Youth and Age Learning Together.

"Father, I would like a good talk with you," said a young man who had been attending a youth movement conference. "I do not want you to think me unkind or out of order but I have some serious convictions regarding our relations in the interests of the largest good to all."

"Very well, my son, I am certain with the large part the youth have had in the recent World War, they ought to have a larger place in the world's program after the war."

"That is it exactly, father. There is need of a new world program which dare not the made by war lords, profiteering lords, political bosses and hidebound traditionalities."

"Quite so, my son; it was painful to have to surrender our sons and daughters to suffer the pangs of national hate in shot and shell. Possibly we parents suffered as much as our children and if there is a way to avert its repetition, let us hear it."

"Might I suggest then that the time has come wher youth and age shall learn together. Too long has it been said, "old age for wisdom, youth for action." Youth must be given credit for some wisdom and then a place for putting that wisdom into action."

"Furthermore, there are two false assumptions that need to be eliminated, namely, that authority should be withheld from the young and that youth is to learn from age but not age fro myouth."

"Agreed," said the father, "let us learn together."

It requires about 12 hours to travel from Basel, Switzerland, to Brussels, Belgium, by train, and four and one-half by airplane.

SERMONOGRAMS

Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm.—Emerson.

Have your habits fighting for you, not against you.

Without courage you may as well be without conviction.

Life is full of dangerous crossings, and conscience is the flagman.

The logical "big brother" for any boy is that boy's own father.

Conceit may puff a man up, but it never props a man up.

Fame is a vapor; popularity an accident; riches take wings; those who cheer today will curse tomorrow; only one thing endures—character.—Horace Greeley.

Trust men and they will trust you, treat them greatly and they will show thmselves great.—Emerson.

There is a policeman in every man's conscience; you may not always find him on his beat.

People pay far more attention to our example than they do to our good advice.

If we were more careful of where we step those who follow us would not stumble so often.

It is better to say, "This one thing I do," than to say, "These forty things I dabble in."

Be a bold, brave, true, honest man. If you know a thing is right, do it. If you have a solemn conviction, dare to utter it in the fear of God, regardless of the wrath of man.—John B. Gough.

National League Champions A Month Ahead of Rival Clubs

Baseball Men in General Hold to Theory That a Greyhound in April is Often a Dachshund in September.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Rival National league managers are showing a disposition to criticize our Mr. McGraw because he hasn't brought his young men to a slow boil, as it were, but has cooked them to a rich, brown turn by way of pre-season conditioning. If the National league race were to start tomorrow there is little doubt that the Giants would get away running for they are all of a month beyond the rest of the field in condition, particularly the pitchers.

Baseball men in general haven't hesitated to say that McGraw is making a mistake and claim that the "Dog Days" of late August will prove it. Their theory is that a Greyhound in April is often a dachsund in September and the history of baseball does not say them nay.

In fact, the general trend of managerial strategy is away from the spring rush, although few have yet begun to put the idea into practice. Ty Cobb, managing a contender in the rival league, is one of them. There wasn't a ball tossed in the Tiger camp until March 2 and the first exhibition game took place as late as March 20. The Tigers haven't seen another major league club yet and won't until some time next week.

"Cob has the right idea," said Stanley Harris when the writer told him about this system of training. Yet it was noted at the time that the Senators were being rushed along as fast as the next, although it must be conceded that Harris is letting Johnson, Ruether, Coveleskie and other veteran pitchers proceed with their preparations without unseemly haste.

Not so McGraw. For many days early this month the so-called master mind had his complete squad out, morning and afternoon and some of them worked with such enthusiasm that he was constrained to call a halt. Even Art Nehf, strictly a warm weather pitcher, has worked himself into a state where he is as ready as a cocked pistol.

East Liverpool Fives In Wellsburg Contests

Both the Potters and the Power fives left early this morning for the Wellsburg Y. M. C. A. basketball tournament.

The Power five was slated to clash with the Fairfort Ex-Highs at 10 o'clock this morning, while the Potters drew a bye in the first round.

The Potters, however, will get into action this afternoon against one of the Bethany college fraternity teams, and if they win they will stack up against the winner of the Monessen Rangers-Wellsville Triangles battle.

Church League Teams Play on Three Courts

Sunday school league teams will be seen in action tonight on three city courts.

The Lutherans and United Presbyterians will play the preliminary to the high school girls' game at the high school.

The First M. E. and First Presbyterians clash at 7 o'clock and the Park Boulevards and Baptists at 8 o'clock on the Y. M. gym floor.

The Penn Ave. M. E. five and the Christians will play at the M. E. gym at 7:30.

Oklahoma Grapplers Win.

Girls Play Benefit With Ex-Champions

School Lassies Meet 1920 Sextet Tonight; Let's Help 'em Buy Sweaters, Fans.

Six girls who in 1920 carried E. L. H. S. colors to the pinnacle of basketball success in Columbiana county circles, will essay a comeback tonight on the high school court against the high school sextet of today.

Speed, perhaps, may not be there as in days of yore, the graduates admit, but, they contend, experience will count a lot.

The 1925 team will show its regular lineup tonight, while the Ex-Highs will use the same six that routed opposition back in 1920.

The contest will be a benefit clash, for the present school girls, who hope to be able to purchase sweaters from the funds received.

The quality of the main attraction is assured. And the preliminary ranks almost as high.

In the first clash on the card, the Lutherans and the United Presbyterians of the Sunday school circuit will battle. This contest is a regularly scheduled league contest and originally was to have been played at the Y. M. C. A. However, promoters of the high school affair believed it would prove a fitting send-off to their own game and accordingly had it transferred to the school court.

St. Louis Cardinals Ask $1,250 For Game

Offer Will be Rejected Unless Financial Support is Received Says Local Club Manager.

Is there a baseball enthusiast or group of such fans, in the city who would like to tackle the job of financing the appearance in East Liverpool on May 4 of the St. Louis Cardinals, Branch Rickey's National league entry in the 1925 pennant race? This is the appeal of the East Liverpool baseball club.

The St. Louis club wants a guarantee of $1,250 for a game on the East Liverpool diamond.

The Cardinals also ask a rain guarantee of $500 and insist upon a certified check for the entire amount of the playing guarantee or the rain guarantee the moment the club steps on the field.

The great Rogers Hornsby will be in uniform and will take part in the game if such is arranged. This would be one clause of the contract.

John Fowler, who formally took charge of the East Liverpool baseball club at its organization meeting last night, will furnish a first class baseball club to play the Cardinals if he can obtain financial backing for the venture. The East Liverpool baseball club has not the money to put up for the appearance of the Cardinals. But it has the players, or will get them, at least.

If financial support is not forthcoming, Manager Fowler announced today, the offer will have to be rejected, although with much regret.

Tunney Gets Decision.

ST. PAUL, March 28.—Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, has another popular decision over Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, today. They engaged in a tame 10-round go last night, Tunney showing to advantage in seven of the ten rounds. Tunney had a 14 pound weight advantage. Greb showed to advantage in the second and third rounds, in which he unloosed a volley of blows that forced Tunney to the ropes. But after that it was all Tuney's.

Chrysler Gear Ratio and Revolutions Same as Maxwell

The following article was clipped from the Motor Budget conducted by George W. Sutton, for the Buffalo Evening News.

Along with the rest of the motoring public I have thought that the Chrysler is a car with an extremely high speed motor, built on European principles. In fact, have heard automobile dealers mention this supposed fact to the detriment of the Chrysler. I was much surprised this week therefore, to find that the Chrysler has exactly the same gear ratio and revolutions per minute at 30 miles an hour as the Maxwell. The ratio is 4:60 at 1546 r. p. m. This is a slower engine speed at 30 miles an hour than that of the Essex, Overland Six, Auburn, Moon, Rickenbacker Six, Willys-Knight Six, Flint 40, Buick Standard, Cleveland, Hupmobile and Nash Six. It is faster than the Stutz, Wills Ste. Claire, Flint 55, Cadillac, Paige, Peerless Eight, Franklin, Buick Master Six, Jewett and Packard Eight.

National League Champions A Month Ahead of Rival Clubs

Baseball Men in General Hold to Theory That a Greyhound in April is Often a Dachshund in September.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Rival National league managers are showing a disposition to criticize our Mr. McGraw because he hasn't brought his young men to a slow boil, as it were, but has cooked them to a rich, brown turn by way of pre-season conditioning. If the National league race were to start tomorrow there is little doubt that the Giants would get away running for they are all of a month beyond the rest of the field in condition, particularly the pitchers.

Baseball men in general haven't hesitated to say that McGraw is making a mistake and claim that the "Dog Days" of late August will prove it. Their theory is that a Greyhound in April is often a dachsund in September and the history of baseball does not say them nay.

In fact, the general trend of managerial strategy is away from the spring rush, although few have yet begun to put the idea into practice. Ty Cobb, managing a contender in the rival league, is one of them. There wasn't a ball tossed in the Tiger camp until March 2 and the first exhibition game took place as late as March 20. The Tigers haven't seen another major league club yet and won't until some time next week.

"Cob has the right idea," said Stanley Harris when the writer told him about this system of training. Yet it was noted at the time that the Senators were being rushed along as fast as the next, although it must be conceded that Harris is letting Johnson, Ruether, Coveleskie and other veteran pitchers proceed with their preparations without unseemly haste.

Not so McGraw. For many days early this month the so-called master mind had his complete squad out, morning and afternoon and some of them worked with such enthusiasm that he was constrained to call a halt. Even Art Nehf, strictly a warm weather pitcher, has worked himself into a state where he is as ready as a cocked pistol.

Last Night's Fights

At St. Paul—Gene Tunney, New York, won popular decision over Harry Greb, Pittsburgh, ten rounds.

At Detroit—Jackie Nichols knocked out Sid Belt in five rounds.

Dyes Make Rugs Famous.

Chinese rugs lay their claim to fame mostly at the feet of the skilled dyers who impart the remarkable colorings, especially the blues, to these rugs. A Chinese rug weaver can complete only about half a square foot of rug a day, which lasts from daylight to dark. Much of the work is done by apprentices who are paid nothing. When they have served their apprenticeship their wage may be as low as 50 cents a day at the start, or $20 a month, which is the maximum ever paid.

Where You Pay Less

Dyes Make Rugs Famous.

Chinese rugs lay their claim to fame mostly at the feet of the skilled dyers who impart the remarkable colorings, especially the blues, to these rugs. A Chinese rug weaver can complete only about half a square foot of rug a day, which lasts from daylight to dark. Much of the work is done by apprentices who are paid nothing. When they have served their apprenticeship their wage may be as low as 50 cents a day at the start, or $20 a month, which is the maximum ever paid.

Did You Ever Try to Raise a Wild Fox?

Up in northeastern Ohio they have a fox farm, and the average value is around $1,500 for a pair. Doesn't seem possible that a couple of ordinary foxes could be worth as much as a first-class automobile, does it?

And for that much money you could buy a couple of our good Used Cars. We always have several in our salesrooms that have been thoroughly overhauled, and that are priced way below their actual worth.

Here's a Good Used Car We Offer You Today

Annual congregational meeting of the Second Presbyterian church will be held at the close of the morning services tomorrow. Officers will be elected and reports for the past year read.

Regular Church Services.

Services will be held in the churches of this section at the usual hours tomorrow. Pulpits will be occupied both morning and evening by the respective pastors.

COMMON SENSE IN SMALL DOSES

When Willie says his throat is sore,
When Willie's eyes are red;
Keep Willie home from school, my friend,
Keep Willie still in bed.

The av'rage man with lots of wealth
Is not concerned about his health—
In fact he seldom counts the cost
Until, Alas! his health is lost.

I've met many people,
But I've yet to behold
The fellow who hasn't
A cure for a cold.

If all the stuff that's recommended,
To cure disease could be commended,
We'd never have another ache;
We borrow, beg and buy precriptions,
From the tombs of old Egyptians—
Then discover they're a fake.

Parents who do not sow the seeds of truth in the fertile brains of their young children, leave fertile fields for sordid weeds.

Man thinks a lot of stocks and bonds
And of the things that he can sell;
But seldom thinks of stagnant ponds
Or the microbes in the well.

Young Girl Chocolate Dippers Make Large Wages, Report Shows

CHICAGO — Young girl chocolate candy dippers earn $60 a week and more, it was made known here in a workers' welfare commission investigation of candy factories. The big candy factory is a paradise for youth, according to the evidence.

"That's where the fur coats and fine clothes of working girls come from," testified the superintendent of one of the largest candy factories in the United States. "These girls have the fire of youth. They work fast and earn big pay."

In an appeal for wage increases for county employes, a London councilman recently said that half of the men had to buy margarine instead of butter for their families.

Concession to construct and operate railway lines totaling more than 1,200 miles have been granted by the government of Poland recently.

Perfumery and cosmetics used by the people of Hongkong last year cost more than $500,000, half being from this country.

COMMON SENSE IN SMALL DOSES

When Willie says his throat is sore,
When Willie's eyes are red;
Keep Willie home from school, my friend,
Keep Willie still in bed.

The av'rage man with lots of wealth
Is not concerned about his health—
In fact he seldom counts the cost
Until, Alas! his health is lost.

I've met many people,
But I've yet to behold
The fellow who hasn't
A cure for a cold.

If all the stuff that's recommended,
To cure disease could be commended,
We'd never have another ache;
We borrow, beg and buy precriptions,
From the tombs of old Egyptians—
Then discover they're a fake.

Parents who do not sow the seeds of truth in the fertile brains of their young children, leave fertile fields for sordid weeds.

Man thinks a lot of stocks and bonds
And of the things that he can sell;
But seldom thinks of stagnant ponds
Or the microbes in the well.
